12 1-2 P. C. RAISE UNSATISFACTORY

Dissatisfied With 12 1-2 P. C. Increases Recently Granted by N. E. Textile Mills, the Executive Committee of the U. T. W. Decide on Campaign Not Only For an Additional Increase of 14.9 P. C. But For Cut in Hours

NEW YORK, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) Dissatisfied with the 12½ per cent. wage increases recently granted by New England textile mills, the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America have decided on a campaign not only for an additional increase of 14.9 per cent. but for a cut in working hours from 54 to 48, President Thomas F. McMahon announced today.

This decision, Mr. McMahon said, was reached at a special meeting of the board yesterday. James Starr, vice president of the union, will leave for Manchester, N. H., tomorrow, to take charge of the campaign, which will be started intensively next Monday.

"In a month or so," he declared, "we expected to be in a position where we can take the 48 hour week and the additional wage increase needed to bring our workers back to the pre-1920 wage level."

Foreign language speakers are being "borrowed" from other unions for the campaign, he said.

Discussing the recent wage increases announced in New England and particularly the statement of New Bedford manufacturers that the increase restored workers to the war time wage level, Mr. McMahon said:

"On Dec. 1, 1922, we demanded an increase of 29.1 per cent. which would have just brought wages back to the point they were before the 22½ per cent. cut made in December, 1920. In addition to the 12½ per cent. increase the mills have announced we require an additional increase of 14.9 to restore the old wage schedule.

"We are out for that increase."

Tenants occupying all of the dwelling house property owned by the Saco-Lowell Shops in Worthen, Dutton, Broadway and Kitson tsreets have received notices to vacate on or before May 1. Approximately 75 families received the notices on Monday, each being signed by Agent E. R. Feasler. Several of the families have lived in these corporation houses for nearly half a century.

The Saco-Lowell Shops have petitioned the city council for permission to close a portion of Worthen streets ti allow for planned factory expansion, the details of which were announced a week or 10 days ago. A public hearing was held but the council has taken no action on the request.

It is the intention of the Saco-Lowell Co. to cover practically all of the area on which these dwelling houses now stand with new manufacturing plants and the company officials hoped to secure permission to close Worthen street in time to begin raising the buildings this spring.

MERRIMACK RIVER TWELVE INCHES HIGHER THAN YESTERDAY

At 10 a. m. today the depth of the water at Pawtucket dam was just 12 inches more than it was yesterday at the same hour. The height at 11 a. m was 5½ feet over the cap of the dam. Yesterday at noon measurement, the height was 4½ ft.

Measurements taken this morning by Locks and Canals engineers showed exactly 18,800 cubic feet per second hurrying over the Pawtucket dam. At the Boott mills registration office at 8 a. m., the figures read 20,900 second-feet.

The storm of last evening perceptibly affected the increase of the volume of river waters today, the water-sheds all the way upstream adding to the Merrimack's flow.

THEY JUST COULDN'T WAIT ANY LONGER

Three kids, 11 or 12 years of age, stepped out on Sandy beach, just in back of the John C. Meyer Thread Co. yesterday afternoon at about 4.30 o'clock, stripped off to the suits they wore on their first birthday, plunged into the waters of the Merrimack and knocked the cover off spring with a vengeance.

Huge chunks of ice from New Hampshire dotted the water here and there, but these samples of dynamic American boyhood didn't give a fig, neither did they protect their bodies even with a leaf or two from this well known fruit tree.

Winter has went!

HAS BEEN ON COUNCIL TABLE SINCE JAN. 16

On January 16 Mayor Donovan's nomination of Dennis J. Murphy to succeed himself as a member of the board of public service was received by the city council. No action was taken and on vote of the body it was put on the table, where it has remained, gathering dust, ever since.

Unlike the charter under which the city operated last year, there is no provision in Plan B which outlaws or nullifies a mayoralty nomination after the expiration of 30 days and just so long as the nomination of Mr. Murphy remains in its pigeon-hole, he remains on the board as a hold-over.

BOY SCOUTS AS TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Edwin Mellen, Lowell Boy Scout Executive, and Superintendent of Police Thomas R. Atkinson conferred today with Mayor John J. Donovan relative to a proposition advanced by the executive that Boy Scouts in grammar schools be designated to serve as traffic officers for their schools for 5-minute periods before and after sessions. This work is now looked after by police officers, instructed to be in the vicinity of school houses at such hours.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MAY RECEIVE GIFT OF MONEY FOR ATHLETIC FIELD

To what extent Spalding park will be improved this year by the High School Alumni association as an athletic field for baseball, football and track teams of the local school will be discussed and probably settled at a meeting of the association to be held next Wednesday evening.

No more important meeting of the association has been called in recent years and Henry H. Harris is most anxious that the attendance will overflow Room 137 and force him to open the Irish auditorium, just next door.

It is not betraying a confidence to announce that the alumni association has high hopes of receiving a magnificent gift of money for the athletic field fund from a family not living in Lowell at present, but whose members

ALLARD INDICTED ON MORE THAN ONE COUNT BY MIDDLESEX COUNTY GRAND JURY

William J. Allard, the 20-year-old Lowell youth, charged in the local district court of feloniously assaulting Blanche Richardson of Chelmsford in a Middlesex street lodging-house on the evening of March 15, has been indicted on more than one count by the Middlesex county grand jury in session at East Cambridge.

Among the witnesses who appeared and testified for the government were Supt. of Police Thomas R. Atkinson, City Physician Michael A. Tighe and Police Officer Thomas McGreevey.

Allard was found guilty of feloniously assaulting the Richardson girl, in the local district court following his arrest by Officer McGreevey at 533 Middlesex street, to which place he is alleged to have lured the girl and committed the assault. A melodramatic note, written by the girl and appealing for help led to his apprehension. At the conclusion of the trial in the lower court, he was ordered held in $5000 bonds for the grand jury.

Gwendolyn Marshall Field Married

LONDON, April 5.(By the Associated Press)—Gwendolyn Marshall Field, granddaughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, was married this afternoon to Archibaldd Charles Edmonstone, heir of Sir Archibald Edmonstone. The ceremony in the church of St. Martin-in-the-Field here was followed by a reception at Mallhouse, home of the bride's aunt, Countess Beatty.

WAITING LIST AT STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

It seems likely that for the first time in the history of the Lowell Normal school, it soon will become necessary to establish a waiting list of young women who desire to prepare themselves for the teaching profession.

The entering class next fall necessarily must be limited to 120 new students and already more than 150 applications for admission have been received by Principal Clarence M. Weed. It is explained that not all of the applicants will be able to meet the entrance requirements so that, therefore, most of those who do meet them are likely to be admitted.

A letter just mailed to all applicants for admission by Principal Weed outlines the situation as follows:

"Because of the recent rapid increase in attendance, it has become necessary to restrict the numbers of the entering class in this school.

"There are already a considerably

Four Bandits in Touring Car Overtook Truck Laden With Alcohol

Truck Driver Refused to Stop — Bandits Cut in Ahead of Machine

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 5.—Four bandits, all heavily armed and traveling in a big touring car, overtook a truck laden with 500 gallons of alcohol at Hillsgrove, this morning, after a wild race of miles along the post road, engaged in a spectacular running gun fight with two men on the truck and finally, when the latter refused to stop, cut in ahead of them so sharply that both machines were hurled into a ditch alongside the highway.

Andrew Sherry of 79 Central street, Central Falls, R. I., owner and driver of the truck, was shot through the wrist in the course of the pistol battle in which 15 shots were exchanged. His companion, Isadore Handler of 127 North Main street, Pawtucket, was

POLE FELL ON AUTO

A. J. Shorey, Head of N. E. Velie Co., Seriously Injured in Back Bay, Boston

BOSTON, April 5.—Amos J. Shorey, president of the New England Velie Automobile Co., and eastern district representative of the National Automobile Dealers association, was seriously injured when an electric light pole fell on his automobile in the Back Bay district today.

He was badly burned and the electric shock from high voltage wires paralyzed one side of his body.

CAIRO, April 5.—The death of the Earl of Carnarvon brings into prominence in the British peerage another American woman, as the wife of Lord Portchester, the new earl, was formerly Miss Katherine F. Wendell, daughter of the late Jacob Wendell, Jr., of New York. The wedding took place in London last July.

WAGE INCREASE AT NAVY YARD MILL

The five hundred or more employes of the Merrimack Woolen Co. at the Navy Yard, Dracut, will receive an increase in wages on April 30, according to information given out at the mill office this morning. There will be no notices posted, but one of the officials stated the company will follow the action of the American Woolen Co. and the cotton mills in granting an increase. He stated the amount will approximate 12½ per cent.

At the John C. Meyer Thread Co. in Middlesex street, it was stated today that the matter of a wage increase for the 300 or more employes of the plant is being considered and the superintendent informed The Sun that something definite will be arrived at before the latter part of the month.

"There is nothing new here," said Agent Walker of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. when questioned this morning as to whether or not notices of a wage increase had been posted. "And I cannot predict what will occur during the next few days," he added.

The Lawrence is the only large textile mill in the city that has not announced a wage increase for its employes.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR MILLS HERE

Treasurer Greene of Pacific Mills, Lawrence, Discusses Southern Competition

Has Highest Confidence for Future of Pacific Plants in New England

LAWRENCE, April 5—Treasurer Edwin Farnham Greene of the Pacific mills, speaking before the overseers of the local mill last night, said that in spite of all the talk about southern competition, he had the highest confidence for the future of the Pacific plant here and in Dover, N. H.

Success in the southern mills has been due, not to long hours of work and low wages, but to efficient management, he said. He said that the mills here are being managed in a way that is bound to give them a bright future.

Mr. Greene declared that he believed in high wages and said that the Pacific had always paid as high wages as any other mill manufacturing similar goods.

"MONOPOLY" OF MINE LABOR

Special Committee Attacks Policies Followed by United Mine Workers

Constitute Chief Deterrent to Satisfactory Conditions in Coal Industry

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A special committee speaking for the bituminous coal operators, informed the coal commission in a brief filed today, that in their opinion the policies followed by the United Mine Workers of America constituted the chief deterrent to satisfactory conditions in the coal industry.

Recent periods of coal shortage and high prices, the brief declared, could be "directly traced" to the miners' union and the railway unions associated with it. It was charged that acts of intimidation and violence on the part of the United Mine Workers "are no sporadic, but systematic" and that the resort to such methods is calculated to perpetrate a monopoly of mine labor.

ST. RAILWAY COMPANY ISSUES HONOR ROLL

An honor roll bearing the names of the car operators employed by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., who during the past three months have not figured in any accident, has been issued by the company and copies are now decorating the walls of the two car conductors' lobbies, the main office of the company in this city as well as the offices of the claim agent and superintendent. The roll is signed by M. E. McCormick, manager; Thomas J. Sayers, superintendent and George W. Ensley, claim agent.

This honor roll is a sort of inducement to the men to be constantly on the lookout against accidents, or in other words a sort of safety-first

TWO STREETS BLOCKED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

An over-loaded freight train, plus the handicap of an engine that was unable to get up steam enough to pull it, effectively blocked all traffic through Merrimack and Market streets at the grade crossings for 35 minutes this morning, or from 6.15 to 6.50 o'clock. Early morning street railway service suffered considerably and only was able to resume operations when the train was cut in three sections and cars pulled away from the crossings.

The freight was being hauled from corporation yards and tracks when the blockade occurred. The conductor and crew did everything possible to relieve the congestion, but finally despaired of moving the train as a unit and broke it up to allow early morning traffic to move.

WOMAN DOMINATES JURY

Said to Lead Minority in Favor of Acquittal of Wm. Z. Foster

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 5.—(By the Associated Press) Thirteen hours and fifteen minutes of deliberation by the jury in the case of William Z. Foster, charged with criminal syndicalism, had failed to bring a verdict when the jury was locked up last night. Unless a verdict is returned Judge White said, the jurors will not be dismissed until after tomorrow.

It was rumored that the jurors stood seven to five for conviction, the minority led by Mrs. Minerva Olson, the only woman member of the jury.

At numerous times during the day the voices of jurors, raised in heated conversation, carried from the jury room. Mrs. Olson's voice seemed to dominate.

QUAKERS MAY AID IN FEEDING GERMANS

SAYS 12-HOUR DAY MUST GO

Sec. of Labor Davis Reaffirms His Belief in Trade Union Idea

Urges Labor to "Be Slow to Use Strike Weapon"—Favors Shorter Hours

WARREN, Ohio, April 5.—Secretary Davis, speaking before the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers today, reaffirmed his belief in the trade union idea, urged labor to "be slow to use the strike weapon," and declared that the 12 hour day and the seven day week in American industry must go.

"I have a firm belief," the secretary said, "that through the trade union and its general principles of right and justice we can establish the era of good will in American industry."

"Those industries which seek to perpetuate the long shift, he said, ultimately will find that it will cost more to maintain it than to reorganize on a more humane basis.

"I know," he said, "that the American people will be more than glad to stand any loss that may come because of the elimination of the 12 hour day in the steel industry. They will cheerfully pay the additional amount in their bills for steel."

OIL MILLIONAIRES AT PAWHUSKA AUCTION

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 5.—(By the Associated Press) The Constantine theatre in Pawhuska, a little movie house is today a gathering place for multi-millionaire captains of industry.

The oil kings of America and their representatives formed the audience. The play was for leases to probably the richest undeveloped oil lands in the country. The event was the 21st lease sale of the Osage Indian nation.

Thirty-two thousand acres of fuel were being offered for lease, tract by tract, to heap more into the overflowing strong boxes and swell the bank accounts of the Osages, the richest aborigines in the world.

As the sales mounted during the morning, belief was expressed by Indian agency officials and oil men that the $10,887,000 record auction of June last year might be bettered. Today's sale attracted the larger number of oil millionaires in the history of the auctions and a number of the tracts placed on the block were said to be among the most valuable offered.

DEATHS

GAUDETTE—Mrs. Octave (Molleur) Gaudette, aged 54 years, 11 months and 19 days, a well known resident of the Highlands and a prominent member of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish, died this morning at her home, 44 South Loring street. She leaves her husband, four sons, Eugene O. of Dorchester, Ernest W., Leo E. and Paul R., all of this city; a daughter, Miss Emily Gaudette of this city two grandsons; her mother, Mrs. Victorine Molleur of this city; three sisters, Mrs. P. B. McHugh of Arlington, Mrs. William Gaudette of Chelmsford and Mrs. Joseph Beausoleil of this city; three brothers, Louis, Edouard and Arthur Molleur, all of Lowell.

If Tonics Grew Hair

Or Prevented Its Faling Out

Surely you would not see so many barbers, druggists, chemists and scientists bald nor even thin haired. These men, of all people who should know what is best for hair and scalp, are subject to those very same troubles and derive NO benefit from the use of tonics, shampoos, greases, ointments, etc.

Is it possible that these preparations are only "masquerading" as dandruff cures and hair growers? From the great number of young and old bald heads, more common than ever before and INCREASING daily, it is very evident that these remedies are of NO help to you.

If this is true, what hope is there for the thousands of men and women who are anxious to preserve, promote growth of hair and secure relief from dandruff and itching scalp?

There IS a way and a remedy that will ABSOLUTELY prevent loss of hair, relieve dandruff, dry, scaly and itching scalp and PROMOTE a healthy GROWTH for men, women and children.

Johnson, rendered the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Frances Tighe and Mr. D. S. O'Brien. Mr. Johnson presiding at the organ. The bearers were Michael Gorman, Peter Garrity, Thomas Brennan, James Howe, Martin Sullivan, Patrick Flanagan, Michael E. Rynne and Michael J. Rynne of Boston. There were many floral and spiritual offerings. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Fr. Curtin. The funeral was under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell and Sons.

MARREN—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Marren took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock, from the funeral chambers of Undertakers Higgins Bros. and proceeded to the Sacred Heart church where, at nine o'clock, a funeral high mass was celebrated by Rev. Charles A. Barry, O.M.I. The choir rendered the Gregorian mass. Solos were rendered by Master James Conry, Miss Dorothy Ward and Miss Veronica Barr. Mr. John J. Kelly presided at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings and numerous spiritual bouquets from friends and acquaintances. The casket was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. Owen McArdle, Edward Carolin, Patrick McCabe, Winfield Montgomery and John and Patrick Ward, brothers of the deceased. Attending the funeral were friends and relatives from Woonsocket, R. I., Providence, Boston and New Haven, Conn. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, the committal prayers being read at the grave by Rev. Charles A. Barry, O.M.I. The funeral was largely attended and under the direction of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

MORAN—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Moran took place this morning from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah (Moran) Constantineau, 598 Central street, at 9.15 o'clock, and a solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Peter's church at 9.45 o'clock, with Rev. Francis T. Shea as celebrant, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan as deacon and Rev. Peter T. Linehan as subdeacon. The choir sang the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Mr. James E. Donnelly and Miss Mary Rynne. The organ was presided over by Miss Gertrude Quigley. The casket was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. James Powers, Walter Powers, Perley Constantineau, Patrick McGarr, George Rafferty and William Bradley. There was a profusion of floral and spiritual offerings. Among the visitors from out-of-town were Mrs. J. T. Crowley of Abington and Mrs. Lou Farnum of Rockland. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Francis T. Shea read the committal prayers. The funeral arrangements were under the direction of Undertaker George B. McKenna.

Columbia, Dartmouth, M.I.T. and

HOSTEY—The funeral of Thomas Hostey took place this morning at 8 o'clock from his late home, 462 Chelmsford street, and was attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9 o'clock a funeral high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. John M. Manion. The choir sang the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Mary Rynne and James E. Donnelly. Miss Gertrude Quigley presided at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful floral and many spiritual offerings. The bearers were James Gannon, John Graham, William Graham and James Gannon, Jr. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Manion. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks to all those who assisted in any way to lighten our burden of sorrow in the loss of a husband, father and brother; and for the beautiful floral offerings and spiritual bouquets, especially the employes of the Merrimack Cloth room and 7-4 Twisting room of the Boott mills. We assure you it will ever be cherished in our memory.

WAS RETURNED TO LYMAN SCHOOL

Earl Miller, 17, on parole from the Lyman school, admitted breaking and entering and larceny charges preferred against him by the local police yesterday, and was returned to the Westboro institution. He was arrested by Inspector John J. Walsh on the complaint of a Gorham street resident after he had broken into a house in that section of the city and stolen a watch and several other pieces of jewelry. He is also suspected of soliciting magazine subscriptions under false pretenses.

greater number of applicants than can be admitted next September and it is probable that no students will be admitted who have not met completely the requirements for admission either through certifications from the high school or through the entrance examinations.

"Consequently, I am sending this memorandum to the applicants to impress upon them the desirability of making their preparation as thorough as possible and in the case of students in the high schools getting as many marks of certificate grade as possible. Very often it happens that an applicant has received in the high school a mark almost high enough for certification, when by a little more effort the certificate mark might have been gained. This is particularly important to consider in the case of the later years in English, modern languages and history.

"It is important also that all applicants, who do not have sufficient certificate points for entrance, present themselves for examination June 7 and 8."

OPEN BIDS ON HAY

Among several bids opened today by the city purchasing agent were the following on a requisition to furnish two cars of hay to the street department: Paul Vigeant, $27.90 per ton; Dexter Co., $28.90; W. M. Wilder, $28; Foster Grain Co., $28.50. Bids also were opened to supply tea, rolled oats, beans and coffee to the Chelmsford Street hospital.

COMPREHENSIVE REPORT

Major Jeyes Reviews Work of Fire and Accident Prevention in Schools

Following is the report of Major Walter R. Jeyes, director of fire prevention and accident instruction in the local public schools, covering his work between the dates of Nov. 20 and Dec. 22 of last year. This report recently was submitted to the school committee which body requested its publication in the daily press:

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 22, '22.

To:—The school board of the city of Lowell, Mass.

Subject:—Fire and accident supervision in Lowell public schools from Nov. 20th to Dec. 22nd (inc.), 1922.

The following report is as far as I am able to report on for the time available, and to enable me to visit and talk and instruct in as many schools as possible.

Lowell high. No fire drill has been held in this school as yet, the master stating that the outside conditions of the streets are in no condition for same. Fire hose in the old building should be taken outside and tested as I believe that it is in an unsatisfactory condition and partly unserviceable. All doors of the common glass kind should have suitable guards placed on them. All boxes containing waste paper in basement should be emptied daily. All these boxes should be of metal. The extra fire alarm system in the old building should be removed. The room in the annex or drill shed which houses an electric motor should have a sign painted upon the door of same 'dangerous, keep locked. 500 volts!' All electric wires in the attics which are not now being used, whether dead or alive should be removed.

Continuation, girls' vocational and all classes housed in high school annex or drill shed. Conditions good with the exception that electric push buttons should be installed on each floor. As it is now there is only one push button for the fire signal and that is in the room occupied by the principal of the girls' vocational school.

Boys' vocational school.—Fire exits are good but not marked. Mr. Fisher is to attend to this at once. The gongs are O.K. The fire system is good. Extra push buttons are needed in some rooms and especially in the auto repair shop. Guards should be placed for some of the machinery and belts now in use, as they are dangerous as they are now. The first aid cabinet is O.K., and instruction in same good. The sanitary room in this building is not of the best and to my mind needs attention. The building itself is very poor, and is sadly in need of extensive repairs in as far as the fire hazard is concerned.

Agawam primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school. Hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Electric bells of some kind should be installed in this school.

Ames street primary.—There are no bells in this school. They use hand bells only. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Electric bells of some kind should be installed in this school.

Abraham Lincoln school.—Bells in this school are in good shape, but they cannot be heard in all rooms. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Approach signs needed.

Bartlett, junior, grammar, primary and kindergarten.—I have not completed my visit in this school. Bells were in course of repair while I was there so that I did not attempt to try them. Safety instruction is good. Fire exits and general condition as to safety are good.

Cabot street primary.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. There is considerable sewer gas trouble in this school.

Carter street primary.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Cross street primary. Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Charles street primary.—Bells are unsatisfactory. They cannot be heard at times. Safety instruction and exits are good. Approach signs are needed. General condition as to safety—good.

Colburn primary and kindergarten, Charles street.—Bells out of commission most of the time. They do not ring. Safety instruction and exits are goods. Approach signs needed. The general condition as to safety is good.

Central street primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school. They rely on hand bells only. Safety instruction and exits are good. General condition as to safety—good. Approach signs are needed.

Colburn grammar school.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general conditions as to safety—excellent.

Dover street primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school and they use hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Edson grammar school.—Bells O.K. Safety instruction is good. Exits are poor. They are narrow. The children hang their clothes on the stairs, which is dangerous. General condition as to safety is so that I consider it almost dangerous to allow children to attend this school for the reason that the floors sag and creak every time anyone moves and I believe that some day there might be a loss of life.

Elliot primary.—Bells are O.K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Franklin primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Grand street primary.—There are no bells of any kind in this school. The teacher uses a small whistle for a fire signal. This is not practical. The safety instruction is good. The exits are fair. The building is heated by stoves. The street, fire and general condition at this school as to safety is very poor. There should be at all dismissals of this school a police officer posted at the corner of Westford and Grand streets so as to avoid the possibilities of an accident.

Green grammar school. The bells are O.K. Safety instruction is good. The exits are fair. Juvenile traffic squad assisted by police officer is doing good work at this school at all dismissals. General condition as to safety of building is fair. The three classes of retarded children which are on the upper floor would, to my mind, be better if it were possible to place them on the first floor. Approach signs needed.

Greenhalge grammar school. The bells are O.K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Howard street primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction and exits are good. This building is heated by stoves, and allowing for this the general condition as to safety is good.

Laura Lee primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Lakeview avenue primary.—There are no bells in this school and they rely on hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Electric bells should be installed in this school. Approach signs needed.

Lexington avenue primary.—There are no bells in this school and hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

London street primary.—There are no bells in this school and they also depend on hand bells. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

West London street primary.—This is a one-room school conducted upstairs. The lower would, to my mind, be far better if it might be used as a class room instead of the upper floor. The building is heated by a stove. The only bell in the building is a hand bell and there being only one class in the building it might be applicable. The exits, safety instruction are good, and general condition as to safety—fair.

Lyon street primary.—There are no bells in this school and they depend on hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Middlesex Village.—The bells are O. K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety are good.

C. W. Morey junior high and grammar.—There are two bell systems in this building which should be connected so that the alarm might be rung from the master's office. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Moody primary and kindergarten. High street.—There are no bells in this building. Hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Moody grammar school. The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Morey junior high and grammar.—There are two bell systems in this building which should be connected so that the alarm might be rung from the master's office. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pawtucket kindergarten.—Bells, safety instruction and exits—good. General condition as to safety might be better if the trap door that is at the entrance of the front door might be removed to some other place.

Pawtucket grammar and primary.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pine street primary and kindergarten.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pond street primary.—There are no bells in this building and hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Powell street primary.—There are no bells in this building, hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Riverside grammar and primary.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Linoleum Floors Reduce the Noise Nuisance

BIG cities are noisy. Big offices are noisy. Any place where a number of people gather is filled with a medley of footsteps, voices, machines, bells, rustles, and squeaks.

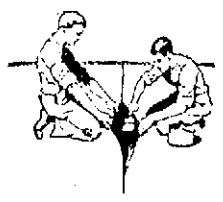

Floors that make for silence make for less distraction and greater efficiency.

Linoleum is a quiet floor. It does more than hush the clatter of footfalls. It muffles miscellaneous noises and subdues sound.

In addition to lessening the noise nuisance in a store, office or public building, floors of linoleum are generally cleaner than other floors. The reason? Simply that linoleum is non-absorbent, and so easy to clean that surface cleaning is thorough cleaning.

When waxed and polished, linoleum takes a beautiful finish. The thin film of wax serves not only as a protection, but actually deepens and mellows the color of the floor. A linoleum floor will steadily get better-looking through the years, with proper waxing care.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retrimming. Such a floor is smooth and tight

These qualities of linoleum floors are easy to understand when you consider what linoleum is — a mixture of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil pressed on tough burlap.

The Doane Street Office Building, Boston, Mass., has a floor of 5,000 square yards of Armstrong's 3-16 inch Plain Brown Linoleum

You know that cork is resilient, moisture-proof, durable, a nonconductor of heat. Linseed oil is also extremely tough and resilient. The burlap back gives linoleum strength. Thus linoleum is a floor material that has practically every quality that can be desired in a floor.

Armstrong's Linoleum

Armstrong's Linoleum can be bought in different colors to suit individual tastes of business requirements. Your architect, contractor, or any good linoleum merchant can give you information on the economy of its use and its low maintenance cost. We will gladly give him data and specifications for laying linoleum over concrete or wood.

Six-Year-Old Lowell Boy Elected Member of Fish and Game Club

Scene—Pine street school, Lowell.
Time—Right now—today—any day except Saturday and Sunday.
Place—First grade room. Miss Swayne, instructor.
Cast—John Joseph Barrows, aged 6 going on 7, principal lead. Scenery all choked up with boys and girls of about the same age—dramatis personae.
(Now go on with the story:—)
"Where do you live, Johnny?"
"No. 3 Fairfield street, Lowell."
"What is your father's name, Johnny?"
"Frederick W. Barrows."
"Go to the Pine street school, play baseball and marbles and everything."
"Belong to any clubs or fraternal associations, Johnny?"

JOHN JOSEPH BARROWS

(Curtain!)
And Johnny Barrows, six years old, excellent example of the Barrows brain and brawn of red-blooded all-Americanism, spoke the solemn truth.
For Johnny Barrows of the Pine street primary school and No. 3 Fairfield street was formally elected, and unanimously, a member of the ten-year-old Lowell Fish and Game association at last Tuesday evening's joyous annual meeting in Odd Fellows hall, Middlesex street.
Merry, smiling Johnny Barrows also bears another distinction that must not be overlooked in this historical sketch. He is today the youngest member of any similar field and stream sporting organization in all New England—and possibly in the country at large, too.
The honors rest lightly upon this happy lad, who is one of a family of six healthy "three-and-three" boys and girls, well-bred children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Barrows of No. 3 Fairfield street.
The father of this growing anti-race suicide family has a popular place of business at 646 Gorham street in the Davis square section of trade, and has been a member of the Lowell Fish and Game club for many years. He is an expert rod and gun man of the outdoor fraternity, a bird hunter of long experience and has a closet full of modern fishing lines, rods, hooks, sinkers and colorful flies, etc., at his residence on Fairfield street, that would be hard to duplicate in a one-man sportsman's haven of necessary game-collecting utensils and accessories.
There is no more popular member of the local field and stream organization than Merchant Barrows. He is an ardent club fan and supporter of all good works performed by the Lowell sporting organization every day in the year.
It was a natural thing, of course, for the Fairfield street sportsman to prepare the way for his boys who are fast growing up. So he considered it entirely within the proper form to enroll his six-year-old Johnny in the Lowell Fish and Game association, so as to have at least one Barrows' name on the membership rolls in case anything should happen as it happened several years ago, when Mr. Barrows, good hunter, met with a rather serious accident while out in the fields and woods on a tour of the bird gunning territories. Accidents will happen, of course, and this one was rather unfortunate for Brother Barrows, but he lived to tell the tale and keep up his membership in the sporting club where he has many intimate friendships.
And so sonny John Joseph Barrows is today a full-fledged club member in case anything happens again.
The reading of the name of the Pine street schoolboy at Tuesday night's meeting, when a roll of nearly 1,000 names was called, caused a hit of a jubilee impromptu, and everybody present, when the 6-year-old's name was read and quickly endorsed for membership, applauded and said they were glad to see a man prepare for a continuation of the paternal name and fame down through the ages to come, just as it should be, of course.
The six-year-old member of the Fish and Game association was born in Lowell on July 9, 1916. He gravely told a boyhood friend of his day before yesterday that he "missed the Fourth of July that year by just five days, but was glad he came."
The Barrows family enjoy the summer months far from sizzling Lowell and baking pavements, for the Barrows' camp at Nabnassett in the town of Westford, is known for miles around as a haven of happy folks, relatives and neighbors, as well as an "open house" at all times for the steadily increasing members of the Lowell Fish and Game association.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

EXECUTION OF PRELATE

ROME, April 5. (By the Associated Press.)—Pope Pius and Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, are discussing the advisability of formally protesting before the world against the execution of Monsignor Butchkavitch, vicar general of the Roman Catholic church in Russia. They are also considering what form the protest should assume.

Says Execution Justified

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Execution of Vicar General Butchkaitch of the Roman Catholic church, by soviet authorities was justified, Joseph P. Cannon, chairman of the workers party of America, declared in an address here last night. The statement drew applause from the audience of about 100 persons.
Cannon, who said he had recently toured Russia, declared the soviet officials had evidence the Catholic prelate they executed had aided enemies of Russia.

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR K. K. K. LEADERS

ATLANTA, Ga., April 5.—Warrants were issued late yesterday for N. N. Furney, cashier of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, charging him with embezzlement of $80,000, and for T. J. McKinnon, chief of the investigating department, charging embezzlement of $20,000, according to the sheriff's office. The warrants were sworn to by E. J. Jones, an associate of Emperor William J. Simmons.
Associates of Simmons said other warrants might be taken out and the the charges against the two officials followed a day of investigation at the Imperial palace, official headquarters of the Klan, while Simmons was temporarily in charge yesterday.

TO FORCE WITNESSES TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5—Court orders directing witnesses to answer questions will be sought by state attorney General Carl Sherman in his investigation of the slaying of Clarence J. Peters of Haverhill, Mass., by Waller S. Ward.
Several witnesses, including Ward's brother, Ralph, and Ward's counsel, have declined to give information regarding the circumstances leading up to the killing which Ward claimed was the climax of a blackmail plot.
The investigation was adjourned yesterday until Monday.

CARP TO BOX LANGFORD

How He Cured His Rupture

His Remedy and Book Sent Free

Capt. Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and truss after truss. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abhorrent operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.
Capt. Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man.
Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. Every ruptured person in the world should have the Capt. Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own home without any trouble. The book and medicine are FREE. They will be sent prepaid to any rupture sufferer who will fill out the below coupon. But send it right away—now—before you put down this paper.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and disease symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

is an eminent physician's best blood prescription, standardized. It is recommended for all anaemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any drug store.

REPORT MODEL MARRIED

Police Investigate Story of Reported Elopement of Dorothy Keenan

NEW YORK, April 5—Marriage records in nearby towns in New Jersey were being searched today by New York police officers to determine if Dorothy Keenan, slain model, had been secretly married under an assumed name, to a young man of wealth, shortly before she was chloroformed.
The police were told that the model had confided to her close friends that she had eloped to New Jersey at the tag end of an all night party, and gone through a marriage ceremony.
When her friends pressed her for the name of her husband, she evaded a direct answer, but named two men often seen in her company.
One of the men, whose name was not made public, admitted he had often associated with the model but denied that he had married her. This man was quoted as saying he was introduced to her by the same girl who introduced J. Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia to Miss Keenan.

Miss Nicklin, who died recently at Foleshill, Warwickshire, England, had lived in one house 79 years, never sleeping outside it a single night.

GERMAN UNIONS ACT

Appeal to Workers of World to Do Utmost to Avoid French Domination

LONDON, April 5—German labor unions, says a Berlin despatch to the Central News, have issued an appeal to the Workers of the World urging them to do their utmost to avoid the danger of French domination which, it is declared, does not affect Germany alone.

GANG LEADER FLEES

Gerald Chapman, Head of Million Dollar Robbery, Escapes From Hospital

ATHENS, Ga., April 5—Gerald Chapman, gang leader in a million dollar mail robbery in New York in 1921, escaped last night from an Athens hospital where he was being treated after having been shot three times when he was recaptured after a sensational break from the federal prison at Atlanta, less than a week ago.

LINOLEUM CAME OUT OF THE KITCHEN

WHAT brought linoleum out of the kitchen? Two things. The beautiful, tasteful patterns of modern Armstrong's Linoleum made them desirable in other rooms.

Second, linoleum has been tested in the kitchen. As a kitchen floor, linoleum proved durable, easily cleaned, non-absorbent, restful and quiet.

You can't confine a good floor to the kitchen. Decorators began to see the possibilities of the new Armstrong designs and colorings for bedrooms, dining-rooms and living-rooms. Architects are now specifying floors of Armstrong's Linoleum. Women who put linoleum floors in their homes are pleased with them.

You, too, may need a new linoleum floor this spring—to cover an old badly worn softwood floor or replace a hardwood floor that needs frequent refinishing. You will like the beautiful designs in Armstrong's Linoleum we are now offering. Come in and see our stock while it is still fresh and complete.

SHOOTS WIFE AND COMPANION

Panic in Pittsburgh Movie Theatre When Man Opens Fire in Balcony

PITTSBURGH, April 5—An audience of several hundred men, women and children absorbed in a screen drama at a North Side playhouse was converted into a panic stricken, stampeding mob late last night, when Gustave Lieson, waving a revolver, stalked into an aisle in the balcony and opened fire. Seven shots were fired in rapid succession.

When the lights were switched on, a man and woman were found slumped in their seats unconscious.

The woman was Lieson's wife and the man, Edward B. Weigner, her escort. Mrs. Lieson was shot in the temple, back of the head, right shoulder and neck. Weigner had three wounds in his head.

Physicians said Weigner would recover, but held little hope for Mrs. Lieson.

Lieson, whose military service record showed him to be an expert marksman, fled after the shooting, but was arrested an hour later. He told the police he had been "waiting for this chance for months."

BILL LIMITS SCHOOL COMMITTEE POWERS

BOSTON, April 5.—In the Massachusetts senate yesterday the committee on municipal finance reported in a new draft of a bill, based on the petition of Representative Bates of Salem, limiting the powers of school committees to expend the public funds. The bill, which is a long one, provides that in the cities and towns in the state, except Boston, school committees must not exceed their appropriations except in cases of emergency, that the appropriations of such committees must be divided between salaries and maintenance, and that money appropriated for one of those purposes cannot be transferred to the other. The bill provides also that even in cases of emergency the school committees of cities cannot exceed their appropriations unless the expenditure is approved by a two-thirds vote of the city council, or in towns by a two-thirds vote of the board of selectmen.

The committee hearings on this bill roused great interest and attracted large crowds, representatives of school committees from various cities and towns protested vigorously against the bill.

N. E. ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES

PORTLAND, Me., April 5.—The spring convention of the New England association of colleges and secondary schools will be held here on April 20 and 21. The presidents of the four Maine colleges will be guests.

Speakers at the opening session are to be Nathaniel H. Batchelder, headmaster of Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn., and Alfred H. Hitchcock, head of the English department of Hartford High school. The former will speak on "Meeting the Needs of the Pupil Who Is Different" and the latter on "The Teaching of English Literature."

CENTRALVILLE YOUNG MEN ENTERTAIN

Odd Fellows hall in Bridge street, was crowded last evening, on lively minstrel show, "A Night in Harlem," being the attraction. The entertainment, snappy throughout, was given by a group of well known Centralville young men.

The two end men, Al Drouin and Francis McCafferty, proved ideal for the tasks assigned and were responsible for a good measure of the fun-making. James White as interlocutor, has an excellent tenor voice and handled his part well.

A feature of the evening was the hit made by Leo Leclair, who sang a character song, "Dustin' Out Odd Fellows Hall," words written by Leo and the music by Harold Friedman. The evening's accompanists were Friedman and Stront. General dancing followed the entertainment. The program:

Orchestra
Opening chorus, "Tomorrow, Homesick and Carolinn."
Yodeling solo, "Silver Moon"
Leo Christian.
End song, "Lovin' Sam"
Francis McCafferty.

PROTEST MOVIES IN BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, April 5.—The traditional dignity of Brookline, fashionable suburb of Boston, would become a thing of the past, if motion picture theatres were permitted within the town limits, citizens declared at a mass meeting last night. They were gathered to voice a protest against the granting of two motion picture licenses.

School principals and teachers urged that Brookline children would neglect their outdoor exercise should the theatres be erected, while society leaders stood up to warn against possible loss of prestige and dignity.

WAGES INCREASED

YORK, S. C., April 5.—Wage increases of ten per cent. were announced yesterday by two York county textile mills, the Cannon mills, employing about 500 operatives, and the Neely cotton mills. The increase at the latter ended a walkout of a hundred employes Tuesday, in a demand for higher wages.

The furnaces in London's famous Whitefriars glassworks, recently extinguished because the plant was to be moved, had been alight continuously for nearly 250 years.

have local high school connections. Without stating even the approximate size of the gift, it may be said it would be sufficiently large to allow a discussion of original plans of development, including the erection of a stadium, locker building, acquisition of additional land and the lay-out of separate field areas for football and baseball, with a cinder running track encircling the football gridiron.

Nothing definite concerning this potential gift can be said at present, however, but it is expected that a positive answer will be received before the association meets next Wednesday night, so as to allow intelligent discussion of development plans.

If this gift is not forthcoming the association will be face to face with a much different proposition, that if making whatever repairs are possible with the $5000 or $6000 available. Placing the grandstand and bleachers in a safe condition, the construction of toilets and shower bath rooms beneath the grandstand and repairs to the fence probably would represent all that possibly could be done with such a limited amount of money.

However, a thorough discussion of the matter will feature the meeting of the association and a large representation of the alumni is urged.

The association, also, will be called upon to formulate plans for the presentation of a portrait of Cyrus Wendall Irish to the school. The portrait is now being painted by Mrs. Mary Earl Wood and sufficient money is at hand to cover this cost, but approximately $50 additional is needed with which to purchase a suitable frame. The picture will be the gift of the Alumni association to the school and when presented undoubtedly will be hung in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium.

AFTER TWO YEARS OF NERVOUSNESS

Mrs. Morris Found the Remedy That Restored Her to Health and Strength

There are functional nervous disorders that do not yield to the ordinary methods of treatment, but have been entirely corrected by the use of a proper tonic. There are many people suffering from neurasthenia who can overcome their trouble by the simple treatment that Mrs. George H. Morris of No. 365 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., used so successfully. She says:

"I suffered from nervousness for two years and at times was confined to bed. I was in an extremely run-down condition and had taken several kinds of treatment with but little benefit. I was nervous, suffered from dizzy spells and neuralgia. I had severe headaches and there was a numbness in my hands and arms. One day my husband brought home a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I saw great improvement while I was still using the first box of the pills and have recommended them to others who are now taking them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a body-building tonic. They increase the power of the blood to carry new life and energy to every part of the system. If there is no organic trouble this is almost sure to result in benefit that the patient quickly notices in increased appetite, better digestion, sound, refreshing sleep and general good health.

Merrimack River Higher Than Yesterday

Continued

Canals offices before 11 o'clock this morning, announced that there is no ice anywhere in the upper Merrimack this side of Manchester, N. H. It had been reported that large quantities of ice, broken up, were on the way from the Manchester district and might cause havoc down in the Lowell territory, but the corporation engineers watching the river's flow and making hourly measurements at the canal heads and Pawtucket dam, stated that no ice is coming along the stream, which is entirely free from any ice or debris as far north as Manchester.

Above that New Hampshire city, however, practically none of the ice that covered the stream all winter, has shown indications of moving or breaking up. The ice is not very thick, and when it moves from the upper miles of the river districts, the Locks and Canals engineers and watchers for trouble do not expect anything serious to happen, because the river ice melts quickly when broken up.

The new flashboards installed on sections of the Pawtucket dam this week were placed in three-foot lengths. Sometimes the width is five feet, but that was not necessary at this time with the river far from as high as it has usually been at this time of the year.

High waters would call for even lower flashboards, and yet Locks and Canals experts can remember when at one time it was necessary to erect flashboards 12 feet high in order to conserve enough water to keep the mill canalways filled, so low was the river level and downward sweep from the northern tributaries and natural water-sheds.

Engineers expect no very high record waters this month. So far as great floods are concernad, they occur only about once in half a century, the engineers claim. While it is true that Lowell had a rather serious river overflow about 50 years ago and another one in the year 1896, there are actually no big waters with incidental flood damages more than twice in a century, so the expert river-watchers said this morning. That is one reason why during all the years of the century, mills have rarely indeed been closed down because of high waters that couldn't be taken care of in the usual way.

The "game" of keeping the power canals full when the mills are in operation, is one that keeps a good many engineers and gate-tenders busy every day in the year. The canal waters must not be lowered, too much water going over the dam is a dead loss and must be checked so it won't be wasted—there must never be too much or too little water in the channels leading from the gates—and so it goes every week of the year and every year in succession.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart.

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520 Sprague street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1, $2.50, $5.—Adv.

LINOLEUM CAME OUT OF THE KITCHEN

WHAT brought linoleum out of the kitchen? Two things. The beautiful, tasteful patterns of modern Armstrong's Linoleum made them desirable in other rooms.

Second, linoleum has been tested in the kitchen. As a kitchen floor, linoleum proved durable, easily cleaned, non-absorbent, restful and quiet.

You can't confine a good floor to the kitchen. Decorators began to see the possibilities of the new Armstrong designs and colorings for bedrooms, dining-rooms and living-rooms. Architects are now specifying floors of Armstrong's Linoleum. Women who put linoleum floors in their homes are pleased with them.

You, too, may need a new linoleum floor this spring—to cover an old badly worn softwood floor or replace a hardwood floor that needs frequent refinishing. You will like the beautiful designs in Armstrong's Linoleum we are now offering. Come in and see our stock while it is still fresh and complete.

SHOOTS WIFE AND COMPANION

PITTSBURGH, April 5—An audience of several hundred men, women and children absorbed in a screen drama at a North Side playhouse was converted into a panic stricken, stampeding mob late last night, when Gustave Lieson, waving a revolver, stalked into an aisle in the balcony and opened fire. Seven shots were fired in rapid succession.

When the lights were switched on, a man and woman were found slumped in their seats unconscious.

The woman was Lieson's wife and the man, Edward B. Weigner, her escort. Mrs. Lieson was shot in the temple, back of the head, right shoulder and neck. Weigneer had three wounds in his head.

Physicians said Weigner would recover, but held little hope for Mrs. Lieson.

Lieson, whose military service record showed him to be an expert marksman, fled after the shooting, but was arrested an hour later. He told the police he had been "waiting for this chance for months."

BILL LIMITS SCHOOL COMMITTEE POWERS

BOSTON, April 5.—In the Massachusetts senate yesterday the committee on municipal finance reported in a new draft of a bill, based on the petition of Representative Bates of Salem, limiting the powers of school committees to expend the public funds. The bill, which is a long one, provides that in the cities and towns in the state, except Boston, school committees must not exceed their appropriations except in cases of emergency, that the appropriations of such committees must be divided between salaries and maintenance, and that money appropriated for one of those purposes cannot be transferred to the other. The bill provides also that even in cases of emergency the school committees of cities cannot exceed their appropriations unless the expenditure is approved by a two-thirds vote of the city council, or in towns by a two-thirds vote of the board of selectmen.

The committee hearings on this bill roused great interest and attracted large crowds, representatives of school committees from various cities and towns protested vigorously against the bill.

WAGES INCREASED

YORK, S. C., April 5.—Wage increases of ten per cent. were announced yesterday by two York county textile mills, the Cannon mills, employing about 500 operatives, and the Neely cotton mills. The increase at the latter ended a walkout of a hundred employes Tuesday, in a demand for higher wages.

The furnaces in London's famous Whitefriars glassworks, recently extinguished because the plant was to be moved, had been alight continuously for nearly 250 years.

There are many people suffering from neurasthenia who can overcome their trouble by the simple treatment that Mrs. George H. Morris of No. 365 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., used so successfully. She says:

"I suffered from nervousness for two years and at times was confined to bed. I was in an extremely run-down condition and had taken several kinds of treatment with but little benefit. I was nervous, suffered from dizzy spells and neuralgia. I had severe headaches and there was a numbness in my hands and arms. One day my husband brought home a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I saw great improvement while I was still using the first box of the pills and have recommended them to others who are now taking them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a body-building tonic. They increase the power of the blood to carry new life and energy to every part of the system. If there is no organic trouble this is almost sure to result in benefit that the patient quickly notices in increased appetite, better digestion, sound, refreshing sleep and general good health.

Continued

Canals offices before 11 o'clock this morning, announced that there is no ice anywhere in the upper Merrimack this side of Manchester, N. H. It had been reported that large quantities of ice, broken up, were on the way from the Manchester district and might cause havoc down in the Lowell territory, but the corporation engineers watching the river's flow and making hourly measurements at the canal heads and Pawtucket dam, stated that no ice is coming along the stream, which is entirely free from any ice or debris as far north as Manchester.

Above that New Hampshire city, however, practically none of the ice that covered the stream all winter, has shown indications of moving or breaking up. The ice is not very thick, and when it moves from the upper miles of the river districts, the Locks and Canals engineers and watchers for trouble do not expect anything serious to happen, because the river ice melts quickly when broken up.

The new flashboards installed on sections of the Pawtucket dam this week were placed in three-foot lengths Sometimes the width is five feet, but that was not necessary at this time with the river far from as high as it has usually been at this time of the year.

High waters would call for even lower flashboards, and yet Locks and Canals experts can remember when at one time it was necessary to erect flashboards 13 feet high in order to conserve enough water to keep the mill canalways filled, so low was the river level and downward sweep from the northern tributaries and natural water-sheds.

Engineers expect no very high record waters this month. So far as great floods are concerned, they occur only about once in half a century, the engineers claim. While it is true that Lowell had a rather serious river overflow about 50 years ago and another one in the year 1896, there are actually no big waters with incidental flood damages more than twice in a century, so the expert river-watchers said this morning. That is one reason why during all the years of the century, mills have rarely indeed been closed down because of high waters that couldn't be taken care of in the usual way.

The "game" of keeping the power canals full when the mills are in operation, is one that keeps a good many engineers and gate-tenders busy every day in the year. The canal waters must not be lowered, too much water going over the dam is a dead loss and must be checked so it won't be wasted—there must never be too much or too little water in the channels leading from the gates—and so it goes every week of the year and every year in succession.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart.

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520 Sprague street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1, $2.50, $5.—Adv.

Three Lowell Representatives Vote Against Old Age Pension and Two Vote in Favor

REP. HENRY ACHIN

REP. CHARLES H. SLOWEY

REP. OWEN E. BRENNEN

REP. VICTOR F. JEWETT

REP. FRED O. LEWIS

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 5—Three of Lowell's representatives voted against old age pensions and two of them voted in favor of the proposition in the house yesterday. The question was on reconsidering the favorable action taken by the house when it referred the bill of the Fraternal Order of Eagles back to the committee. The house changed its mind and rejected an adverse report of the committee on social welfare. Yesterday the lower branch changed its mand and rejected the bill. Reconsideration prevailed, 118 to 105 and the bill was rejected, 104 to 120.

Reps. Owen E. Brennen and Charles H. Slowey voted against reconsideration and Reps. Henry Achin, Jr., Victor F. Jewett and Fred O. Lewis in favor of it.

The vote came after a spirited debate. Although the fight against reconsideration of the favorable vote of last Thursday was led by Rep. Edward F. Harrington of Fall River, democratic floor leader, republicans joined with the democrats in voting against reconsidering the matter.

Rep. John C. Hull of Leominster, house chairman of the judiciary committee, made the principal speech against the bill and in favor of reconsideration. He claimed that the bill substituted provided for the establishment of a non-contributory system of old age pensions. The legislature has always been against a system of non-contributory pensions, he said. He thought that the house made a mistake last week and should reconsider the matter.

Rep. Webster, in his speech against reconsideration resented the statement which he said appeared in a Boston newspaper to the effect that the democrats "stole a march" on the republicans and finding that many of the latter had left the chamber last week, organized their forces and secured enough votes to substitute the bill. He asserted that many republicans have been prominently identified with the agitation for a sane old-age pension system to replace the present system of special pensions to individuals.

Although Gov. Cox recommended in his inaugural address that a definite beginning be made this year toward the establishment of a system of old-age pensions it is apparent that the governor made no attempt to influence the legislature to pass his proposal. The governor's suggestion as that a commission be appointed to serve for ten years and gather statistics and other data concerning the old age pension scheme and in the meantime the state, by an appropriation of $100,000 and the general public by subscription, establish an old age pension fund from which payments would be made at the end of ten years.

Although the matter had been turned down this year, the agitation was so strong during the present session, that prominent members of the republican party in the legislature have expressed the opinion that within the next year or two something definite will have to be done in the matter.

FATHER FOUND TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY VERY SICK

Was Constipated, Thin, No Appetite, Had Swollen Lips, Stomach Pains

A hardy woodsman and enthusiastic fisherman of Maine, has a very interesting record to report. He writes: "As a boy, thirty-seven years ago, I began to take Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. Once, after six months hauling logs, I came out of the woods and found my 2-year-old boy very sick. He was thin, had no appetite, had swollen lips, pains in stomach, was suffering from constipation for months.

"I had not been in the house an hour when an elderly lady—a good neighbor—came in and told my wife to get a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir, saying she had seen numbers of similar cases which it had relieved.

"My boy was given a half dozen doses of Dr. True's Elixir, when he passed a lot of worms and right away began to show improvement; he began soon to eat with a relish, play around and look healthy. He did not have to take a full bottle, and in later years, whenever he got off his feed, a few doses would straighten him out quick.

"When I get constipated, a couple of teaspoons of Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, fix me O.K.

"My son is grown up now and has a family of six children, and he has practically raised his family on Dr. True's Elixir. The children go out and get hold of something not good for them. It's hard to watch all the children, and so when they eat something they shouldn't and get sick, Dr. True's Elixir is given and the family is put in good shape again.

"I have read in the papers you have to take a half a dozen bottles of some remedies, but you don't have to do this with Dr. True's Elixir. Simply a few doses and then quick relief. The three generations of my family have been kept healthy by using it."

Symptoms of worms, constipation, offensive breath, swollen upper lip, deranged stomach, occasional pains in the bowels, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Nearly every child and grown-up needs a laxative some time. The fond parents safeguard the health of their children, as well as their own, by keeping their bowels in condition. The herbs used in Dr. True's Elixir are imported and of strictly pure quality. No harmful drugs. Keep the bowels regular by using Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. 40c—60—$1.20. Adv.

WAS WORK OF A CRANK

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 5—Although convinced that the message sent to Knights of Columbus headquarters in New York reporting the rescue of the Rev. J. A. Vraniak, missing priest, was the work of a crank, police and private detectives searched today for the man who filed the telegram at the Lehigh Valley station.

A man believed to be Perrino, sender of the telegram, called at the Burns Detectiv Agency office yesterday and later a note addressed to him was received at the agency. It was in the same handwriting, the detectives said as the original of the telegram sent to New York. The note referred to a real estate transaction over a piece of property at an address which was later found to be non-existent.

Detectives believe that the man thought he could get a reward by reporting the rescue of the priest and wanted to establish the Burns office as a place to which it could be sent and received by him. Men at the office who talked with him expressed doubt of his responsibility.

RETROTHAL OF GLORIA GOULD

NEW YORK, April 5.—The betrothal of Miss Gloria Gould, a seventeen-year-old beauty and youngest daughter of George J. Gould, to Henry A. Bishop, Jr., a former Yale student, son of Henry A. Bishop of Bridgeport, Conn., will be announced tonight at a supper and dance arranged for her by her brother, Kingdon Gould and Mrs. Gould, the New York Herald says today. Her father has been critically ill at Mentone, France, for several weeks.

COLIN O'MORE TO SING AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Colin O'More, one of the world's greatest lyric tenors, ably supported by Miss Emilie Rose Knox, violinist, and Carl Brunner, accompanist, will make his second appearance of the local concert season at the Memorial Auditorium tonight and judging from the interest displayed and the large number of tickets ordered in advance a great crowd will be on hand to enjoy the program arranged.

O'More holds the distinction of being one of the few notable artists to be recalled here this season. But his appearance in Lowell is only a repetition of what has happened in other cities where his flexible voice has made a deep impression. In New York, Boston, Providence and other cities re-engagements followed his initial appearances.

And everywhere that O'More has sung he has received a hearty reception, and a well deserved tribute from the music critics. The New York Times, the Boston Herald, the Boston Transcript, the Providence Journal, and many others equally prominent have pronounced him one of the greatest tenors in the world today.

GOV. COX BARS ALLEN FROM STATE JOB

BOSTON, April 5.—Gov. Cox will not approve payment by the state of traveling expenses incurred by ex-Atty.-Gen. J. Weston Allen in visiting Pennsylvania and Washington on commissions alleged to be for the attorney-general's office under the present regime.

The governor will also oppose the employment of Mr. Allen by the attorney-general to argue against the constitutionality of the Sheppard-Towner bill before the federal supreme court or for any other legal work. Such was the governor's statement to the press yesterday.

The subject was brought up by the presentation to the executive council of a bill of $144.09 for Mr. Allen's expenses in visiting Pennsylvania and Washington in regard to the Sheppard-Towner matter. The council has held up the bill more than a week.

Gov. Cox's Explanation

Gov. Cox made the following statement of his position in the matter:

"Arguments against the Sheppard-Towner bill, I am informed, were prepared by Asst. Atty. Gen. Lincoln, and he has done substantially all the work, which demonstrates that outside aid is not required.

"Before Mr. Allen retired from office some papers said certain matters were being arranged in the attorney-general's office which would require his service after his term expired.

"I conferred with Atty.-Gen. Benton and told him I hoped there was no truth in the statement because under no circumstances would I be willing to approve the employment of Mr. Allen's services by the commonwealth.

"Shortly after Mr. Allen's term expired I read in the newspapers that Mr. Allen was in Pennsylvania on business of Massachusetts. I asked Atty.-Gen. Benton if these printed statements were true, and Mr. Benton told me they were not, or that at least he had no knowledge of Mr. Allen being there on business of the state.

"Last week a bill was presented for approval of Mr. Allen's traveling expenses. The General Laws require that before any state official leaves the commonwealth he must secure the approval of the governor in advance. Such approval was never asked and I declined to approve the bill.

"I shall not approve of Mr. Allen's employment in any state business. I am wholly opposed to the custom of engaging outside counsel in state business and hope for the co-operation of the present attorney-general in eliminating this erroneous policy. The attorney-general has plenty of money and assistants to do the state business, except in an emergency, which does not exist at present.

"The attorney-general and assistants should attend to all state business."

Long the Custom, Says Allen

Mr. Allen, who had heard the governor's opposition to his employment prior to yesterday, sent a letter on Tuesday to Atty.-Gen. Benton, stating that it had long been the custom to engage ex-attorneys general and ex-assistants to finish important cases which they had previously had charge of, and that this was the first case he had known of a refusal by the executive to honor such an arrangement.

Mr. Allen then proposed to the attorney-general that he be allowed to serve in the Sheppard-Towner case without pay. Mr. Benton said yesterday that he had been willing that Mr. Allen should appear, as he desired, for the commonwealth before the federal supreme court in the Sheppard-Towner case and that Mr. Allen had already made several trips to Washington in that connection.

Mr. Benton said that, having learned there might be objection to the employment of Mr. Allen, he asked permission to do so of the governor, who wrote him on March 30 that he would not approve of such employment.

BRITISH-AMERICAN CLUB MEETING

Members of the British-American club enjoyed a splendid entertainment last evening at the close of a business meeting in the Free church in Middlesex street. Six candidates for membership were admitted to the organization rolls. Four candidates were proposed. A bazaar is to be held by the club on April 27-28 in the church. Mrs. Mary Buchanan is chairman.

EXHIBITION OF DANCES, DRILLS AND GAMES

The Lowell Normal school announces that on Friday afternoon, April 6, at 2 p. m., there will be an exhibition and contest by the department of physical education, under the direction of Miss Ruth Bailey, to consist of dances, drills and games representative of the elementary school program. The exhibition will be given in the assembly hall and will include practically the entire body, who are to compete as members of the various classes.

The judges who are to award the banner to the winning classes include Carl L. Schrader, state supervisor of physical education; Hon. John Jacob Rogers and James J. Bruin of the Lowell school committee.

The students will sing the school song, which has been composed especially for the occasion by Miss Josephine O'Neil of Melrose, and piano numbers will be played by the Misses Sullivan, Hart and Bartlett. The games are to be in charge of the Misses Shea, Shumway and Provost.

BIG AMMUNITION CACHE

New York Police Raid House Said to Be Rendezvous for Safe Blowers

NEW YORK, April 5.—A cache of dynamite, revolvers, shotguns and ammunition for the weapons, was discovered yesterday, when police raided a house in Glen Cove, Long Island, and recovered $10,000 in merchandise stolen from a Brooklyn firm a few days ago. The house was said to be the rendezvous of a gang of safe-blowers and burglars.

Eight revolvers and automatic pistols, three shotguns, and dozens of sticks of dynamite, some in lead containers with fuses attached, were found.

The raid followed the arrest of Thomas Romano and two other man and a woman, who were fighting in an automobile. Two detectives were passing and stopped to end the quarrel. Romano pulled a revolver, but was overcome after a struggle. Merchandise valued at $4000 was found in the car.

The house was said to have been Romano's home. Several rooms were filled with the loot, consisting of bolt silk and women's apparel.

GLOVES AGAIN

In Paris gloves have returned to favor and are worn for practically all occasions. It is interesting to notice that nearly all the gloves are of short length and make no attempt to cover the space between the wrist and shoulder.

SHOT FIRED AT SON OF GERMAN AMBASSADOR

ROME, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) A bullet was fired at the son of Baron Von Neurath, German ambassador to Italy as the young man was walking in the embassy garden last evening. His right arm was scratched. The assailant has not been apprehended.

Premier Mussolini, in consequence of this incident and the assault last Saturday on Robert G. Goldie, British vice consul at Naples, has personally undertaken the task of effecting a better organization of the police force throughout the kingdom.

AT THE Y.M.C.A.

A delightful sketch depicting the life of the dormitory men was presented in Y.M.C.A. hall last evening before an audience composed of members of the Y.M.C.A. The sketch was given by dormitory men of the association and was followed by entertainment numbers and games. The sketch was given under the direction of Ottmar Held and those who figured in the cast were as follows: Archibald Grant, Ottmar Held, Lawton Cloveland, Alfred McGregor, James D. McKinley, Alfred Haller and B. E. Bachard.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

TO DEMONSTRATE WORK DONE FOR BLIND

Extraordinary work being performed for the benefit of the blind in Massachusetts by the state department of education, will be demonstrated in interesting fashion in Liberty hall, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25, under the auspices of the state division of the blind. The admission will be free. It is an exhibition that is being planne solely to bring the Lowell public in closer touch with the opportunities that now exist for those who are deprived of sight and giving some idea of the work that is being done at the present time to make the unfortunates more useful members of society and the economic world.

An organization of Lowell men and women is behind the movement for the holding of the two-day demonstrations in Liberty hall, and the names will be announced shortly.

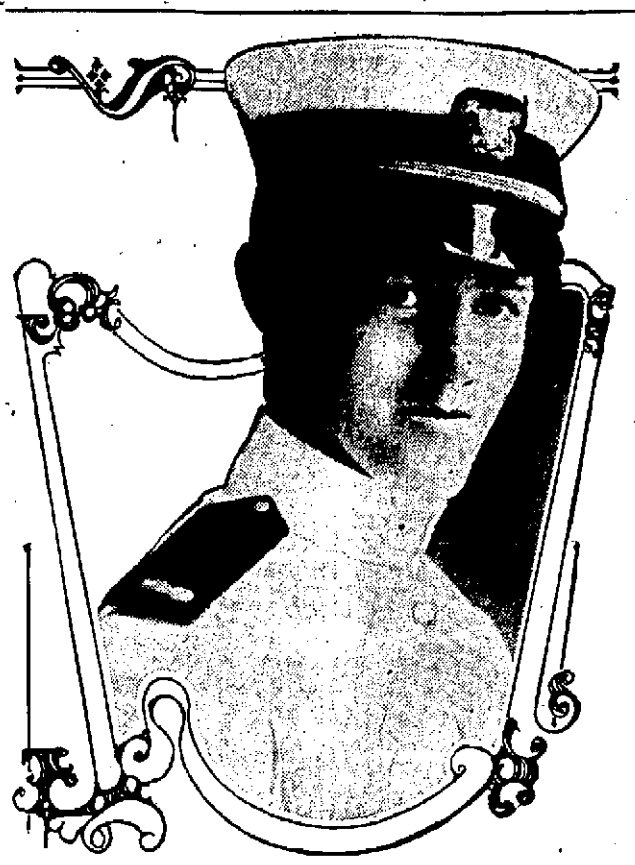

There will be notable exhibitions presenting in a practical manner the industries and intellectual possibilities and capabilities of the blind of both sexes. Another object of the coming exhibits is to encourage the prompt reporting of all cases of partial or total blindness in order that the individual may have the advice of the division and further the work in prevention of needless blindness.

There are today more than 4500 names on the division's register. Twenty-seven p. c. are between the ages of 20 and 50, or the working age, and 500 are school children with defective sight.

In the Liberty hall exhibitions there will be typewriting and dictaphone demonstrations, exhibits of basket-work, window boxes, trays and other articles made by the people in Whitcomb hall, the industrial home for blind men in Worcester. The demonstration will also include cabinet work, broom-making, chair-caning, spinning, weaving, machine-sewing, etc.

Some of the work of a blind soldier, James T. Riddervold of Cambridge, will also be exhibited, with displays of books, household linen, knitted wearing apparel, etc., representing the business of the soldier who cannot see. There will be served each afternoon and evening ice cream and cake. Arrangements of the tea room, will be furnished by local women. Announcements will be made later giving all names and organizations of those organizations connected with the coming enterprise.

HUGH B. SMITH

The many deeds of daring and heroism—thrilling rescues and hair-raising U-boat attacks—in which the U. S. submarine chaser, Seneca, participated from the Mediterranean to the North sea, furnishes one of the most interesting chapters of the entire World war.

The price that Hugh B. Smith, warrant officer on the Seneca, paid for his gallant part in these hazardous encounters, was a nervous system so shattered that he broke down completely.

"What I saw and went through," said Mr. Smith, "would leave its mark on any man. For two full years my nerves were at high tension all the time.

"When I got back to God's country, the reaction set in and I broke down completely. I was terribly nervous and irritable, had no appetite, and could not sleep except when exhausted. I was also about 15 pounds under weight, all of which made me realize something must be done.

"I resigned from the navy but soon found out new environment and duties made no improvement in my physical condition.

"Finally a friend persuaded me to try Tanlac and after taking six or eight bottles of Tanlac I had gained 15 pounds, was back to my normal weight, and felt completely recovered. Tanlac was a life-saver to me, and I heartily endorse it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.—Adv.

REGAINS 18 POUNDS LOST WEIGHT

Taking WINCARNIS

"I was very sick; lost almost 18 pounds in weight; was extremely weak and nervous, and could not get a single night's sound sleep. I had constant medical attention and the best of wholesome foods, but my condition grew more alarming until I began taking Wincarnis, which helped me from the first few doses.

I have completely regained my former weight and strength, sleep soundly every night, eat most heartily and have an abundance of energy. My husband and my mother were so amazed at the effect of Wincarnis in my case that they both began taking it as a tonic. Today, they are just as loud in praise of Wincarnis as I am, and we do wish it were known to every weak, nervous or run-down person."

MUNICIPAL DANCE AT AUDITORIUM

A municipal dance, similar to others held early in the winter, will be conducted at the Memorial Auditorium on the evening of April 28 by the park commission. Decision to hold another of these public affairs was arrived at at the meeting of the commission last night.

The commission voted to plant 200 red oaks along Knapp avenue and on the knoll at the head of the avenue and the superintendent was authorized to purchase a ton of nitrate of soda to be used on trees on the North and South commons that seem to be slowly dying. The board considered a number of routine petitions, including several for the removal of trees along certain streets.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Claire Lamoureux, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Lamoureux of Merrimack street, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Misses Marguerite and Cecile Rochette, 730 Merrimack street, Tuesday evening on the occasion of her coming marriage to Lawyer Arthur L. Eno. The affair was attended by about 20 young women, former pupils of Notre Dame academy and proved very enjoyable. Miss Lamoureux was presented numerous gifts.

BOSTON COLLEGE CLUB HAS DANCING PARTY

The seventh annual dancing party by the Boston College club was held last night in Associate hall and as in other years gave enjoyment to several hundred young people. The hall was attractively decorated in a color scheme of maroon and gold, the colors of the college. Draperies covered the side walls and from the ceiling chandeliers were suspended baskets that showered down confetti and varied-colored streamers during a novelty dance after the intermission period.

Members of the club in charge of the dance were: General manager, Timothy Tully; assistant, Walter Shea; floor director, James Brosnan; assistant floor director, Fred Leary. All club members served as aids.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

There's a barrel of joy bound up in Lloyd Ibach's Entertainers, who are headlining the big special show at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. The seven young men give the most luscious jazz that has been heard in Lowell in a long time, and give it superlatively well. As evidence of the popularity of the orchestra, let it be said that the organization is forced to respond to encore after encore. Norwood & Hall, quiet talkers, extract much good comedy from their off-hand discussions, and York & Maybelle are as lively a duo as one will often run across. They do a bit of everything, veneered with fun. Zeck & Randolph are another snappy pair, who simply coin laughter with their work. The Melroy Sisters are attractive dancers, and the Three Whirlwinds are skaters who do risky stunts. The bill opens with Ed. and Ida Tindell, in a hodge podge of everything.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

It is said that the original "Adam's Rib" caused a lot of trouble in the "Garden of Eden." Well, whatever trouble Eve may have caused is more than atoned for by Mathilda Ramsay, another product of "Adam's Rib," in a new Cecil B. De Mille production by that name, which is playing at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week, and which features Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Theodore Kosloff, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Julia Faye.

The story deals with the domestic troubles of Michael Ramsay, a wealthy Chicago broker (Milton Sills) and his spouse (Anna Q. Nilsson.) Theodore Kosloff as M. Jaromir, exiled king of Morania, a small European state, plays the part of the designing suitor for the hand of Mrs. Ramsay. Her husband is aware of his intentions and disposes of him by having his country recall him to the throne. This is not accomplished, however, without first reimbursing financially this little kingdom which, in that respect, was in dire straits.

"Adam's Rib" is not a story of the Garden of Eden, although Mr. De Mille does include a few cave man scenes as a "vision," but one of everyday life and a humorous one at that. The production is massive and the supporting cast is of the highest De Mille standard.

THE STRAND

The triple-feature program, headed by an attraction extraordinary, will undoubtedly draw thousands and thousands of patrons to The Strand today, tomorrow and Saturday. M. Coue, the disciple of self-healing and self-mastery, who cured this country recently, will be seen in his only motion picture, explaining his theory and methods from the screen in a simple, understandable manner. There is nothing mysterious about his methods. With a simplicity that is charming as well as convincing, M. Coue in "The Message of Emile Coue," disclaims all credit as a miracle man, and only claims that the means of self-healing are within all of us. He is only the teacher who shows us how self-mastery may be attained. There is nothing scientific about the picture. It is simple statement, that we can use and better ourselves by using his method. The message that he conveys is the same that was expounded in his lectures, where audiences were amazed at the simplicity as well as the efficacy of the methods employed by this wonderful little Frenchman, the "Chemist of Nancy" whose theories have taken the world by storm. Be sure and attend. You may benefit.

William Farnum in "Brass Commandments," and Herbert Rawlinson in "The Prisoner" are to be the other contributions. Both of these picturizations are exceptionally good screen offerings that have all the pleasing elements found in high-class picture entertainments.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"The Bird of Paradise," at the Lowell Opera house this week, is giving hundreds of people who enjoy a thoroughly artistic production the opportunity that they have long been looking for. The efforts of the local management to stage the nationally known production by Richard Walton Tully have been thoroughly appreciated by several clubs and societies who have attended en masse. Mary Anne Dentler as Luana, the beautiful Hawaiian princess who sacrifices everything for love, is superb, while Arthur de Lord's presentation of "Ten Thousand Dollar Dean" is equally good.

RIALTO THEATRE

The double feature attraction which opened at the Rialto theatre on Wednesday afternoon and which comprises the production, "Don't Doubt Your Wife," and "Hills of Hate," draws to a close today. There is also an attractive serial, a comedy and the Rialto News Review.

Y. M. C. I. WINS FROM BROADWAYS IN EXCITING OVERTIME GAME

Belvidere Outfit Goes Into Lead in City Bsaketball Championship Series by Winning Fifth Game by Score of 35 to 32—McGowan Clinches Victory

The Y.M.C.I. forged into the lead in the city basketball championship series by defeating the Broadways in an exciting and hotly contested overtime game at the Crescent rink last night, by the score of 35 to 32. It was the fifth game of the series and the victory gives the Institute boys the advantage 3 to 2. The series calls for four out of seven and the sixth game will be played next Wednesday evening.

It remained for Paddy McGowan, who entered basketball's hall of fame by caging the deciding basket in the third game of the series two weeks ago, just as the final whistle sounded, to come through again last night with the shot that clinched the victory for the Belvidere outfit. McGowan's brilliant basket came with but a few seconds to go in the extra period and resulted when he broke out of a scrimmage and tossed the ball with speed and accuracy into the netting.

While all the games of this series have been closely contested and replete with wonderful basketball, the one of last night was without a doubt the most thrilling. Starting on even terms by virtue of a two to two count, the rival outfits entered the cage with full realization of the importance of the impending struggle. To win meant the edge on the series and the best chance of copping the title. Both were in there for that purpose and both outfits put forth their best, fighting desperately, but cleanly at all times, and to the credit of all participants it must be said their exhibition was one of the greatest basketball treats of the season.

Six times during the hectic battle the score was tied and the greatest margin between the teams at any time was five points. The lead see sawed from beginning to end, with supporters of both aggregations in a frenzy of excitement during the entire progress of play. Remarkable plays were turned in by members of the rival clubs and while a few of the players stood out a little more prominently than the others, in truth it must be said that every man on the floor contributed his share to the memorable exhibition.

McGowan, whose basket clinched the game, met with an injury in the third period, with only a minute and ten seconds to go. It was thought for a time that he could not return to the cage. He and Connors came together in an accidental collision the force of which threw both to the floor. McGowan sustained a cut on the back of his head, while Connors was badly shaken up. After a few minutes layoff Paddy returned to the lineup and as events turned out his presence had an important bearing on the result.

Kaley of the Y.M.C.I. was the big point-getter of the night. He scored five baskets, a couple of which were thrillers. McKinstrey played a fine game for the winners, his floor work being spectacular. He succeeded in caging three. Lepper landed a brace in the hoop and Low, Curran and McGowan each scored one.

Joe Foley starred in the scoring for the Broadways, the speedy little forward getting a quartet of double ringers. Dan O'Connor came through with three. Keyes and Connors each negotiated a brace, with Randall coming forth with one.

An idea of the closeness of the play will be gained from the fact that the Y.M.C.I. scored 13 baskets, while the Broadways sent in an even dozen. Each team added nine points on fouls. Referee Arthur Ryan was again on the job and he had a close eye for all infractions in the rules. He called 25 fouls on the Y.M.C.I. and 28 on the Broadways.

The Y.M.C.I. got the jump in the first period, opening up what appeared like a commanding lead. But when the Broadways got their team work going in the second period they gradually climbed up and into the lead. The first period ended 11 to 6 in favor of the Belvidere outfit. The second session found the Broadways in their stride, launching a terrific offensive which brought about the desired result and when the last whistle sounded in this stanza, the Acre crew was in the van, 27 to 22. The third period was a whirlwind of action with the teams knotted 31 to 31 when the 45 minutes time was up.

An extra period of five minutes was ordered. When it opened there were two fouls on the Broadways and one on the Y.M.C.I. A third foul on the Broadways made it 32 to 31. Three more fouls on the Broadways made it 35 to 32. Three on the Y.M.C.I. gave the Broadways a point, 35 to 32 was the count. At this point time was fleeting and the supporters of both organizations were pleading for a basket. With but a few seconds to go McGowan jumped into the hero role by caging a hummer. A few seconds later the final whistle sounded.

Of the score of youngsters taken south by the New York Yankees, not over a half dozen will be retained. Three recruits certain to be held for further inspection are Outfielders Tucker and Haines and Catcher Bengough.

The cases of Tucker and Haines are unusual. Haines is a great fielder, very fast and a wonderful runner, but rather shy with the stick. Tucker, a left-handed batsman, can sure hit them, but has much to learn as a fielder.

If Haines could hit like Tucker and Tucker could field like Haines both would win regular berths in the outfield.

Bengough, with Buffalo last year, will be retained as third string catcher. He has great promise.

HART PLAYS HIS FINAL GAME TOMORROW NIGHT

It is to be "Bob Hart night" at the second game of the big polo series between the Lowell champions and Duggan's All Stars at the Crescent rink tomorrow night, when the second rush of the local team will play his last game of the season, due to the fact that next week he will leave to assume his duties as an umpire in the National baseball league.

Hart joined the Lowell team when Frank Hardy was forced out of the lineup because of illness, and he took a big part in the great spurt of the team and also figured prominently in the series with New Bedford and also the great series with the Worcester team, the winning of which by the Lowell quintet brought the pennant to the Spindle city.

Hart is very popular here, his home town, and a number of his friends plan to turn out tomorrow night to give him a great send off, and to express their wishes for another successful season on the diamond.

BUT ONE GIANT RECRUIT MAKES THE GRADE

By BILLY EVANS

The Giants will present only one change when the opening lineup is announced. Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 beauty from the Pacific coast league, will be in center field.

O'Connell has proved beyond a question of a doubt that he can hit. If his work in the spring games is to be taken as a criterion, O'Connell will add a punch to McGraw's club that will make it an exceedingly difficult matter to dethrone the Giants in the national league.

In the preliminary work, playing a sun field has appeared to bother O'Connell. Left field is the sun garden at the Polo Grounds. O'Connell will play either center field or right and it will probably be center, since Ross Young has for years been the custodian of right.

Coast Star Big Card

The coast league star is certain to be a big card at the opening of the season. If he lives up to the reputation that has preceded him as a slugger he will be a big attraction all over the circuit as well as in New York.

O'Connell is a mighty likable chap. All the nice things that have been written about the youngster have in no way inflated his head or chest.

In talking baseball his greatest delight is praising Willie Kamm, who brought an even fancier price than did O'Connell, it being reputed that the Chicago White Sox turned over the equivalent of $100,000 for him. No matter what phase of baseball you talk with O'Connell, he will always somehow get back to Kamm.

"Willie is a wonderful ball player," says O'Connell. "He will show the big league fans how third base will be played. There never was a better fielder out our way, and he also can hit the ball.

"Kamm is such a great fielder that you rarely see a ball get by him. Invariably he comes up clean with the ball and in addition has a fine arm.

"There is no question about him making good. The White Sox are all set for a third sacker for years to come."

Certainly is pleasing to hear a player speak so kindly of his rival. However, that seems to be O'Connell's type in all things pertaining to the game. All of which should tend to increase his own chances to deliver. On that point the experts are agreed and the decision is all in the affirmative.

In speaking of McGraw's rookies, one of the experts remarked that the class of the Giants was such, that taking recruits south was merely a matter of form, in order to give the jaunt the real flavor of a training trip.

Some Likely Recruits

As far as any of the recruits breaking into the lineup, that statement certainly holds good. However, out of the flock of youngsters taken south probably a half dozen have shown enough stuff to cause Manager McGraw and his assistant, Hughie Jennings, to enthuse.

CHANGE IN MAIN BOUT

Joe Fox Withdraws—Irving Jampol Will Meet Lew Paluso Here Tonight

Joe Fox, the English featherweight champion, who was scheduled to meet the sensational Lew Paluso in the feature event of the Moody club show at the Crescent rink tonight, has withdrawn from the match, as the result of an attack of boils. In his place Irving Jampol of New York city, who boxed a draw with Paluso at Jersey City on New Year's day will come here and fill the gap.

Matchmaker Dodge received word of Fox's inability to appear last night and immediately he got in touch with Jampol's manager. He had planned to use Jampol at a later date against Al Shubert. He asked if he would accept the Paluso engagement and he jumped at the opportunity.

In explaining the situation Mr. Dodge said today: "It was a severe blow to me, to be obliged to make a substitution at the last minute, particularly because of the fact that the advance sale indicated the largest house of the season. But realizing that many, in fact I believe the majority, were interested in seeing Paluso, I decided to make a substitution rather than call off the show. I tried to get several New England boys to fill in, but all had other engagements, so I exercised an option I had on Jampol, whom I proposed to use here at a later date against Shubert. While I have never seen Jampols work, his record, and the recommendations I received from friends in New York, lead me to believe that the bout has suffered little by the change.

"Remembering that Paluso himself came here two weeks ago as a substitute for Shubert against Brown I feel that I can assure the fans that tonight's fight will be a good one."

Both Men In Town

Matchmaker Dodge telephoned The Sun at noon today, announcing that both Jampol and Paluso had arrived in town.

Manty Has Split Lip

Owing to a split upper lip, Charley Manty of New Bedford, New England featherweight champion, has informed Matchmaker Connie Lynch of the Olympic club here, that he would be unable to appear for his scheduled go with Billy Murphy in Associate hall next Monday night. It appears that Manty's lip has not sufficiently recovered from the effects of a jack Lawler blow received a few weeks ago, the injury requiring six stitches to close.

The Manty-Murphy bout has attracted considerable attention among New England critics. However, the proposed bout has not been thrown into the discard and Manty will positively appear here under Olympic club auspices, one week from Monday, April 16, according to Mr. Lynch.

Of the pitchers, Webb, Blume and Walberg have the best chance to stick.

Walberg is the southpaw secured from the Coast league for a fancy figure. Since McGraw is looking for another southpaw to take the place of Nehf when the veteran star steps down, Walberg is sure of a real trial.

McGraw is confident of repeating, and unless his pitching should fall him, he seems to have the inside track to a third championship in succession.

AMATEUR GOLF TOURNAMENT

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—Eight little known amateurs will go into the second round matches of the North and South amateur golf championship tournament today.

Last year's champion, Henry J. Topping, Greenwich, Conn., was eliminated in the qualifying round, and T. Russell Brown, Burlington, Vt., who led the field of 250 players in the preliminaries, met defeat yesterday in the first round matches by W. C. Hunt, Houston, Tex.

FENCING CHAMPIONSHIPS

NEW YORK, April 5.—The intercollegiate fencing championships to be held April 12 and 13, at the hotel Astor, have attracted nine teams entries so far. The United States naval academy has a strong squad, prepared to defend the title it won last year, but will find keen opposition from West Point, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Dartmouth, M.I.T. and Pennsylvania.

The French ministry of marine has plans for a 6000-ton submersible liner with accommodations for several hundred men.

Famous Football Coach Does Not Believe In "Win at Any Cost" Theory

By NEA Service

BOSTON, April 5.—Proper spirit and attitude toward athletics and not immediate victories will be the aim of Percy D. Haughton, far-famed football coach, when he takes over his new duties as coach of the Columbia University football team.

Haughton is reticent regarding his plans for the future, but one thing is certain—all candidates will start with a clean slate so far as the new coach is concerned. The new mentor has not seen any of last year's team in action and the only name he knows is that of Walter Poppisch, last year's star, who is a member of the Columbia athletic advisory board.

Spring practice, Haughton says, probably will be called some time during April at which time he will have an opportunity to size up the material available.

"Too much stress," says the coach, "is placed upon victories in athletic contests. Good sportsmanship, a healthy body and mind, the unselfishness of team play are some of the real benefits derived. It is difficult to define just what I mean, but I think all of us have seen many teams and men more glorious in defeat than the victors in victory. I am utterly opposed to the 'win at any cost' idea in college athletics.

PERCY HAUGHTON

"I do think, however, that when a college builds its athletic system with a view to benefits along that line, it not infrequently happens that victories seem to follow as a matter of course."

Much has been said and written about the "Haughton system" as a result of the marvelous showing of Harvard eevens after the "miracle man of football" assumed control of the Crimson's football destiny.

BIG RELAY CARNIVAL AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Pennsylvania's great relay carnival on April 27 and 28, promises to bring together the largest number of colleges and schools that ever assembled for any track and field meet in the history of athletics.

The list of entries to date comprises 485 institutions, including 102 colleges and 383 schools. More than 500 teams will be at the meet, for many of the colleges have entered more than one team. Every section of the United States will be represented.

Not only will the pick of this country's college and school athletes compete in the long list of events, but a number from foreign lands will come here to match their speed on the cinder path with the Americans. Notable among the foreigners will be a relay team from Oxford university, England, which has been entered both in the sprint medley and the two mile relay races. Oxford also will be represented in the two mile international race. Several teams from Canadian institutions are entered.

NEWS FROM TRAINING CAMPS IN DIXIELAND

CLEVELAND, April 5.—The Cleveland Indians break camp at Lakeland, Fla., today, going to Atlanta, where tomorrow they play the Toronto International league club. The team is said to be in better shape than any Cleveland team has been at this time of the season for many years.

BOSTON, April 5.—The Braves were scheduled to meet the St. Petersburg Saints at St. Petersburg, Fla., today in the last contest with this team Boston was forced to play extra innings to win. Activities yesterday, according to advices reaching here, were confined to a practice game during which Harry Hallman, youthful left hander, struck two batters with pitched balls.

Rain pursued the Red Sox to Memphis Tenn., yesterday and the game with the Chicks of that city was postponed. The athletes played basketball, soccer and football and ran races in a large cattle barn chartered for the occasion.

MRS. MALLORY TO COMPETE

LONDON, April 5. Mrs Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, who is expected to compete in the Wimbledon tennis championships, has timed her arrival in England so as to allow her to take part in some of the preceding tournaments, says the Daily Mail.

LYNCH AND GENARO WIN AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 5.—Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, vanquished an old foe when he outpointed Midget Smith of New York, in a bristling 10 round boxing bout last night, and Frankie Genaro, the American flyweight champion, shaded, a first time ring acquaintance when he left-handed Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., to defeat in another 10 rounder of the all-star card.

It was Chicago's second showing of champions since the recent revival of pugilism which had been dormant here nearly a quarter of a century since Terry McGovern and Joe Gans sent public boxing into oblivion by their fake fight. Between 10,000 and 12,000 persons paid $51,000 to see last night's bouts.

JUNGLE RUNNERS IN BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, April 5.—Three jungle runners who are soldiers in the United States army in Panama, are believed to be journeying north to participate in the American marathon here, on April 19. They are Chief White Eagle, an American Indian; Moreno Cruz and Senor Caballero, native Porto Ricans. The trip is sponsored by Homer Baker, director of physical training in the canal zone and a former national A.A.U. half mile champion. Baker has written to Tom Kanaly, manager of the marathon, asking for entry blanks. He believes the work of his three charges in carrying messages through the jungles has fitted them admirably for the classic event.

O. M. I. CADETS TO PLAY NEWTON COLLEGIANS

Next Tuesday night in Associate hall, the O.M.I. Cadet basketball team will play the Newton Collegians in what promises to be one of the best games of the season. The Cadets will use practically the same lineup which proved so successful in early season contests, including Dan and John O'Connor, McKinstrey, Crowe, Curran, Flanagan, O'Brien, Cassady and others.

The Newton boys will be represented by present and ex-college stars such as Hickey, Melley, O'Connell, Considine, Macular, Sweeney and Murphy. Several of these men played against Lowell Textile a few months ago.

Y. M. C. I. WINS INDOOR GAMES

The Mathews of North Billerica and the Y.M.C.I. engaged in a series of indoor games in Mathew hall Tuesday evening, the latter organization winning the tournament by a close margin. Refreshments were served after the contests and a pleasing program of entertainment given under the direction of President Joseph Kearney of the Mathews.

BROOKLYN STAFF ONLY HOPE OF MANAGER

Leo Dickerman, purchased from the Memphis club of the Southern league for $10,000, is the athlete in question. He is a tall right hander, with plenty of stuff, and appears to have an excellent chance to stick.

Dickerman, trying for Memphis, Tenn., which finished second in the Southern association race, won 20 games and lost only seven for that club. He is the only finished-looking product among the hurling recruits and is likely to win a number of games for Brooklyn.

The burden of the Brooklyn club's showing will unquestionably be up to the pitchers. Robinson is banking strongly on Grimes and Reuther.

Reuther is signed to a sliding contract that calls for extra money in case he wins 15 games or better. Dutch says he is shooting at the 20 mark in games won, which if it is said, will mean an increase of about $1500 on the year for the southpaw.

Burleigh Grimes, Leon Cadore, Al Mamaux, Dazzy Vance and Arthur Decatur, in addition to Reuther, will carry the hopes of the Dodgers. It is a mighty fine staff, but pitchers require assistance in the field and at bat to win.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Butler A.A. seconds are fast rounding into shape and hope that when the season opens they will have one of the fastest nines in the city. The record of the Butlers for the past few years shows that they have won the majority of their games. This year the team will enter the Junior twilight league.

Owing to the fact that the Willie Stars claimed the championship of their class last year, the team, intact, feels confident of repeating this year. The team will be composed of the following: Shea, Watson, McNiff, Brady Ryan, Bradley Marshall, Cote Regis, Dewey and Norton. Tom Ryan is manager.

LINCOLN ALL-STARS

The Lincoln All-Stars would like to hear from any 12-13-year-old team in the city for a game April 21. Capt. Sullivan would like to exchange games with the Quakers, Tigers or Emerald seconds. Challenges will be accepted through the paper.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, April 5.—Third round play of the University of Chicago's national basketball tournament was reached today by a dozen of the original 40 entrants. Despite elimination of 24 teams all sections of the country still were represented.

Osage, Ia., and Fitchburg, Mass., were to meet in the last match of the day.

CARNARVON DIES IN CAIRO

Discoverer of King Tutankhamen's Tomb Dies as Result of Insect's Bite

CAIRO, April 5 (By the Associated Press) The Earl of Carnarvon died peacefully at 2 o'clock this morning. He was conscious almost to the end. His death was due to blood poisoning through the bite of an insect, with the later development of pneumonia.

The death of the Earl of Carnarvon came shortly after the culmination of the exploit that brought him chiefly into public notice—the discovery by the archeological expedition which he headed, of the rich tomb of the Pharoah Tutenkhamen in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt.

While the press of the world was still devoting no small amount of its space to the notable contributions to the world's art and history which Lord Carnarvon and his fellow explorers had uncovered, came the news that he had been seriously ill in Cairo from the bite of an insect.

By the public at large the misfortune which the Earl had met, was regarded as a lamentable incident of what might happen in a tropical clime such as that of Egypt, but to the credulous students of Egyptian mysticism the news did not come as a surprise.

Even before Lord Carnarvon was stricken with blood poisoning, announced as due to an insect bite, there had been talk of the curses laid by the ancient Egyptians, with mystic incantations, on any who dared disturb the sleep of a Pharaoh. After he was stricken, the old legends spread, and hundreds were to be found, not before superstitious, who were ready to believe that the old Egyptian curse had fallen on the rich and famous Englishman.

There were some who even questioned whether it was an insect that had dealt him the poisonous stroke. It was suggested that he might have touched some poisoned object in the tomb itself, set 30 centuries ago to revenge the dead king or any who might disturb his rest.

The fifth Earl of Carnarvon was born June 26, 1866, and succeeded his father to the earldom in 1890. His mother was a descendant of the famous Lord Chesterfield, author, statesman and man of fashion.

He is survived, besides his wife, by a son and a daughter, the former holding the title of Lord Porchester.

He was reputed to have spent more than $100,000 maintaining the expedition which finally uncovered the Pharoah's tomb last December, after seven years of excavation.

The tomb, which contained an unprecedented quantity of objects of the greatest historical value, as well as the undisturbed sarcophagus of the Pharoah, is said to have been the richest find ever unearthed in Egypt.

RELIEVED HER OF FITS

Mrs. Gram of Milwaukee Freed From Terrible Attacks of This Affliction—Wants to Tell Others How it Was Done

Mrs. Paul Gram, residing in Apartment 23, 939 Fourth street, Milwaukee, Wis., wants everyone suffering with Fits (Epilepsy) to know she found treatment which gave her freedom from her attacks after she had suffered for over 11 years. Realizing the terrible suffering caused by Fits and being so thankful for her own relief, Mrs. Gram says she wants to tell all other sufferers about the simple home treatment which she used. She has nothing to sell. Simply send her your name and address and ask her to tell you how she was freed from the attacks of this terrible affliction. Mrs. Gram will give you this information free of all cost. Write for it at once before you forget.—Adv.

MILLINERY EXHIBIT DRAWS BIG CROWDS

The League of Catholic Women's rooms in the Harrington building, Central street, attracted a large gathering of women yesterday and this afternoon on the occasion of the annual millinery exhibit by the pupils of Mrs. J. W. Daley. The exhibit, consisting of 500 hats of the latest styles and shapes, opened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and will be brought to a close this evening.

All the modern styles of head-dress, including "Puts-Puts" are on display and are meeting with continual approval on the part of the visitors, Mrs. John J. Sullivan, chairman of the educational committee of the league, is in charge of the reception of visitors, and with the aid of capable assistants, she has decorated the rooms in an exceedingly attractive manner with jonquils and daffodils, and crepe paper of green, white and yellow. The exhibit will close at 10 o'clock this evening.

SEE BIGGEST TRAFFIC YEAR IN HISTORY

NEW YORK, April 5—The executive committee of the association of railway executives, yesterday approved a program outlined Tuesday by the board of directors of the American Railway association, for meeting in 1923 what is expected to be the greatest traffic year in the railroading history of the country.

"The committee was unanimous in the opinion that the operating program proposed by the directors of the American Railway association, supplemented by the large increase in facilities which the roads had reported to this committee, promised transportation results for the year," read the report of the executive body, of which Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, is chairman. It pointed out that the four day session of officials of the railroads, including all classes and subsidiary terminal and transfer systems, was called "to take account early of the prospects for the heaviest traffic to be moved over the railroads of the country in their history, and to anticipate all possible measures available to handle this traffic to the satisfaction of the public.

"The action taken yesterday by the board of directors of the American Railway association, proposing further transportation measures and outlining additional methods of co-operation between the railroads and with shippers was received and carefully considered," the report continued.

"Reports have been secured from substantially all member roads showing the additional locomotives and cars that will be provided and also the additional roadway facilities with particular reference to additional yard and side-tracks, enlargements of terminal facilities, automatic signals and other facilities calculated to increase the capacity of the railroads."

"Contrary to the general impression," said the rail men, "equipment of the nation's roads, including locomotives, rolling stock and repair units, is in better condition now than it has been for years.

"Despite the shopmen's strike of last fall and the unusual severity of the winter, there are now more locomotives in good repair and a smaller percentage in bad order than ever has been reported by all roads at any period."

The car situation is correspondingly good, it was reported, with more available for traffic and more new ones on order, than there have been in the spring for two years. As evidence of the labor situation, it was pointed out that, whereas the winter season usually makes huge inroads on the supply of surplus cars, due to the inability of shopmen to keep up repairs, the supply this past winter has been increased.

Approving the program which will be submitted today to a meeting of representatives of member roads, the executive committees endorsed plans calling for "the largest budget of new facilities, power and equipment for many years, if not in the history of the roads."

MAKES BLIND SEE

Operation Takes But One Minute—Celluloid "Eye" Inserted

PETROGRAD, April 2.—Hope that fully half the world's blind may regain complete sight through a new operation, details of which will soon be made public to medical men of all countries is held out by the discoverer, now living here in poverty.

He is Prof. Katz, a gray-haired man of fifty-three. During a two-hour interview and demonstration given me this afternoon he disclosed the result of 15 years of labor, a "semi-artificial eye"—a celluloid cup inserted in the socket so that light is reflected through it and the blind can see.

Nerves Must Be Intact

All that is required, he adds, is that the light perception nerves be intact, and he adds that this is true of at least 50 per cent. of the cases of blindness, including those born blind. Where the nerves are dead, the only hope, he says, is through perfection of an optophone, on which Prof. Katz is now working, by which light is transferred into sound.

The Katz operation, demonstrated to me, takes only about a minute. No drama enacted could be more poignant than the expression of the sightless as they regain their precious vision after this one climactic minute.

What happens is this: The withered front part of the eye is cut away and the celluloid cup set in. The light perception nerves in the back of the eye are for the first time given a chance to function and the patient sees through his celluloid or "semi-artificial" eye.

Hardier Than Normal Eye

The strange part of it is that you can tap the eye and the patient can still see through it; it is hardier than the normal human eye. Prof. Katz has built up an entire science of making the blind see, which he calls by the Greek word "tiflirafia," or "curing the incurable."

His hospital is supported by the government, and has room for 300 patients, but he has no medical assistants, and practically no money. His staff consists of two nurses and a scrubwoman. The professor himself works 20 hours a day, dressed in a rough leather coat and sweater, and his home is meagrely furnished.

The one case I saw was that of a woman blind since birth and now 30.

"Her eyes are small and deep-set, so deeply she could not see," Prof. Katz explained. "In these cases sedsection of the eye muscles brings the eye forward. Then instead of a celluloid cup we use magnifying glasses of proper strength, and the patient can begin to see normally.

"But most of my work is among blind cases caused by disease. Where previously a glass eye was inserted, it is now possible for the patient to have an eye that looks normal, and, far more important, through which he can see."

Prof. Katz was educated in Russia and has lived here all his life. I asked if he would go abroad to teach his method.

"No," he answered. "I do not want to leave Russia to go anywhere, although I will demonstrate my operation for scientists of any country. I have work enough to do in Russia. I shall, however, be happy to correspond with your American physicians, write them technical descriptions of the process and send photographs.

Eight Operations in Month

"Of course I think this discovery of incalculable benefit to humanity. I am old, but I will continue my work. Who knows but I will find a still better process?"

Russian physicians who saw the process are divided into two camps. All agree the results are marvellous, but one faction contends it is unscientific. Prof. Katz merely smiles and replies:

"I have written exactly what I am doing and it is for the medical world to judge."

Of the 300 in his hospital, eight have already been operated on this month with celluloid cups and in each case the operation is described as completely successful.

FAREWELL PARTY TO MRS. DONEHUE

A farewell party was tendered Mrs. John T. Donehue, who is to leave for a European tour on April 11, in the D. L. Page restaurant last evening by her associates in the League of Catholic Women, of which organization she is president. Shortly before 7 o'clock the gathering sat down to a bounteous banquet, followed by an entertaining program of speeches and readings.

Miss Alice T. Lee was toastmistress of the evening and introduced as the first speaker, Mrs. John F. Saunders, who welcomed the party and paid respects to the guest of the evening. Others who spoke were Dr. Emma E. V. Slaughter, vice president of the league, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, chaplain, and Miss Julia Reardon. Musical selections were given by Mrs. Joseph W. Green and Miss Marietta Gormley.

On behalf of the officers of the organization, a beautifully fitted traveling bag was presented Mrs. Donehue by Mrs. David Mahoney. Mrs. John F. Saunders arranged the affair.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney and bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

CONSTANT DEMAND FOR GUILD BALL TICKETS

One of the happiest social events of the year is anticipated tomorrow evening when the Lowell Guild ball will be given at the Memorial Auditorium. Not only will there be every opportunity for enjoyment but a great deal of satisfaction will accompany it through the thought that the proceeds will go toward the maintenance of the splendid work the guild is doing along the line of conserving infant life in the city.

Plans for the affair have been worked out most carefully and it is expected the patronage will tax the capacity of the Auditorium. As an attractive feature the Braggiotti sisters of Boston, noted society dancers, will appear in solo dances and ensemble numbers. Liberty hall will be utilized for the serving of a buffet luncheon.

Tickets at prices of $1.50 and $2 may be secured at Steinert's in Merrimack street. On Friday evening whatever tickets remain may be bought at the Auditorium box office after 7.45 o'clock, the hour at which the doors will be open.

PARTY LINES IN CITY POLITICS

It is said that some of our representatives in the legislature had intended to introduce a bill providing for party designation in municipal elections. The purpose of any such bill would be to draft more capable men into our city government. Many such men would gladly give their services; but they do not care to enter a fight for office against professional politicians, and they would have slight chance of success if they did. But if asked to become candidates for municipal office as the chosen nominees of their own party, they would willingly accept.

By that means men of sound business experience and training might be elected to municipal office; but under the present arrangement, the ablest business man in the city could not be elected poundkeeper against a hack politician that will almost pledge himself to hand the city hall over to the people who elect him and keep him in office.

When city politics called for party nominations, each party put forward its best men or its strongest candidates; and there was always a healthy opposition ready to show up anything wrong in the administration. That is a principle of government that has been abandoned in all the charters we have had since the bicameral charter was abolished. The fault with that charter was not the party feature so much as the difficulty of having the two branches concur on legislative measures. With a single board and an executive, party government would be simplified and would afford the taxpayers a choice of the best men on two rival tickets. The men elected would feel that they were doubly responsible; first to the city and next to their party. It is too bad to have to change our charter so often; but while any feature is susceptible of improvement, there is an incentive to struggle forward toward more ideal methods of regulating our government machinery.

But if we are ever to return to partisan government in city politics, we should go the whole way and adopt the old system of having the people elect delegates to a nominating convention. Each party would then put up its best and strongest men, knowing that if it didn't, the nominees of the other party would probably be elected. The Sun has advocated a nominating council to be elected by the citizens, but while this would be an improvement upon the present method, it would not be quite so good as to have the two political parties put up their respective tickets through nominating conventions and let the voters take their choice of candidates.

That system would get rid of the political barnacles that attach themselves to the municipal bark in such a way that it is with the greatest difficulty that they can be permanently dislodged.

EVENING HIGH GRADUATES

The graduates of the evening high school have completed a period of study for which they had to make many sacrifices. Some of them have already started in what will be their life calling, but others undoubtedly have yet to select their occupation. With most young people in a city like this it is difficult at first to find the kind of work for which they are best adapted or that is most congenial to their tastes. Probably a majority of those who end their education in the grammar school are forced to take what they can get and plod along until they can find an opportunity of shifting into something more to their liking.

The education and general training received at the evening high school should be of great assistance to any young man or woman who went to work from the grammar school; it should enable him or her to reach a higher place in the industrial environment.

The ambitious youth will not wait for something to turn up. He will go out and make his own opportunity. That is how most people climb the ladder of success. The education received at the evening high school will be a sort of step ladder by which they can rise to higher levels where they will have fewer competitors and better remuneration for their services.

The boys and girls who show the ambition and the persistence to go through the evening high school while earning what they can during the day show that they are made of the right stuff, that they are not afraid of hard work, that they want to make the best use possible of their leisure hours; and this they do in taking up an educational course calculated to enable them to fill places of responsibility. It has always been found that when opportunities of advancement present themselves it is only those who have prepared that are considered.

HARDING BACKING DOWN

Preparations for President Harding's more or less strategic retreat from his advocacy of this country's representation on the International Court of Justice seem to be foreshadowed in the news from Florida following conversations with the president during his stay there. Republican papers are admitting that leaders of the president's party fear the consequences his proposal may have for them, and are attempting to "dissuade him from pressing this matter when the next congress meets."

It is believed that this persuasion and pressure from the eastern reactionaries and the irreconcilables will prompt the president either to withdraw or greatly modify his firm recommendation regarding American partnership in the International Court. Senators Moses, Brandegee, McLean and others in the east are said to feel deep displeasure at the president's sudden and unaccountable conversion from downright hostility to the League of Nations to open recognition of one of its agencies. These senators will have the concurrence of Senators Borah, Johnson, La Follette, Norris and others in the west if they make an attack on the president's proposition.

As a candidate for renomination and re-election, the president can not afford to alienate any republican senators, east or west. Many of the republican senators who are in opposition to Mr. Harding's first suggestion for American co-operation in the restoration and consolidation of peace and prosperity in Europe will remain in office for two or three years after November, 1924, no matter what happens to him at the next election. They will not greatly fear his reprisals between now and then. They apparently feel that if his mistakes must defeat someone, they would much prefer that he, and not any of their number, should be the one.

ALLIES OF INDUSTRY

Mr. E. K. Hall, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, says public utilities are the "allies of industry." That is true, and without them industry would be paralyzed all over the land. To strengthen these allies of industry will also strengthen the industries and, therefore, Mr. Hall makes a general appeal in behalf of public utilities, asking that they be given a chance.

Here is the essence of his discourse:

"The way is clear. The formula is simple, and the principle is sound as the granite hills. Give your allies a chance. Make them prosperous. Make them strong. Don't cripple them. Protect those margins. They are small margins at best, but they are yours. They are your insurance for the service of tomorrow. Keep the responsibility for running the public utilities on the shoulders of the utilities, where it belongs. Don't give them alibis to slide out with. Work with them and not apart from them, and give them an occasional boost."

It is true that public utilities must be given a chance before they can be expected to give the service expected of them. But they must not be allowed to abuse their privileges by securing the rewards of efficiency while giving inferior service. It is this failure or something very much like it that causes the public to lose confidence in some of their public utilities. It is well, however, that between the public utilities and the people as well as the industries dependent upon them, there should be a healthy understanding as their interests are very largely common and what injures one will soon hurt the other.

IMMIGRATION

"Europe is offering us the dregs of its population and is keeping the flower of its manhood at home," said Edward J. Henning, a secretary in the department of labor at Washington, to the Worcester Hotarians, in a recent address. Possibly Mr. Henning was not present at Ellis Island a short time ago, when, according to one of the New York newspapers, "1100 hearty, healthy-looking, smiling Irishmen and Scots, with wives and children and much bag and baggage, came down the gang plank, hailing their new home with expressions of joy. Every man in the line of immigrants appeared to be capable of handling himself in almost any employment capacity that calls for hard work and plenty of it." The women were some of the fairest of Ireland and Scotland, and the children appeared to be going on a picnic, so happy were they at the attention paid to them by Americans there to greet them.

MUSSOLINI'S METHODS

Mussolini, of Italian Black-shirt fame, will probably hold his job a long time. He is cutting down government expenses. That is the surest way of getting public support in our age of abnormal war taxation.

He follows this by abolishing 600 Italian courts. We also have too many courts and yet we have a reputation as a nation for not enforcing the law against the worst criminals. Moreover, most of our court dockets are filled with cases that have been awaiting trial for years. The trouble is, that we have too many paternalistic laws, too many reformers trying to bring about the millennium by the enactment of laws behind which there is no public sentiment. But Mussolini's dictatorial methods cannot obtain here.

Federal department of labor experts profess to believe that more than 1,000,000 men in the nation are "normally unemployed." Just explain that to Middlesex county farmers without delay, please. All of those with whom we have discussed farm help problems lately, tell us the prospects for hiring farm hands and general agricultural laborers this season are very poor.

The problem of providing a new Edson school is one of the heaviest the council will have to deal with this year. A new building is needed, but the problem comes as to where it will be located and how the expense will be met.

Spring fishermen, here's a tip: Fish have a well-developed sense of smell, says a writer in Aquatic Life. Maybe they're smelling when they nose the bait. The anglers of the Lowell Fish and Game society should look into this.

The city council having rejected the ordinance to abolish the Board of Public Service should now confirm Mayor Donovan's nomination of the chairman.

Give us a building code that is up to date and one that will correct some of the current abuses.

It is good policy to take what you can get and fight for more.

SEEN AND HEARD

Brotherly ties are the ties he lets you wear.

One man was fined $50 for trying to kiss his stenographer. If all the girls would report we could pay our national debt.

Several of the boys in The Sun composing room are radio fans and have radios at home. They are forever telling of the far distant points from which they heard the night before and they were including Havana, Cuba, Davenport, Ia.; Atlanta, Ga.; etc., when one of the number, who hasn't a radio set, said: "Shucks, you fellows make me tired. I just raised my window last night and got 'chilly.'"

A Thought

Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles.—Emerson.

Where Shoe Pinched

"What's the matter?" asked Jones. "Finances bothering you?" "Yes, they are, to this extent," replied Smith. "You see, I owe Brown $5, and today I've got it, and he knows I've got it and he knows I know he knows I've got it."

Not a Bad Sign

"I am afraid poor Floss is going to have rabies, Dr. Vet," said the fair dog owner anxiously. "Why, I don't see any sign of it," said the doctor kindly. "What makes you think so?" "Why, you see," said the lady, "his poor little tongue is always hanging out of his mouth." "That is in accord with a merciful dispensation of providence," returned the doctor. "You see, if it were to hang out of his ear he would have difficulty in drinking."

Cleverness Recognized

"So you think you can dress a show window so that every woman who comes along will stop and look at it, do you?" asked the manager of a dress-making establishment of an applicant for work. "Yes, sir, I do." "Well, then, what is the first thing you would do?" "I'd put a big mirror in the window and" "That's enough, young man; we don't want you as an employe. We'll take you in as a partner."

What News Is or Isn't

Newspapers constantly are accused of sensationalism. But how did King Tutenkhamen's tomb get to be news? The people clamor for all the details and the old reliable Associated Press spends thousands of dollars describing the progress of this scientific expedition. No satisfactory definition of news has yet been formulated. But anything the people cry out for is news. And perhaps anything you can get people to read. Human interest it must have.—Capper's Weekly.

Such Is Romance

The cable tells a romantic story of a young English girl who went to Capetown, Africa, to marry her fiance, but changed her mind, deciding to return to England by next ship. Then up rose 150 unmarried Englishmen at Cape St. Vincent and by spokesmen persuaded her to permit them to spin a coin and if she guessed wrong marry one of them. Her English sporting blood prompted her to accept the challenge and she lost. Later she chose a man from the 150 and married him, her former lover acting as best man. May they live happy ever after.

Secret Service Uniform

Dubbs, late sergeant, A. E. F., had gone to a South American country, where a revolution was, searching for excitement. The president, who had just risen to power, promptly appointed him quartermaster general and then produced sketches made by himself as designs for uniforms for his forces. "I get most of this, president," remarked Dubbs, after studying them for a while. "This here seems to be for the army and this for the navy. But what's this thing with the green plume on a three-cornered hat, yellow, swallow-tailed coat, trimmed with purple, and—" "Ah, zat!" exclaimed the president triumphantly. "Zat is my masterpiece. Zat is for ze secret service."

"Give up" and "Get Back"

"Give Up" and "Get Back" are two wonderful fellows;
"Give Up" is so rosy; "Get Back" always yellow.
"Give Up" has a struggle; he's always so poor;
But "Get Back" has a bank full, and then a lot more.

"Get Back" has a grouch over every wee loss;
"Give Up" loves to whistle and sing on his way;
"Get Back" wouldn't whistle, for that mightn't pay.

"Give Up" likes to have people like him a bit;
"Give Up" is so willing to share all his luck;
"Get Back" keeps it all, or he thinks he is stuck.

"Give Up" takes his sunshine for others to see
"Get Back" thinks the clouds are as good as the sun
But which, in the end, do you think will have won?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

That "Pageant Beautiful" under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute in the Memorial Auditorium Monday night was beautiful in every respect of the word. Not only were the costumes worn by the participants novel, but they showed skilled workmanship and ingenuity on the part of the wearers and their competent teachers. It showed just what can be done in the vocational classes of the Lowell evening schools and no doubt it proved a revelation to the interested audience. The Mathews are to be congratulated for their enterprise in promoting such an affair.

The taking down of the storm boards on the bridges around Lowell is one of the surest signs of spring. The boards on Central bridge were taken down yesterday, and it was a relief to be able to look up the river and watch the cakes of ice floating down. The river at this time of year is always high and the rapid rush of waters is refreshing on a warm and muggy day. The boards were placed in position last November and withstood one of the severest winters on record.

The class of 1923 of the Lowell evening high school claims the distinction of being the first class to hold graduation exercises in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium. The exercises last Tuesday night were conducted under the most auspicious circumstances possible, and proved a noticeable improvement over those conducted in past years in Keith's theatre. The beautiful and spacious stage affords splendid opportunity for the assemblage of the graduates, and while the acoustic properties are not of the best, the very neatness of the auditorium makes up for it. The next big event will be the June graduation of the day high school.

I am interested in artificial eyebrows for women, as a friend of mine had her's burned off in a fire. There was an exhibition of such eyebrows at the national convention of hairdressers in New York recently. They also demonstrate how any woman with the price can get a new set of eyelashes, long and seductive like a movie vamp's. Men will wonder how they're attached—glued or stitched? Ah, life might lose its glamor for men if they knew too much about feminine wiles. For life is an illusion, and all is futile and dismal when our illusions are destroyed. So, with you, we pass on to the less important things of life, chivalry forbidding us intruding on the secrets of the fair sex. But here is another beauty delusion. Rose Malous, beautiful demonstrator, steps in front of a mirror and in three minutes transforms herself from a flapper with bobbed black hair to a gorgeous being with a profusion of shining red-gold tresses. You've seen it done on the stage. But it takes art to "get away with it" face to face. Miss Malous makes the change before the national convention of hairdressers, by simply donning a "transformation" (modern word for wig). The best transformations come from cultured French women who cut off their hair when they become nuns. Transplantation of beauty is a highly developed science among women.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Big Radio Terminals

Boston Globe: When that huge radio terminal, to be the second largest in the United States, is completed at Miami and that huge radio terminal, rivaling the Eiffel tower, is completed in Dublin, Dublin will be able to get prompt news about the latest styles and other things in bathing suits, and Florida will be able to get prompt news about the Irish ructions.

Where Judges Differ

New York World: Federal Judge Evans of the western district of Kentucky has ruled that automobiles cannot be seized or searched for intoxicating liquor without a warrant. Federal Judge Cochran of the eastern district of Kentucky has now ruled that automobiles can be seized or searched for liquor without a warrant, just the same as in a suspected case of bank robbers trying to escape.

Volstead prohibitionists are always demanding respect for law and law enforcement. But precisely what is the law to be respected and enforced as in these Kentucky cases? Is it the law as interpreted and applied to western Kentucky by Judge Evans, who is following article IV, of the Bill of Rights? Or is it the law as interpreted and applied to eastern Kentucky by Judge Cochran, who makes light of the Bill of Rights as to searches and seizures?

Rounding Up the Swindlers

New York Herald: The department of justice evidently is in earnest in its war on the oil stock swindlers. It has not only investigated; it has arrested. In Forth Worth, Texas, the hotbed of fraudulent oil companies, there have been 26 indictments and these have been followed by the seizure of many of the men who have been gulling the susceptible.

In New York, where there are no oil fields but where victims are particularly thick, a federal grand jury has indicted ten oil stock men, nearly all Texans, who are accused of having used the mails to defraud. If the government will follow up its war upon these smooth tongued gentry there ought soon to be an end of oil stock swindling.

Another Soviet Victim

Boston Herald: The execution of Vicar-General Butchkovitch of the Roman Catholic church in Russia for alleged offences against the soviet government adds another name to the long list of religious dignitaries and priests whom the Moscow bolsheviks have done to death. Resort to the firing squad in his case had no justification other than that of a pretext, and was plainly the outcome of a desire for a victim.

That the chief charge against him was substantiated is beyond question. He admitted that, during the soviet raids on church property, he refused to hand over to bolshevist agents the sacred objects of his own church in Petrograd, nor was it denied that he declined to sign a statement declaring such objects to be the property of the government. But that the soviet famine fund suffered as a result cannot be maintained. The pope wrote repeatedly, but unavailingly, to Moscow, offering to buy the treasures and hand over whatever might be demanded for them as a contribution to famine relief. How much would law and order in Russia have suffered by that compromise?

FRATERNAL NEWS

There was a large attendance at last evening's meeting of the B. F. Butler Relief corps, 75, which was held in Memorial hall. In the early part of the evening supper was served by the following committee: Mrs. Elizabeth Ober, chairman; Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Frank Dodge, Mrs. Alva Webb, Mrs. Agnes Donion and Mrs. Mary McQuade. In the course of the business meeting two new members were initiated, plans were made for the holding of a whist party and the serving of luncheon in Memorial hall, on the evening of April 18 and the following officers were inducted into office: Mrs. Alice Felch, president; Mrs. Mary Prescott, secretary; Mrs. Catherine Cheney and Mrs. Elizabeth Dodge, color bearers and Mrs. Edna Chandler, musician.

Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.H.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, A.O.H., was held Tuesday evening in A.O.H. hall, Middle street, with President Catherine Gaffney in the chair. Several applications for membership were received and the bazar committee reported the winners of the recent drawing contest as follows: Miss Mary Dillon, 559 Central street, barrel of flour; M. Clifford, 137 Hovey street, string of pearls. At the close of the business session, a social hour was enjoyed and luncheon was served.

The presentation was made by Alvan E. Joy, chancellor of the lodge, who complimented Mr. Brown for his fine record. The meeting was attended by several past chancellors of the lodge as well as by grandmaster K. of P. from other cities. At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed during which luncheon was served.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

THE FACTS

She's pretty and cuddly and laughing and young,
To jolly an anchorite out of his cave;
And as to her eyes—why they never behave!
They lure every masculine person in reach,
I guess she's a flirt—but I know she's a peach!

Though sometimes it's whispered she juggles the truth
(For popular damsels will tangle their dates
And fib themselves out of some desperate straits);
Her words are not always entirely sincere,
I think she's a liar—I know she's a dear!

She'll coquette with Ninety and flirt with Nineteen,
Unstable as water, a butterfly girl
Who keeps every masculine head in a whirl;
Yet always about her I faithfully hover,
I guess she's a vamp—but I know that I love her!

I have visited all of the public schools in the City of Lowell. I have helped conduct fire drills in the manner which I considered practical. I have addressed a great many individual classes and also groups. I have practically eliminated the walking on railroads, lectured on the dangers of the street, the danger of hopping on teams, autos, and also that of jaywalking. I have talked of the danger of attempting to cross the railroad when the gates are down, thin ice, going in deep water unless one can swim, coasting on the streets, electric wires, fire, gasoline and other explosives. In fact I have lectured on everything that would tend to the conservation of human life especially amongst the school children of Lowell. I have been successful in getting the mayor and the superintendent of police to set aside certain streets for coasting, these being streets considered to have the minimum of danger by traffic.

I have also supervised and observed the pupils of our public schools while going to and from school. This I have done regardless of the hours or the time of day so that I might advise and instruct them of the dangers of the careless manner in which they run and play in the streets at all times.

I also procurred 100 posters (pictorial) showing the dangers of the street. These have been distributed to each school in the City of Lowell. I personally distributed them and asked each principal to see that every class in school saw them and that each individual teacher might speak two or three minutes daily to their classes of the dangers of the streets.

I also requisitioned for and have just received 500 copies in booklet form entitled "Let's make our state safe for the children." These are to be put in the hands of every teacher in the city of Lowell.

Posters and booklets published by Massachusetts safety council.

I know that if these booklets are used as they should be, that the city of Lowell instead of being No. 7 of all the cities in the United States for the percentage of people and children injured and killed on the streets, the city of Lowell will take the place again we vacated two or three years ago which was namely one of the safest cities of the United States.

Some of the fire drills have not been satisfactory but I expect that with my follow-up work everything will be O. K. I have given the business agent of the school department a list of schools which have no bells and also any other minor defects which should be remedied. He assured me that the above will be attended to at once.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) WALTER R. JEYES,
Director of fire and accident prevention in the public schools of the City of Lowell, Massachusetts.

Lor' Lumme! What Mistikes We Mike!

JOHN HOLMES HOWELL, THE PERFECT BUTLER.

By JACK JUNGMEYER

CULVER CITY, Calif., April 3.—Butleling and valeling in the movies bears not the faintest resemblance to these important functions as performed in dear old England.

For this startling and withering statement we have to thank John Holmes Howell, formerly of the household of the Duke of Connaught, if you please, and now technical advisor in all such matters at the Goldwyn studio.

The information is highly important because, it seems, a good many of our youngest families are taking tips on the treatment of servants from the spurious film article. And getting off dreadfully wrong!

"In London, now," says 'e, "a butler who looked like those I've seen in so many American pictures couldn't get a job as a brewer's drayman. Over there they're always six fit 'igh, with plenty of 'air on their 'eads. In most large establishments footmen 'ave to powder. 'Ow could they do it with a bald 'ead?"

"Lor, lumme, the mistakes I see: Calling a duke's daughter 'lady' and 'is son 'mister.' Callin' a baronet a lord fancy that!"

It does seem that we bushwas who've made a little dough and then go putting on airs have been a little off. But let John rub it in.

"They let a servant place a dish at the right-'and side of a lady at table. Of course everyone knows the only thing ever served from the right is wine—" Yes, yes, John, go on! "Most hextraw'dinary!

"Now a valet always haccompanies 'is gentleman, shooting or fishing, as the case may be. There are only three things a gentleman tell 'is servant"—mark this now, you nouveau!—"Where 'e's going, 'ow long 'e will remain and what 'e's going to do."

But here, ladies and gents who compel your help to entertain in the kitchen and pull a lot of spurious swank on your servants, is Mr. 'Owell's real bombshell:

"I've seen King Edward take out a flask and 'and it to his gillie, the game-keeper, you know, before 'e took a drink himself. And it was customary for Queen Victoria to take tea frequently with the gillie's wife.

"In those days it was always 'would you please?' to the servants, and 'no, thank you.' I never 'ear anything like that from the movie people."

Howell has served English nobility all his life, having been in turn cartridge boy to King Edward VII, valet to the Earl of Dudley, Marquis of Zetland, Earl of Minto, Duke of Grafton, Duke of Portland and the Duke of Connaught.

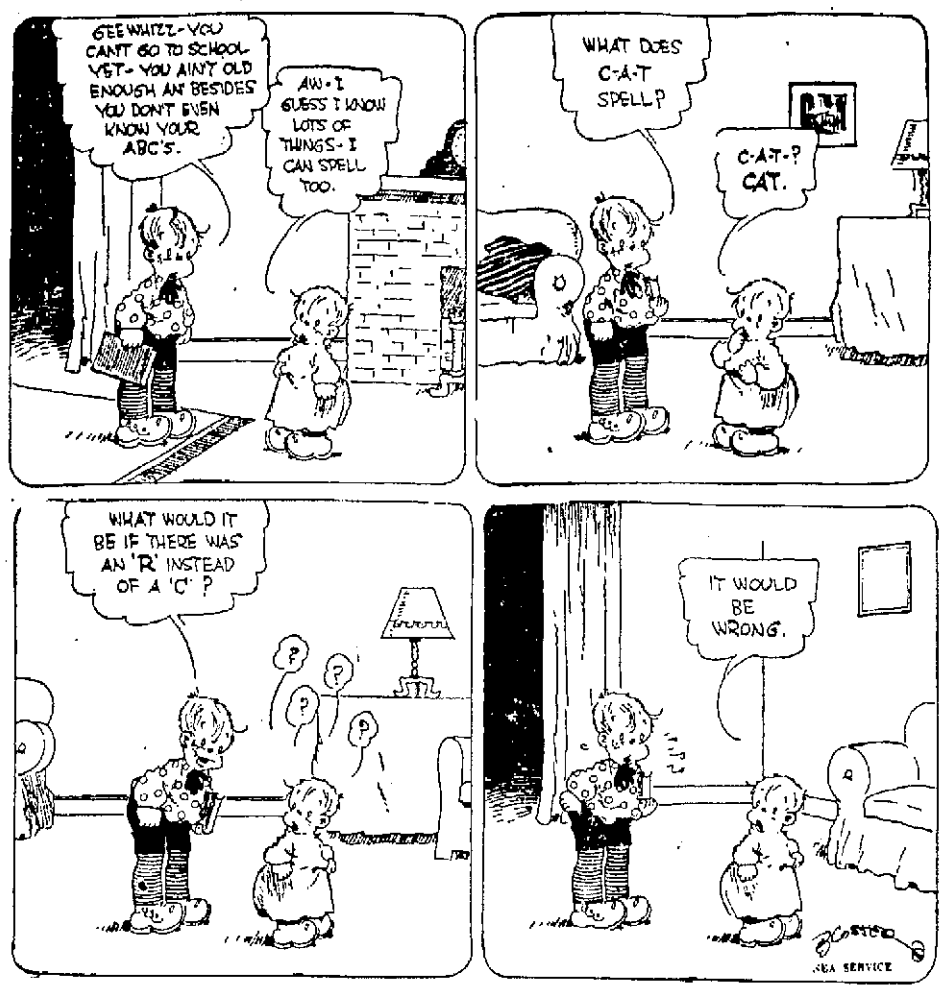

Gosh, how mainstreetish it makes a guy feel to meet up with a sure-enough valet and get the low-down on high life. Dang it, after being talked to by Mr. 'Owell I've almost given up the notion of hiring a maid and putting on airs.

There is a possibility that Doug Fairbanks jr., may appear in pictures. His mother, now Mrs. James Evans, may give him a start in that direction, according to rumor.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

GIRLS' CITY CLUB TO PRESENT "JADE GONG"

This famous song revue, which made such a hit at the Copley-Plaza in Boston, is under the personal direction of Mr. Frederick Brydon of Boston and his assistant, Mr. Russess Wentworth.

There will be a local cast of 100, Mr. Brydon and Mr. Wentworth, both professionals, taking leading parts. Mr. Langdon Matthews, of New York, who has taken premier dancing roles in several musical productions in the metropolis has consented to appear in several special dancing numbers.

This production is entirely different from any other the club has ever staged in Lowell. The talent committee however has been especially fortunate in securing Lowell's most talented singers and dancers and this, coupled with the excellent material which the members themselves can furnish due partly to past experience in this line, points to a very successful presentation.

General dancing until 1.00 a. m. will follow the performance.

King Tut Is Great on Styles But They're Not Enough

King Tut did this! Egyptian designs like those sketched are appearing in embroidery and beading on new frocks and suits. Printed silks are beginning to show scarabs, sphinxes and "the secret hid under Cheops' pyramid." Front panels and wide belts with front buckles are the only definite garment lines borrowed from the Egyptians. Most of the borrowed ideas are for trimming. There's a little difficulty about adopting Egyptian styles entire—there doesn't seem to be enough of them.

An entirely new kind of soap

For all the regular family wash

Use enough Rinso to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt

With this new kind of soap, soaking takes the place of rubbing. There is no drudgery. No wear and tear on the clothes. Rinso is so rich in cleansing power, so safe and gentle, that just soaking in its thick lasting suds loosens all the dirt. When you rinse out your clothes the dirt floats right off. Only the very dirtiest places will need a light rubbing with a little dry Rinso. These obstinate spots will then disappear at once.

Whichever way you wash—Rinso makes it easier

You do not have to change any of your usual steps—just use Rinso where you used to use bar soap. You will find it makes every washday method easier for you. For soaking, for boiling, for washing machines Rinso is ideal. You need no other soap or any soap powder.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soapmakers in the world. Just as Lux has made all fine laundering safe and easy, so Rinso has taken all the harmful rubbing and drudgery out of the family wash.

Get Rinso today at any grocery or department store. It comes in two sizes, the regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

LOWELL AD CLUB MEETING

Novel and Interesting Address by Representative of Advertising Agency

Speaker Says Printers' Ink More Effective Than Ad Club Meetings

"Blue Sky vs. Brass Tacks," an original comparative version of the ambitious and the unambitious, the expert and the inexpert, the straight goods dealers and the fakirs, provided a meaty topic for future debating in local Advertising club channels, at the weekly rally of members of both sexes in Middlesex hall, yesterday. The interesting guest and speaker for the day was George Danielson, stellar light of the Danielson Advertising agency of Providence, R. I., who spoke at length on modern advertising methods.

The visitor gave a few new tips to show how success can be attained when promotions are honest and preparations for sales distributions carefully planned in advance of public announcements of selling campaigns.

Previous to the Danielson address, Benjamin Pouzzner read a communication from Clarence E. Weed, asking the endorsement of the coming two-day convention of the State Department for the Blind, which is to be held at the Memorial Auditorium, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25. The Advertising club has been asked to aid in making a success of both the convention of the blind and also the concert to be given by Abraham Haitowitsch, Russian violinist, who is totally blind and who is to give a recital in the Auditorium on Tuesday evening, April 24.

It has been suggested by the violinist that arrangements be made for concert attendance in order that the proceeds may be divided between the visiting blind musician and the state organization that cares for blind men, women and children. The Ad club members think very favorably of the proposition brought to their attention by Mr. Pouzzner.

A committee of five club members will be named by E. J. Cooney to handle the matter amicably to all and furnish all club aid necessary to "put across" the matter referred to by Mr. Weed.

New song books were presented to the club members today and song No. 15, "Quack, Quack, Quack," etc., was sung with a vim with piano leading. The Ad club songs are reminiscent of Rotarian song books now used. Charles J. Keyes of The Sun advertising department, led today's chorus singing in snappy style.

There was no report to offer by the committee on the Mardi Gras carnival. Four members of the Lowell Driving club are to call around next Wednesday afternoon and seek the Ad club members' assistance in making the coming agricultural fair at Golden Cove a big winner. The Ad men and ladies said today they were heartily interested in the driving club's program. The committee on essays deferred making a report until the next meeting.

Mr. Danielson Introduced

Chairman Cooney introduced the Providence speaker, Mr. Danielson, as an old friend who was to bring a new message in advertising and general business activities. The visitor was introduced by his first name, as Mr. Cooney has known the gentleman for many years.

Mr. Danielson declared that he always preferred to call the chairman "Ed," as the Lowell Gas company attaches had formerly lived and worked in Providence, where he made and still keeps a host of real friends. The visiting speaker further stated that Mr. Cooney, while in Providence, was always called upon by live-wire interests to put campaigns of all important brands "across."

After the tribute to Mr. Cooney, the Providence man explained what a real "live wire" business man is and his incentives. He said "live wires" were not the whole thing, though, and never "the whole works," but just a wheel horse in good business affairs. In Providence the Advertising clubmen are known as "Town Criers" and there is a Better Business Bureau down there, too, that may have a Lowell branch one of these days.

The Providence club, Mr. Danielson continued, is famous for not a few things. It is a pulsating machine in the business channels of the city and state. It can do more for many business campaigns than a chamber of commerce, he said, although in no way taking the place of the latter organization, which is apt to work more conservatively at all times, as to be expected.

Mr. Danielson paid tributes also to the use of printers' ink in advertising campaigns, and declared that "printers' ink is worth a good deal more than a month of Advertising club meetings, to put it frankly. He named advertising campaigns in which the newspapers put propositions before the public and created demands. He praised the mental stimulus that is steadily growing in all business circles today, he affirmed, bringing examples of widespread movements backed by men of brains and ingenuity.

Referring to his speaking topic, "Blue Sky vs. Brass Tacks," Mr. Danielson declared that in the former class are those who ought to adopt the methods of Jawn McGraw, the baseball manager, for "too many of us are growing careless today in our business batting averages," he continued. He once met a man who came from Kiel, Russia, who declared that some of his ancestors came over in the Mayflower, but that wasn't anything new, for the complete list of Mayflower descendants will probably never be published in its entirety. Too many "composite mixtures" in the world of business are making some men four-flushers, bluffers, lovers of easy living, etc.

Picking Wrong Vocations

Mr. Danielson declared that many men and women pick the wrong vocations. A jeweler's tool-maker wanted to start a school for nurses; a blue-eyed girl wanted to open a mail-order business, securing names of "southern buyers," because the mail-order house she worked for happened to sell a certain brand of merchandise in southern states. She had something to sell, perhaps, but the south would not have been the place to start a mail-order campaign. Failures result frequently because of such ill-advised and ill-planned programs of action, the Providence man declared.

The speaker declared business to be "wide open today." It is easier to get information from business men and their business affairs. As a rule, all books are open for the perusal of all honest people desiring to do business with reputable concerns. It is no longer fashionable to hide or put up a bluff or claim sensational things that turn out to be false and harmful. The speaker called this "The Truth Movement," and declared that the "Associated Advertising Clubs of the World" had as much to do with bringing about honest business conditions of today as any other organization of modern times.

Members of the Providence "Town Criers" are now attempting to market for the first time in history through various sales channels, "package Johnny cake," Mr. Danielson said. It is to be distinctly a Rhode Island product. His story of the plans under way to distribute the package and keep it in proper condition was interesting in detail, he declared, however, that marketing plans are the main thing in making money on any product that is to be sold. Lack of system will stifle demands and profits will disappear unless the managers of the distribution campaign know their ground in advance and produce a plan of action with ample safety reserves that will win the success desired.

THE "CROWNING GLORY"

Sterling Chemistry Laboratory Built Out of Benefactions to Yale Dedicated

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 4.—The Sterling chemistry laboratory built out of the benefactions to Yale university under the will of John W. Sterling, and described academically as "the best organized material plant for the teaching of chemistry and the prosecution of chemical research" in the United States, was formally dedicated this morning. As a capital investment the outlay has been about two million dollars. As a pile of masonry, it adds another imposing structure architecturally to the university plant, of which the Harkness Memorial has been described as the "crowning glory."

Gathered at the building in Prospect street, were members of the American Chemical society, many score of world-known scientists in the field of chemical research, a hundred or two graduates of "Sheff" and the University Fellows, with the faculties of the Sheffield Scientific school, the college and the departments.

The presentation was made by Geo. H. Church of New York, acting for the trustees under the Sterling will. The acceptance was by President Rowland Angell.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

WATERBURY, Conn., April 4.—Counsel for George Beach, superintendent of police and the American Civil Liberties union, were attempting today to arrange a truce under which Carlo Tresca, prominent radical, would be able to speak in this city. Tresca has been prevented by the police from speaking here on several occasions.

VAN BUREN, Me., April 4.—Dr. S. W. Boone of Presque Isle, county medical examiner, came here this afternoon to investigate the fire in the Kinen House yesterday which caused the death by suffocation of a man and a woman and the latter's two children and the subsequent death of the proprietor from burns.

CONCORD, N. H., April 4.—The house of representatives today passed without a roll call a bill which repeals a state law compelling vaccination of school children. The fight over the repeal of the statute was fought long and bitterly in committee.

CHICAGO, April 4.—For the second time in a month, Chicago boxing fans denied public boxing for a score of years tonight will see a world's champion in action. Not only that, but the exhibition will be supported by the ring appearance of an American champion.

MARION, Ills., April 4.—(By the Associated Press) Otis Clark, alleged by the prosecution in the Herrin riots trial to have been one of the riot leaders, pleaded in vain to save the prisoners, according to the testimony of defense witnesses today.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 4.—Secret indictments involving a score of Twin City residents in an alleged nation-wide conspiracy to deal in bonds stolen from the government mails, were returned today by the federal grand jury here.

4800 QUARTS OF RYE AND SCOTCH SEIZED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 4.—A refrigerator car loaded with 4800 quarts of Scotch and rye whiskey disguised as a consignment of grapefruit, was seized in the Big Four Railroad yards today. The shipment was from Florida.

TORNADO DEATH TOLL NOW 20

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 5.—The death toll as a result of the tornado which, late yesterday, swept Alexandria and Pineville, was placed at 20 today. A check by the authorities developed that undertaking establishments here had the bodies of 14 white victims and six negroes.

The total injured was placed at 60, more than 30 of whom are in the United States Veterans' hospital near Pineville.

The property damage was placed at $500,000.

Heavy Property Damage

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—Following in the wake of an unprecedented precipitation, a tornado last night skooped down upon the little town of Pineville, La., killing fourteen persons, injuring at least 50 others and laying waste to everything within its three mile path of several hundred yards wide.

All doctors in Alexandria and Pineville, assisted by citizens of the two villages, throughout the night searched the ruins of the 50 or more house razed for the dead and injured.

Torrential rains, hail storms, swollen streams, interrupted train service and floods were reported from a number of points in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Many Injured by Storm

20 Houses Wrecked

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 5.—A tornado passed through Cass county late yesterday, wrecking 20 houses and a number of barns. No deaths or injuries were reported.

METHODISTS DO NOT COUNTENANCE K. K. K.

HOLYOKE, April 4—Replying to the address of welcome of Mayor John F. Cronin at the opening of the New England Methodist conference today, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, presiding, took occasion to state that the Methodist church did not countenance the K.K.K. He was led to make this statement in recognition of the fact, he said, that Mayor Cronin, a Roman Catholic, had displayed a liberal Christian spirit in overlooking distinctions of creed. Bishop Hughes said that while the Methodists as individuals were affiliated with many secret organizations, they did not for a minute countenance the class of activities for which the K.K.K. stood.

Mayor Cronin in his address spoke highly of the Methodists. Former Mayor N. P. Avery welcomed the conference for the chamber of commerce. The conference organized with choice of Rev. A. B. Tyler as secretary, Rev. A. M. Osgood as historical secretary and Rev. W. A. Kilmer as treasurer. A memorial service for ministers and ministers' wives who have died during the year, was conducted by Rev. G. S. Butters.

District Superintendent J. M. Shepler reported for the Boston district. He emphasized the value of men's clubs and the necessity of soul-winning work by laymen.

HOD CARRIERS STRIKE

WORCESTER, April 4.—Work on several buildings under construction in Worcester was suspended today following a strike by 250 hod carriers for a raise of 15 cents an hour in their pay. They are now receiving 75 cents an hour.

SUIT FOR $15,000,000

BOSTON, April 4.—Judge Keating of the superior court today denied a motion of defendants that the $15,000,000 suit of Willett, Sears & Co., against local banking interests be sent to an auditor to determine what damages, if any, the plaintiffs are entitled to recover.

REAR-ADMIRAL MOORE DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—Rear-Admiral Charles B. Taylor Moore, retired, died at the naval hospital at the Philadelphia navy yard today. He had been a patient since Saturday when he arrived there from Decatur, Ills., his home.

KIDNAPPED AND WHIPPED

Woman With Hands Tied by Assailants Witnessed Whipping of Companion

MACON, Ga., April 5.—Her hands tied by her assailants, Mrs. Frederick Pace, of New York, late last night witnessed the severe whipping of her companion, Lynwood L. Bright of this city, after they had been kidnapped from their automobile by eight unmasked men and taken to a secluded spot four miles from here.

Bright said he was given 24 hours in which to leave the city under penalty of death. He stated it would be impossible to comply because a week would be required to finish up his business affairs.

Mrs. Pace told officers the kidnappers said they resented testimony of a negress in Bright's divorce case last Monday. Bright said they added blows after they charged him with an attempt to take his property away from his children. He said he could identify some of his assailants, although he did not know them personally. Mrs. Pace was not molested further than being forced to watch the beating.

Mrs. Bright, when informed of the whipping at her hotel last night said she "was very glad to know there were some men in the world anyway."

Mrs. Pace declared before officers that "Mrs. Bright knows all about this kidnapping."

Mrs. Pace begged that the affair be kept from the newspapers, saying that she was going to leave the city at once and did not want any further embarrassment.

The scene of the kidnapping was near where Dr. Eugene Schreiber of Boston was kidnapped several months ago. Residents who saw both attacks said the circumstances in last night's affair were almost identical with the Schreiber case, even to the type of automobiles used.

Bright and Mrs. Pace were found by deputies walking towards Atlanta. They said the route taken to the scene of the flogging was circuitous and had confused their sense of direction.

After relating the incident to police, Mrs. Pace was taken to her hotel and Bright left without stating his destination. He was suffering from flesh wounds chased by the lash, and it was understood that a doctor had been summoned to give him attention.

Mrs. Pace lives with her mother at 137 Fort Washington ave., New York city. She recently figured in a suit brought by Mrs. Bright for alienation of her husband's affections. The case was settled out of court.

ZIONISM WAS HOOTED

Jews Prohibited From Approaching "Wailing Wall" For Prayer

JERUSALEM, April 4. (Jewish Telegraph Agency.)—Several persons were arrested during an Arab procession in celebration of the "Nebi Moussa" (the Prophet Moses) in which Zionism was hooted and cheers given for the Angora leader, Mustapha Kemal Pasha.

"Palestine Is Our Own Country," "Down with Zionism" and "Long Live Mustapha" were some of the shouts of the marchers.

On account of the procession, Jews were prohibited from approaching the "wailing wall" for prayer during the Passover, as has been the custom of Palestinian Jews through the ages, fact that they were denied access on this Passover for the first time created great indignation among the Jews.

A series of experiments conducted at Liverpool indicates that certain plants grow better by moonlight than by the light of the sun.

Priest Captured From His Abductors

NEW YORK, April 4.—(By the Associated Press)—A telegram from Buffalo signed "J. I. Perrine," was received today at Knights of Columbus headquarters here stating that Rev. J. A. Vranisk of Virden, Ills., reported kidnapped in Venice, Ills., on March 5, had been "captured from his abductors" and was being returned to his home. The telegram, which gave Perrine's address only as "The Square" was addressed to John B. Kennedy, editor of Columbia, a magazine published by the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Kennedy expressed belief that the telegram was not a hoax.

Aeroplane Factory Sues for $51,500,000

WASHINGTON, April 4. Alleging conspiracy to destroy his business, James V. Martin, of the Martin Aeroplane factory, Long Island, filed suit under the Clayton act here today to recover $51,510,000 from the Manufacturers Aircraft Association, Inc., 27 other corporations and 38 individuals. William B. Sebherz of East Greenwich, R. I., was named as an individual defendant. The corporations named include the Burgess Co., of Massachusetts; Sturtevant Aeroplane Co., of Massachusetts and the J. G. White & Co., Connecticut.

Court Orders Return of Seized Whiskey

BOSTON, April 4.—The return to the owners of four barrels of whiskey, seized in September, 1920, from the homes of wealthy residents of the North Shore, was ordered by Judge Peters in the Federal district court today. The court ruled that the seizures were unlawfully made because the federal prohibition agents entered the private residences without search warrants and falsely represented themselves to be deputy internal revenue collectors. "Liquor taken from a dwelling," the court said, "is not necessarily contraband. Its possession may be entirely lawful."

Woman Beaten; Ordered to Leave Town

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—Mrs. Louise Collins, 50, was taken bound from her home at Santa Fe Springs, near here, early today, by five masked men, beaten and ordered to leave the town, according to the story she told deputy sheriffs. The woman was found in a roadway by motorists, her head cut and bleeding.

Dye Kettle Burst—Seven Men Injured

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 4. Seven men were injured at the plant of the National Aniline & Chemical Co., today, when a large kettle of boiling dye burst.

FORCED BY POLICE TO MARRY BRADLEY

SPRINGFIELD, April 4. Mrs. Sarah J. Miller, 22, who pleaded guilty here today to a charge of bigamy, told the court that she was forced by the police of Woonsocket, R. I., to marry Frank V. Bradley, of that city in March, 1921, but admitted that she told neither the police nor the officiating priest that she was already married to Rudolph H. Miller of this city, in a ceremony performed in 1917. She said she was compelled to marry Bradley after the Woonsocket police chief had given her carfare to leave the city where she and Bradley had been living and she had later rejoined him there. A suspended reformatory sentence was imposed.

NEW YORK, April 4. Four armed bandits today held up two messengers of the Standard Oil Co., in a Brooklyn street and escaped with $1500 in cash and checks amounting to $10,000.

UNITED SHOE TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK

BOSTON, April 4.—The directors of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation voted today to increase the capital stock by the issuance of one million additional shares of common stock of the par value of $25, making the total capitalization $75,000,000. The new stock is to be distributed pro rata to present holders of common stock.

The directors announced that upon approval of the new issue by the stockholders at a meeting in May the corporation would take over the business of certain of its domestic subsidiaries of which the capital stock is now wholly owned by the parent corporation. The names of these subsidiaries were not announced.

WILL AFFECT LEGION POSTS

WORCESTER, April 4.—Court action that will affect many American Legion posts in Massachusetts has been started by George F. Birch of Milford and others in filing in Worcester county superior court a petition for an injunction to restrain the selectmen of Milford from carrying out a vote of a town meeting to lease quarters for the Legion post in that town, for a period of five years. The bill in equity claims that the town had no legal or constitutional right to pass such a vote. A hearing on the matter has been set for next Monday in Worcester.

AGAINST DAYLIGHT SAVING

HARTFORD, Conn., April 4.—An anti-daylight saving bill which would impose a fine of $100 or 10 days imprisonment for "malicious violations" was passed by the house of the Connecticut general assembly today. It declares that only standard time shall be shown on timepieces in public places, including schools, throughout the state. Members consider that it applies even to wrist watches. The bill goes to the senate.

ICE BREAKS UP

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., April 4.—Local rains last night, following a day of rising temperature, caused the ice in the Connecticut river opposite this town to break up this morning, although there has been no perceptible increase in the volume of water in the river which had been drawn down to a low level.

Carpet Plant Closed by Strike

BOSTON, April 4.—The Roxbury Carpet Co.'s plant at Saxonville was closed today, as a result of the strike begun last week in protest against a new efficiency system. Conferences between the company and representatives of the 300 strikers having failed to develop an agreement, company officials announced, it was decided to suspend operations. The plant employs about 700 persons.

Adventures of The Twins

THE ELEPHANT

"ON IT WAS A SIGN WHICH SAID, "THE HOME OF THE KNICK KNACKS."

They passed Milk Shake and Raspberry Pop Pond and presently came to a cracker box shaped like a Noah's ark.

On it was a sign which said, "The home of the Knick-Knacks."

As Nancy and Nick approached, a knick-knack elephant came rushing out and after him came a knick-knack poodle dog.

"Give it back. Give it back or I'll bite you," barked the poodle. "You stole my crumb. Come here and give it back."

When the knick-knack elephant saw the twins he rushed behind them. "Oh, hide me, please hide me!" he cried.

"Why don't you give him back his crumb, then?" asked Nancy sharply.

"Can't," replied the elephant. "It's gone. I ate it."

Nancy felt sorry for the elephant and spread her skirts out in front of him. "Shoo!" she said to the knick-knack poodle, when he came rushing up barking like a—like a—barking like a poodle dog. "He hasn't got your crumb. He ate it."

"Tell him I'll trade turns with him," whispered the elephant.

"He says he'll trade turns with you," repeated Nancy.

"Well, I don't like to trade turns," said the poodle. "Somebody's always trading turns with me, and I never get a bite. We eat the crumbs in the bottom of the box, the crumbs that break off our ears and tails and paws and stick-out places. And it was my turn to eat the next crumb. I was just about to get it when Mr. Elephant reached down with his long trunk and gobbled it up."

"Oh, oh!" cried the elephant suddenly. "I've lost my tail. It's fallen off while I was running."

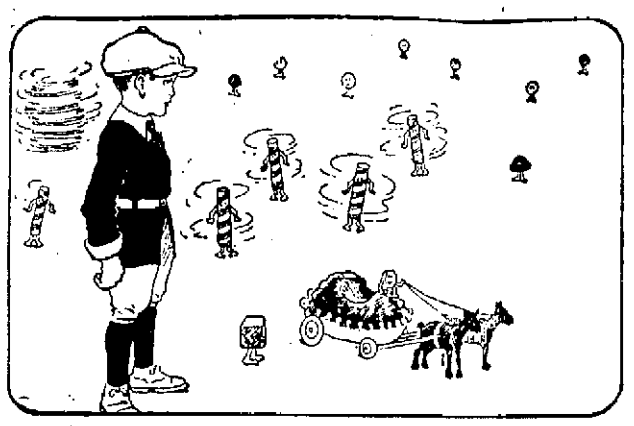

"I'll go and find it," said the poodle-dog in a more friendly voice. "And if I find it I'm going to eat it. Then we'll be even."

"You're welcome, I'm sure," said the elephant. "I don't care, just so I don't lose my trunk." And off they went together.

Jack Daw in Candy Land. Chapter 13

Jack stayed at the Candy Land dance floor for quite a while, watching the white and red candy whirl around and then finally run off the floor as peppermint sticks. Then a little candy coach pulled up beside Caramel. It was made of a maple puff and pulled by little chocolate animals.

Caramel hopped into the coach and then, turning to Jack, he sad, "I'm sorry I haven't a coach big enough to carry you, but if you want to walk over to Chocolate Lake, I'd be glad to have you follow along behind me." "Go right ahead," said Jack, "I don't mind, walking."

The little chocolate animals carried Caramel briskly along and Jack laughed as he watched the maple puff coach bob up and down over the road. "What makes this road so rough?" Jack asked. "Oh," replied Caramel, "this street is paved with rock candy. That's why it's bumpy." (Continued.)

INTERNATIONAL COTTON BULLETIN

MANCHESTER, England, April 5.—The quarterly issue of the International Cotton Bulletin, published today gives a concise survey of conditions in the industry throughout the world. Nineteen countries contribute reports, bringing the international statistics down to Feb. 1.

The Bulletin estimates that allowing for unreported spindles the world consumption of cotton during the last half year, exceeded 13,000,000 bales. It adds that most of the European and Asiatic countries reduced their consumption of American cotton, depending on outside crops.

It is estimated that the total number of spindles in the world is about 1,-500,000 greater than at the end of last July. Inasmuch as this increase is mainly accounted for by such countries, as India, China and Japan, where the consuming power spindle in considerably larger than in Europe, this growth represents a capacity of probably five or six million Lancashire spindles.

CHIFFON NEGLIGEE

A chiffon negligee on very simple lines pins its whole claim to distinction on a lace bertha which is very wide over the shoulders and follows the line of the center opening to the feet, shading in width until at the hem it becomes very narrow.

FASCINATING SIMPLICITY

The all-white evening frock is very popular in Paris, particularly if it is cut on rather classic lines and embroidered in silk with added designs in rhinestones or pearl beads.

HINDU EMBROIDERY

TO START $40,000 DRIVE

St. Jeanne d'Arc Parish Will Campaign for Building Improvement Fund

At a recent meeting of a group of business and professional men, all members of St. Jeanne d'Arc parish, plans were made for the starting of a drive for a fund of $40,000 for needed improvements to the parish buildings.

The committee organized with Lawyer Henry V. Charbonneau as chairman; Adolphe Brassard, secretary and Rev. Leon Lamothe, O.M.I., treasurer. The drive will be conducted in the parish only and it is hoped that the necessary funds will be raised before next fall.

According to present arrangements, each member of the parish who is employed will be asked to donate a certain amount and it is said that the amount will be within the reach of every one. Envelopes will be distributed throughout the parish and will later be taken up in church with the donations.

The plans are to enlarge the rectory in White street, which at present provides inadequate quarters for the clergymen of the parish. It is also being planned to build an addition of ten classrooms to the school building in Moody street and also to erect a home for the Grey Nuns of the Cross of Ottawa, who are in charge of the school. The committee, which is composed of fifteen members, will meet again tomorrow evening, to complete all plans for the drive.

H. V. CHARBONNEAU

GREEKS' GOOD FRIDAY

Members of Local Greek Church Will Observe Good Friday Tomorrow

Members of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church, this city, will observe Good Friday tomorrow and as in previous years this feast will be observed with special services in the church and a street parade in which "Epitaphios," the bas-relief Christ will be carried solemnly through the principal streets of the community.

CONSTANTINE VURGAROPOULOS
Chief Marshal

The services will open at 7 o'clock, the officiating clergymen to be Rev. Nicholas Menledes and Rev. Costas Pappanicholaou, and at 9 o'clock the line of march will be formed in front of the church in Jefferson street. Constantine Vurgaropoulos, president of the community will act as chief marshal and the line will be headed by the Portuguese band. Next in line will be the school children, followed by the clergy and "Epitaphios" carried on the shoulders of six stalwart members of the church. The rear of the parade will be taken up by members of the congregation, some of whom will carry lighted tapers, while others will burn off red fire.

"Epitaphios" will be handsomely decorated with 3000 carnations, lilacs and roses. The line of march will be through Jefferson street, to Lewis, to Broadway, to Dutton, to Market, to Adams, to Lagrange, to Suffolk, to Jefferson and back into the church, where elaborate services will be conducted.

It was stated today that church members who reside along the line of march, will decorate their windows with lighted tapers and pictures of saints.

Sunday will be Easter Sunday, the most important feast on the Julian calendar. In observance of Easter Sunday a special service will be conducted in the church, beginning Saturday night at 10 o'clock and continuing until after midnight, or the early hours of Easter Sunday. During the day family reunions will take place and the piece de resistance at the noonday meal will be roast lamb and the traditional red eggs.

ROGERS ADDRESSES LOWELL DRUGGISTS

Addressing the members of the Lowell Pharmaceutical association gathered last evening in annual session at Marie's restaurant, Congressman John Jacob Rogers said that government restrictions on business are being "carried to the limit and even beyond the breaking point these days." He expressed the opinion that his hearers have experienced some of "this overdone legislation" in their own line of business.

The dining room was filled when the dinner started promptly on schedule. During the courses Eddie Donahue sang popular songs, accompanied by John Ball. President John F. Walsh of the druggists' association introduced Timothy Shea, president of the state association, who gave an instructive address on the work of the association in behalf of the individual druggist. He recounted some of the "prohibition problems" and trials and cautioned his hearers against any action that would in the slightest reflect on the standard of their business.

Congressman Rogers, next introduced, described some of the duties a district representative has to perform in Washington. He will have more time at home this year, he added, for it is the first time since 1915 that there hasn't been a "summer session" of congress.

Speaking of new laws and regulations that sometimes irritate "the people," the congressman declared frankly that the government is reaching out for all sorts of privileges and if the thing goes on there will be no more need for the individual states.

There were informal addresses by Herbert Webster, Dr. Thomas B. Delaney and Dr. E. A. Robertson. The banquet committee included William H. Noonan, Frank Finnerty and Charles Devno. The officers of the association are President John F. Walsh, vice President Lucien R. Brunelle, secretary-Treasurer Fred E. Jones.

"PEEPING TOM" IN PERRY STREET

Complaints have reached police headquarters that a "Peeping Tom" is operating in the vicinity of Perry street. Last night a resident of that street telephoned the police station that a man had been seen looking in a house window, but escaped before he could be apprehended or a description taken. Complaints of this nature have been rare in recent times and the police will appreciate any information leading to the apprehension of the guilty party.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Frank Hannon and Miss Alice Sullivan took place Monday at St. Patrick's rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Thomas J. McDonough. Miss Margaret C. Sullivan, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while the best man was Mr. Daniel McGrath. The couple will make their home in this city.

MAYOR COMPLIMENTS CEMETERY BOARD

Mayor John J. Donovan yesterday afternoon took the opportunity to compliment the board of cemetery commissioners for its splendid care of public burying grounds and the general standard of efficiency maintained in the operation of this important department. The mayor attended the meeting of the commission held in his reception room at 5 p. m. Chairman William H. Rigby presided and all members were present.

The annual report of the commission was submitted to the mayor and it showed a general fund balance as of Jan. 1 of $12,742.98. The board again complains of trespassing on its properties at the Old English and Westlawn cemeteries and suggests the superintendent of police be requested to instruct patrolmen whose beats are in the vicinity of these two cemeteries to make occasional inspections of them.

Routine business transacted included the approval of monthly bills amounting to $251.54.

WILLIAM H. RIGBY,
Chairman.

STOLEN PROPERTY CASE PLACED ON FILE

Pending civil satisfaction and the payment of court costs, Stanley and Viktoria Marofska, of 60 Williams street, charged with receiving stolen property, had the case placed on file after a hearing in the district court this morning. The couple were arrested about a week ago after Lieut. Martin Maher, Sergt. Philip Dwyer and Maj. A. J. Noyes, following a tip given them by members of the liquor squad, visited the Williams street house and found a large quantity of silk, bobbins, cloth and spools, the property of the Ipswich hosiery, stored in the house and ready for manufacture into shawls. Several filet shawls had been finished on a home-made loom.

The alarm from box 226 at 10.37 o'clock last evening, was for a blaze in a pile of rubbish and excelsior in George street. There was no damage.

Miss Pauline Wheeler of 49 Temple street, was agreeably surprised at her home yesterday afternoon, when a number of her friends called to congratulate her and offer her their best wishes on the occasion of her sixth birthday. Games were played and luncheon was served. Those who participated in the festivities were Katherine and Eileen Cryan, Douglas Hanson, John Taylor, Jr., Rita McLaughlin, Frank Orrell, Jr., Isabelle and Gertrude Orrell.

WORK OF LISTING POLLS IS PROGRESSING

Work of listing polls in the city by police officers working under the direction of the new listing board, Superintendent Thomas R. Atkinson of the police department, chairman, is progressing most satisfactorily and the superintendent has every reason to believe the work will be completed within seven working days, or by next Tuesday.

Two precincts, Precinct 4 of Ward 7 and Precinct 6 of Ward 9, already have been finished by the four patrolmen assigned to these districts and although they are small precincts, they give a fair indication of the progress of the work which began last Monday. In two other precincts, particularly large ones in Wards 6 and 7, additional officers have been assigned to help out the pairs originally named to cover them.

Both men were captured by Chief of Police Cranston of Warwick after, it is alleged, they had tried to hire a passing motorist to get them away. Later the men were turned over to the federal prohibition authorities, who brought them to the federal building in this city.

The four bandits escaped by running down a side road and disappearing in the woods. It is not known whether any of them was injured by the bullets or by the ditching of their cars

Fall River Fire Captain Drops Dead

FALL RIVER, April 5.—Fire Captain Robert Mitchell dropped dead just after he arrived to help fight a fire which destroyed the five-story brick Nichols building at Bedford and Sixth streets today. John Harrington, an employe of the Webster Loom Harness Co., whose factory occupied three floors of the building, jumped from a third story window and broke one leg. The Fall River Steam & Gas Pipe Co., and A. Wood, second hand furniture dealer, were other occupants. The total loss was placed at about $60,000.

TO HOLD MILITARY MASS

Outdoor Mass Feature of American Legion's Memorial Day Program

On the morning of May 30 at 10 o'clock, an outdoor military mass, the second in the history of the city, will be celebrated on the South common in connection with the Memorial day program of the local post of the American Legion. Rev. William F. Mahan, O.M.I. of the Sacred Heart church and chaplain of the Lowell Post of the Legion will have charge of the service, and it is certain that under his capable direction, the citizens of Lowell will witness an inspiring and impressive ceremony.

The first military mass in this city was celebrated two years ago, 1921, and this also was in charge of Rev. Fr. Mahan. This year the beloved chaplain is planning the event on a more elaborate scale and hopes to have as the principal speaker, the famous Father Duffy, chaplain of the old Fighting 69th regiment of New York and a hero of the World war. It is also expected that the occasion will be graced with the presence of His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, although neither he nor Fr. Duffy have formally accepted the invitation as yet.

According to tentative plans now in process of arrangement, the altar will be erected on the Thorndike street side of the wading pool and will be decorated by the gold star mothers of the city. The decorations will consist of bouquets of flowers for every Lowell boy who paid the supreme sacrifice, while the flag which draped their caskets on the final journey home, will also adorn the sacred scene.

Music will be rendered by a choir of 500 mixed voices representing practically every church choir in the city. A band will furnish memorial music, drums will roll at the elevation of the host, and a salvo from Battery B will sound taps at the conclusion of the mass. A sanctuary area will be marked off for the clergy, while members of the G.A.R. will occupy special reservations. All semi-military organizations will be invited to participate. A parade will precede the celebration of the mass. Members of Lowell Post of the American Legion will assemble at the Memorial Auditorium and the semi-military organizations will be requested to meet there also.

Assisting Fr. Mahan in the arrangements are Capt. George Faneuf of Battery B and Robert A. Ginivan of the Legion. The mass will be solemn high.

CONVENTION DELEGATE

Believed That Well Known Lowell Hibernian Will Go to Montreal

Lowell Hibernians are all agog over the candidacy of John Barrett for delegate to the international convention in Montreal next August and indications point today to the county convention naming the popular Hibernian leader on Sunday next in Newton.

John Barrett's candidacy has received the endorsement of the three local divisions of Hibernians, and the Central council, A.O.H., and advices from other ends of the county indicate his election beyond a doubt. Mr. Barrett's interest in Hibernian matters locally alone ought to earn for him the preferment at the hands of his colleagues. Early and late, in sunshine and rain, John Barrett has labored for the cause of Hibernianism. He has served in various official capacities, is regarded as one of the best authorities on the history of the order and in fact has written quite interestingly on the development of Division 8, A.O.H. As secretary of the St. Patrick's day convention for years, he was faithful and his records always were comprehensive and interesting. Few men have labored more zealously than he in every undertaking and the enthusiasm over his candidacy at A.O.H. headquarters is a fine index of the high regard entertained for his worth as an able member of the order.

JOHN BARRETT

The convention on Sunday will be presided over by County President Thomas F. Linehan and an impressive feature of the deliberations will be an address in eulogy of the late Michael J. Monahan by Mr. Barrett. No man in Hibernian circles was closer or dearer to the deceased president of the Central council than Mr. Barrett and hence it is eminently fitting that he be selected to give expression to the great loss Hibernianism has experienced in the passing of his friend and colleague.

Local representatives to the Newton convention are as follows:

In addition to the above, quite a few prominent Hibernians will make the trip and it is expected that Mayor Donovan, Thomas Healey, John Tully, Joseph Garrity, Michael Harrington, James Barrett and others will rally to the Barrett cause and see that the genial John Barrett comes through with flying colors. In fact there appears to be a fine organization lined up for the local man.

OVINGTON, Ky., April 5.—Right to search saloons or any other public places where federal officers have reason to believe the prohibition law is being violated, without search warrants, was upheld today by Judge Cochran in the United States court here.

Connecticut River Rises Four Feet

SPRINGFIELD, April 5.—The Connecticut river has risen nearly four feet in the last 24 hours and is rising more than an inch an hour here today, under the combined effect of rain and warm weather. The river is more or less filled with ice between this city and Brattleboro, Vt. At Shelburne Falls, water from the Deerfield river is level with the highway but no damage has been reported.

Clothing Labels

There's a difference in labels. Some labels are a libel on quality. Others are a proof of fine quality and satisfactory wear. Most labels indicate where your clothes come from.

Mahoney's label indicates what they amount to. In other words, Mahoney's label on a Suit or Topcoat indicates not only where you got it, but what you got—Service—Quality—Style and a saving.

12 1-2 P. C. RAISE UNSATISFACTORY

Dissatisfied With 12 1-2 P. C. Increases Recently Granted by N. E. Textile Mills, the Executive Committee of the U. T. W. Decide on Campaign Not Only For an Additional Increase of 14.9 P. C. But For Cut in Hours

NEW YORK, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) Dissatisfied with the 12½ per cent. wage increases recently granted by New England textile mills, the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America have decided on a campaign not only for an additional increase of 14.9 per cent. but for a cut in working hours from 54 to 48, President Thomas F. McMahon announced today.

This decision, Mr. McMahon said, was reached at a special meeting of the board yesterday. James Starr, vice president of the union, will leave for Manchester, N. H., tomorrow, to take charge of the campaign, which will be started intensively next Monday.

"In a month or so," he declared, "we expected to be in a position where we can take the 48 hour week and the additional wage increase needed to bring our workers back to the pre-1920 wage level."

Foreign language speakers are being "borrowed" from other unions for the campaign, he said.

Discussing the recent wage increases announced in New England and particularly the statement of New Bedford manufacturers that the increase restored workers to the war time wage level, Mr. McMahon said:

"On Dec. 1, 1922, we demanded an increase of 29.1 per cent. which would have just brought wages back to the point they were before the 22½ per cent. cut made in December, 1920. In addition to the 12½ per cent. increase the mills have announced we require an additional increase of 14.9 to restore the old wage schedule.

"We are out for that increase."

Tenants occupying all of the dwelling house property owned by the Saco-Lowell Shops in Worthen, Dutton, Broadway and Kirson streets have received notices to vacate on or before May 1. Approximately 75 families received the notices on Monday, each being signed by Agent E. R. Feaster. Several of the families have lived in these corporation houses for nearly [illegible] century.

The Saco-Lowell Shops have petitioned the city council for permission to close a portion of Worthen streets to allow for planned factory expansion, the details of which were announced a week or 10 days ago. A public hearing was held but the council has taken no action on the request.

It is the intention of the Saco-Lowell Co. to cover practically all of the area on which these dwelling houses now stand with new manufacturing plants and the company officials hoped to secure permission to close Worthen street in time to begin razing the buildings this spring.

MERRIMACK RIVER TWELVE INCHES HIGHER THAN YESTERDAY

At 10 a. m. today the depth of the water at Pawtucket dam was just 12 inches more than it was yesterday at the same hour. The height at 11 a. m. was 5¾ feet over the cap of the dam. Yesterday at noon measurement the height was 4¾ ft.

Measurements taken this morning by Locks and Canals engineers showed exactly 18,800 cubic feet per second hurrying over the Pawtucket dam. At the Boott mills registration office at 8 a. m., the figures read 20,000 second-feet.

The storm of last evening perceptibly affected the increase of the volume of river waters today, the water-sheds all the way upstream adding to the Merrimack's flow.

THEY JUST COULDN'T WAIT ANY LONGER

Three kids, 11 or 12 years of age, stepped out on Sandy beach, just in back of the John C. Meyer Thread Co. yesterday afternoon at about 4.30 o'clock, stripped off to the suits they wore on their first birthday, plunged into the waters of the Merrimack and knocked the cover off spring with a vengeance.

Huge chunks of ice from New Hampshire dotted the water here and there, but these samples of dynamic American boyhood didn't give a fig, neither did they protect their bodies even with a leaf or two from this well known fruit tree.

Winter has went!

HAS BEEN ON COUNCIL TABLE SINCE JAN. 16

On January 16 Mayor Donovan's nomination of Dennis J. Murphy to succeed himself as a member of the board of public service was received by the city council. No action was taken and on vote of the body it was put on the table, where it has remained, gathering dust, ever since.

Unlike the charter under which the city operated last year, there is no provision in Plan B which outlaws or nullifies a mayoralty nomination after the expiration of 30 days and just so long as the nomination of Mr. Murphy remains in its pigeon-hole, he remains on the board as a hold-over.

BOY SCOUTS AS TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Edwin Mellen, Lowell Boy Scout Executive, and Superintendent of Police Thomas R. Atkinson conferred today with Mayor John J. Donovan relative to a proposition advanced by the executive that Boy Scouts in grammar schools be designated to serve as traffic officers for their schools for 5-minute periods before and after sessions. This work is now looked after by police officers, instructed to be in the vicinity of school houses at such hours.

Following the conference with the mayor it was announced that no decision was reached, but another conference will be arranged with Superintendent of Schools Hugh J. Molloy.

To what extent Spalding park will be improved this year by the High School Alumni association as an athletic field for baseball, football and track teams of the local school will be discussed and probably settled at a meeting of the association to be held next Wednesday evening.

No more important meeting of the association has been called in recent years and Henry H. Harris is most anxious that the attendance will overflow Room 137 and force him to open the Irish auditorium, just next door.

It is not betraying a confidence to announce that the alumni association has high hopes of receiving a magnificent gift of money for the athletic field fund from a family not living in Lowell at present, but whose members

FARMERS FLAY SUGAR PIRATES

Declare Present Sugar Prices Due to "Criminal Manipulation" of Market

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A closer organization in the sugar producing industry was advocated today by the farmers' union in a statement attributing present sugar prices to a "criminal manipulation" of the market.

"Some of the hard pressed and gouged people of the cities," said the statement "are thinking that the farmer is sharing in the proceeds of the robbery. Nothing could be further from the facts. All the sugar of the past season has long since been marketed and the supplies are in the hands of men who never grew an ounce of the commodity.

"There is something radically wrong with an economic system that permits the calm fleecing of more than 100,000,000 American people. The remedy for such situations as have been created by the unconscionable manipulators is not far to seek.

"It is quite possible to so organize that we will be able to refine our own sugar and market the finished product. We can stabilize the sugar market just as we have stabilized the cotton market, the produce market and the raisin market. We can do it by being our own salesmen, our own middlemen and our own financier.

"In the meantime, the farmers demand the prosecution of the men responsible for the recent raid on the

WAGE INCREASE AT THE NAVY YARD MILL

The five hundred or more employes of the Merrimack Woolen Co. at the Navy Yard, Dracut, will receive an increase in wages on April 30, according to information given out at the mill office this morning. There will be no notices posted, but one of the officials stated the company will follow the action of the American Woolen Co. and the cotton mills in granting an increase. He stated the amount will approximate 12½ per cent.

At the John C. Meyer Thread Co. in Middlesex street, it was stated today that the matter of a wage increase for the 300 or more employes of the plant is being considered and the superintendent informed The Sun that something definite will be arrived at before the latter part of the month.

"There is nothing new here," said Agent Walker of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. when questioned this morning as to whether or not notices of a wage increase had been posted. "And I cannot predict what will occur during the next few days," he added.

The Lawrence is the only large textile mill in the city that has not announced a wage increase for its employes.

WAITING LIST AT STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

It seems likely that for the first time in the history of the Lowell Normal school, it soon will become necessary to establish a waiting list of young women who desire to prepare themselves for the teaching profession.

The entering class next fall necessarily must be limited to 120 new students and already more than 150 applications for admission have been received by Principal Clarence M. Weed. It is explained that not all of the applicants will be able to meet the entrance requirements so that, therefore, most of those who do meet them are likely to be admitted.

A letter just mailed to all applicants for admission by Principal Weed outlines the situation as follows:

"Because of the recent rapid increase in attendance, it has become necessary to restrict the numbers of the entering class in this school.

"There are already a considerably

Truck Driver Refused to Stop — Bandits Cut in Ahead of Machine

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 5.—Four bandits, all heavily armed and travelling in a big touring car, overtook a truck laden with 500 gallons of alcohol at Hillsgrove, this morning, after a wild race of miles along the post road, engaged in a spectacular running gun fight with two men on the truck and finally, when the latter refused to stop, cut in ahead of them so sharply that both machines were hurled into a ditch alongside the highway.

Andrew Sherry of 79 Central street, Central Falls, R. I., owner and driver of the truck, was shot through the wrist in the course of the pistol battle in which 15 shots were exchanged. His companion, Isadore Hanoler of 127 North Main street, Pawtucket, was

Sec. of Labor Davis Reaffirms His Belief in Trade Union Idea

Urges Labor to "Be Slow to Use Strike Weapon"—Favors Shorter Hours

WARREN, Ohio, April 5.—Secretary Davis, speaking before the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers today, reaffirmed his belief in the trade union idea, urged labor to "be slow to use the strike weapon," and declared that the 12 hour day and the seven day week in American industry must go.

"I have a firm belief," the secretary said, "that through the trade union and its general principles of right and justice we can establish the era of good will in American industry."

Those industries which seek to perpetuate the long shift, he said, ultimately will find that it will cost more to maintain it than to reorganize on a more humane basis.

"I know," he said, "that the American people will be more than glad to stand any loss that may come because of the elimination of the 12 hour day in the steel industry. They will cheerfully pay the additional amount in their bills for steel."

MORE MILLS ANNOUNCE WAGE INCREASES

Announcement was made this afternoon that notices have been posted in both the Stirling mills on Lawrence street and the Belvidere Woolen company, also located on Lawrence street, stating that wages in all departments of both mills will be substantially advanced, the order becoming operative on April 30 next.

Agent Royal P. White of the mills which are conducted in combination under separate titles and have no connection with the American Woolen Co. or any other corporations, stated that the wage advance was decided upon as a result of better business conditions.

The schedules are now being made up and no formal percentage statement of the advanced wage amount will be made at this time.

THEY CLINCHED BUT PARTED GOOD FRIENDS

The automobiles of Hon. Butler Ames and Melvin J. Rogers, fellow Tewksbury residents, who believe in patronizing home industry even to collisions, came together with some force at about nine o'clock this morning, at the corner of Lawrence and Rogers street. After being pried apart, neither car was demolished, although a new running board and mud guard may be needed by Mr. Ames. Both gentlemen passed the time of day, each absolved the other of all blame, gave three cheers for Tewksbury, clasped hands and proceeded to their daily toil, Ames to the Heinze Electric Co. and Rogers to the office of Qua, Howard & Rogers in the Hildreth building.

An honor roll bearing the names of the car operators employed by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., who during the past three months have not figured in any accident, has been issued by the company and copies are now decorating the walls of the two car conductors' lobbies, the main office of the company in this city, as well as the offices of the claim agent and superintendent. The roll is signed by M. E. McCormick, manager, Thoobbs J. Sayers, superintendent and George W. Ensley, claim agent.

OIL MILLIONAIRES AT PAWHUSKA AUCTION

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 5.—(By the Associated Press) The Constantine theatre in Pawhuska, a little movie house is today a gathering place for multi-millionaire captains of industry.

The oil kings of America and their representatives formed the audience. The play was for leases to probably the richest undeveloped oil lands in the country. The event was the 21st lease sale of the Osage Indian nation.

Thirty-two thousand acres of land were being offered for lease, tract by tract, to heap more into the overflowing strong boxes and swell the bank accounts of the Osages, the richest aborigines in the world.

As the sales mounted during the morning, belief was expressed by Indian agency officials and oil men that the $10,887,000 record auction of June last year might be bettered. Today's sale attracted the larger number of oil millionaires in the history of the auctions and a number of the tracts placed on the block were said to be among the most valuable offered.

DEATHS

GAUDETTE—Mrs. Octave (Molleur) Gaudette, aged 54 years, 11 months and 19 days, a well known resident of the Highlands and a prominent member of Notre Dame de Lourdes' parish, died this morning at her home, 44 South Loring street. She leaves her husband, four sons, Eugene O. of Dorchester, Ernest W., Leo E. and Paul R., all of this city; a daughter, Miss Emily Gaudette of this city two grandsons; her mother, Mrs. Victorine Molleur of this city; three sisters, Mrs. P. B. McHugh of Arlington, Mrs. William Gaudette of Chelmsford and Mrs. Joseph Beausoleil of this city; three brothers, Louis, Edouard and Arthur Molleur, all of Lowell.

DEGAN—Michael Degan, father of Rev. John A. Degan, former pastor of St. Columba's church in this city, died yesterday at his home in Beverly. The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, with a mass at St. Mary's Star-of-the-Sea church in Beverly of which Rev. Fr. Degan is now the pastor. The latter is well known in Lowell, where he labored zealously for St. Columba's parish up to the time of his transfer to Beverly some six or seven years ago.

BUCKLEY—Mrs. Grace (Newell) Buckley, wife of Charles L. Buckley and a well known young resident of this city, died yesterday at the Lowell General hospital after a brief illness, aged 19 years, 10 months and 12 days. She was a former member of St. Margaret's church and for the past few months had attended the Sacred Heart church. She leaves, besides her husband, an infant son, Charles W., her father and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Newell, and three sisters, Misses Helen, Lillian and Hilda Newell. The body was taken to the rooms of Undertaker James W. McKenna and later will be moved to her home, 192 Meadowcroft street.

VAILLANT—Mrs. Belle C. Vaillant died this morning at the Lowell General hospital. She leaves her husband, Maurice E. Vaillant; one daughter, Miss Eleanor V. Vaillant; [illegible] granchildren; one sister, Mrs. Clara C. Stephens of California, also one brother, Fletcher Campbell of Colorado. She had been a resident of this city for the past 27 years and was a member of St. Anne's Episcopal church and of the Middlesex Women's club.

MOORES—Eliza A. Moores, a resident of this city for 60 years, died last evening at her home, 358 Stevens street, aged 91 years. She was a member of the Highland Union M. E. church. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Flora E. Hartwell of Lawrence and Mrs. Cynthia G. Bradley of Mt. Vernon, Me., and one brother, Samuel T. Moores of Lowell, also several nieces and nephews.

DELAZANOS—Anastasios Delazanos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Demetrios Delazanos, died last night at the Lowell General hospital, aged 6 years, 11 months and 20 days. The body was removed to the home of his parents, 639 Market street, by Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

TOURVILLE—Girard, aged 11 months and 2 days, infant son of Arthur and Robertine (Houle) Tourville, died this morning at the home of his parents, 30 Smith street.

If Tonics Grew Hair

Or Prevented Its Faling Out

Surely you would not see so many barbers, druggists, chemists and scientists bald nor even thin haired. These men, of all people who should know what is best for hair and scalp, are subject to those very same troubles and derive NO benefit from the use of tonics, shampoos, greases, ointments, etc.

Is it possible that these preparations are only "masquerading" as dandruff cures and hair growers? From the great number of young and old bald heads, more common than ever before and INCREASING daily, it is very evident that these remedies are of NO help to you.

If this is true, what hope is there for the thousands of men and women who are anxious to preserve, promote growth of hair and secure relief from dandruff and itching scalp?

There IS a way and a remedy that will ABSOLUTELY prevent loss of hair, relieve dandruff, dry, scaly and itching scalp and PROMOTE a healthy GROWTH for men, women and children.

Originator of Griff-Fenn's Hair Grower

When my hair began to fall, I treated it in a COMMONSENSE manner. Two years ago (April, 1921) by mere accident I discovered a remedy that POSITIVELY will give you GREAT relief and SATISFACTION.

Griff-Fenn's Hair Grower, when used PROPERLY and in STRICT ACCORDANCE with directions and suggestions given on bottle and circular, is UNEQUALLED for Fenn's Hair Grower hair and scalp.

Get a bottle TODAY from Riley, Perry or Curtis, (Barbers who have USED and KNOW its value) at Howard's, Dowd's, Green's, Shea's, McCord's, Thomasson's, Caisse's, City Hall and Lowell Pharmacies or direct from Wm. R. Griffin, 129 Hildreth Bldg.—Adv.

WAS RETURNED TO LYMAN SCHOOL

Earl Miller, 17, on parole from the Lyman school, admitted breaking and entering and larceny charges preferred against him by the local police yesterday, and was returned to the Westboro institution. He was arrested by Inspector John J. Walsh on the complaint of a Gorham street resident after he had broken into a house in that section of the city and stolen a watch and several other pieces of jewelry. He is also suspected of soliciting magazine subscriptions under false pretenses.

greater number of applicants than can be admitted next September and it is probable that no students will be admitted who have not met completely the requirements for admission either through certifications from the high school or through the entrance examinations.

"Consequently, I am sending this memorandum to the applicants to impress upon them the desirability of making their preparation as thorough as possible and in the case of students in the high schools getting as many marks of certificate grade as possible. Very often it happens that an applicant has received in the high school a mark almost high enough for certification, when by a little more effort the certificate mark might have been gained. This is particularly important to consider in the case of the later years in English, modern languages and history.

"It is important also that all applicants, who do not have sufficient certificate points for entrance, present themselves for examination June 7 and 8."

COMPREHENSIVE REPORT

Major Jeyes Reviews Work of Fire and Accident Prevention in Schools

Following is the report of Major Walter R. Jeyes, director of fire prevention and accident instruction in the local public schools, covering his work between the dates of Nov. 20 and Dec. 22 of last year. This report recently was submitted to the school committee which body requested its publication in the daily press:

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 22, '22.

To:—The school board of the city of Lowell, Mass.

Subject:—Fire and accident supervision in Lowell public schools from Nov. 20th to Dec. 22nd (inc.), 1922.

The following report is as far as I am able to report on for the time available, and to enable me to visit and talk and instruct in as many schools as possible.

Lowell high. No fire drill has been held in this school as yet, the master stating that the outside conditions of the streets are in no condition for same. Fire hose in the old building should be taken outside and tested as I believe that it is in an unsatisfactory condition and partly unserviceable. All doors of the common glass kind should have suitable guards placed on them. All boxes containing waste paper in basement should be emptied daily. All these boxes should be of metal. The extra fire alarm system in the old building should be removed. The room in the annex or drill shed which houses an electric motor should have a sign painted upon the door of same "dangerous, keep locked. 500 volts!" All electric wires in the attics which are not now being used, whether dead or alive should be removed.

Continuation, girls' vocational and all classes housed in high school annex or drill shed. Conditions good with the exception that electric push buttons should be installed on each floor. As it is now there is only one push button for the fire signal and that is in the room occupied by the principal of the girls' vocational school.

Boys' vocational school.—Fire exits are good but not marked. Mr. Fisher is to attend to this at once. The gongs are O.K. The fire system is good. Extra push buttons are needed in some rooms and especially in the auto repair shop. Guards should be placed for some of the machinery and belts now in use, as they are dangerous as they are now. The first aid cabinet is O.K., and instruction in same good. The sanitary room in this building is not of the best and to my mind needs attention. The building itself is very poor, and is sadly in need of extensive repairs in as far as the fire hazard is concerned.

Agawam primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school. Hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Electric bells of some kind should be installed in this school.

Ames street primary. There are no bells in this school. They use hand bells only. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Electric bells of some kind should be installed in this school.

Abraham Lincoln school.—Bells in this school are in good shape, but they cannot be heard in all rooms. Safety instruction, fire exits and general condition as to safety are good. Approach signs needed.

Bartlett, junior, grammar, primary and kindergarten.—I have not completed my visit in this school. Bells were in course of repair while I was there so that I did not attempt to try them. Safety instruction is good. Fire exits and general condition as to safety are good.

Cabot street primary.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. There is considerable sewer gas trouble in this school.

Carter street primary.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Cross street primary. Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Charles street primary.—Bells are unsatisfactory. They cannot be heard at times. Safety instruction and exits are good. Approach signs are needed. General condition as to safety—good.

Colburn primary and kindergarten, Charles street.—Bells out of commission most of the time. They do not ring. Safety instruction and exits are goods. Approach signs needed. The general condition as to safety is good.

Central street primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school. They rely on hand bells only. Safety instruction and exits are good. General condition as to safety—good. Approach signs are needed.

Colburn grammar school.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general conditions as to safety—excellent.

Dover street primary and kindergarten.—There are no bells in this school and they use hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety good.

Edson grammar school.—Bells O.K. Safety instruction is good. Exits are poor. They are narrow. The children hang their clothes on the stairs, which is dangerous. General condition as to safety is so that I consider it almost dangerous to allow children to attend this school for the reason that the floors sag and creak every time anyone moves and I believe that some day there might be a loss of life.

Eliot primary.—Bells are O.K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Franklin primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Grand street primary.—There are no bells of any kind in this school. The teacher uses a small whistle for a fire signal. This is not practical. The safety instruction is good. The exits are fair. The building is heated by stoves. The street, fire and general condition at this school as to safety is very poor. There should be at all dismissals of this school a police officer posted at the corner of Westford and Grand streets so as to avoid the possibilities of an accident.

Green grammar school. The bells are O.K. Safety instruction is good. The exits are fair. Juvenile traffic squad assisted by police officer is doing good work at this school at all dismissals. General condition as to safety of building is fair. The three classes of retarded children which are on the upper floor would, to my mind, be better if it were possible to place them on the first floor. Approach signs needed.

Greenhalge grammar school.—The bells are O.K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Howard street primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction and exits are good. This building is heated by stoves, and allowing for this the general condition as to safety is good.

Laura Lee primary and kindergarten.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Lakeview avenue primary.—There are no bells in this school and they rely on hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Electric bells should be installed in this school. Approach signs needed.

Lexington avenue primary.—There are no bells in this school and hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

London street primary.—There are no bells in this school and they also depend on hand bells. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

West London street primary.—This is a one-room school conducted upstairs. The lower would, to my mind, be far better if it might be used as a class room instead of the upper floor. The building is heated by a stove. The only bell in the building is a hand bell and there being only one class in the building it might be applicable. The exits, safety instruction are good, and general condition as to safety—fair.

Lyon street primary.—There are no bells in this school and they depend on hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Middlesex Village.—The bells are O.K. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety are good.

C. W. Morey junior high and grammar.—There are two bell systems in this building which should be connected so that the alarm might be rung from the master's office. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Moody primary and kindergarten, High street.—There are no bells in this building. Hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Moody grammar school.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pawtucket kindergarten.—Bells, safety instruction and exits—good. General condition as to safety might be better if the trap door that is at the entrance of the front door might be removed to some other place.

Pawtucket grammar and primary.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pine street primary and kindergarten.—Bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Pond street primary.—There are no bells in this building and hand bells only are used. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Powell street primary.—There are no bells in this building, hand bells only. Safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good. Approach signs needed.

Riverside grammar and primary.—The bells, safety instruction, exits and general condition as to safety—good.

Linoleum Floors Reduce the Noise Nuisance

The Doane Street Office Building, Boston, Mass., has a floor of 5,000 square yards of Armstrong's 3-16 inch Plain Brown Linoleum

BIG cities are noisy. Big offices are noisy. Any place where a number of people gather is filled with a medley of footsteps, voices, machines, bells, rustles, and squeaks.

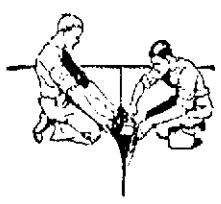

Floors that make for silence make for less distraction and greater efficiency.

Linoleum is a quiet floor. It does more than hush the clatter of footfalls. It muffles miscellaneous noises and subdues sound.

In addition to lessening the noise nuisance in a store, office or public building, floors of linoleum are generally cleaner than other floors. The reason? Simply that linoleum is non-absorbent, and so easy to clean that surface cleaning is thorough cleaning.

When waxed and polished, linoleum takes a beautiful finish. The thin film of wax serves not only as a protection, but actually deepens and mellows the color of the floor. A linoleum floor will steadily get better-looking through the years, with proper waxing care.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retrimming. Such a floor is smooth and tight

These qualities of linoleum floors are easy to understand when you consider what linoleum is — a mixture of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil pressed on tough burlap.

You know that cork is resilient, moisture-proof, durable, a nonconductor of heat. Linseed oil is also extremely tough and resilient. The burlap back gives linoleum strength. Thus linoleum is a floor material that has practically every quality that can be desired in a floor.

Armstrong's Linoleum can be bought in different colors to suit individual tastes of business requirements. Your architect, contractor, or any good linoleum merchant can give you information on the economy of its use and its low maintenance cost. We will gladly give him data and specifications for laying linoleum over concrete or wood.

JOHN JOSEPH BARROWS

Six-Year-Old Lowell Boy Elected Member of Fish and Game Club

Scene—Pine street school, Lowell.
Time—Right now—today—any day except Saturday and Sunday.
Place—First grade room, Miss Swayne, instructor.
Cast—John Joseph Barrows, aged 6 going on 7, principal lead. Scenery all choked up with boys and girls of about the same age—dramatis personae.

(Now go on with the story:—)

"No. 3 Fairfield street, Lowell."

"What is your father's name, Johnny?"

"Frederick W. Barrows."

"Go to the Pine street school, play baseball and marbles and everything."

"Belong to any clubs or fraternal associations, Johnny?"

JOHN JOSEPH BARROWS

(Curtain!)

And Johnny Barrows, six years old, excellent example of the Barrows brain and brawn of red-blooded all-Americanism, spoke the solemn truth.

For Johnny Barrows of the Pine street primary school and No. 3 Fairfield street was formally elected, and unanimously, a member of the ten-year-old Lowell Fish and Game association at last Tuesday evening's joyous annual meeting in Odd Fellows hall, Middlesex street.

Merry, smiling Johnny Barrows also bears another distinction that must not be overlooked in this historical sketch. He is today the youngest member of any similar field and stream sporting organization in all New England—and possibly in the country at large, too.

The honors rest lightly upon this happy lad, who is one of a family of six healthy "three-and-three" boys and girls, well-bred children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Barrows of No. 3 Fairfield street.

The father of this growing anti-race suicide family has a popular place of business at 646 Gorham street in the Davis square section of trade, and has been a member of the Lowell Fish and Game club for many years. He is an expert rod and gun man of the outdoor fraternity, a bird hunter of long experience and has a closet full of modern fishing lines, rods, hooks, sinkers and colorful flies, etc., at his residence on Fairfield street, that would be hard to duplicate in a one-man sportsman's haven of necessary game-collecting utensils and accessories.

There is no more popular member of the local field and stream organization than Merchant Barrows. He is an ardent club fan and supporter of all good works performed by the Lowell sporting organization every day in the year.

It was a natural thing, of course, for the Fairfield street sportsman to prepare the way for his boys who are fast growing up. So he considered it entirely within the proper form to enroll his six-year-old Johnny in the Lowell Fish and Game association, so as to have at least one Barrows' name on the membership rolls in case anything should happen as it happened several years ago, when Mr. Barrows, good hunter, met with a rather serious accident while out in the fields and woods on a tour of the bird gunning territories. Accidents will happen, of course, and this one was rather unfortunate for Brother Barrows, but he lived to tell the tale and keep up his membership in the sporting club where he has many intimate friendships.

And so sonny John Joseph Barrows is today a full-fledged club member in case anything happens again.

The reading of the name of the Pine street schoolboy at Tuesday night's meeting, when a roll of nearly 1,000 names was called, caused a bit of a jubilee impromptu, and everybody present, when the 6-year-old's name was read and quickly endorsed for membership, applauded and said they were glad to see a man prepare for a continuation of the paternal name and fame down through the ages to come, just as it should be, of course.

The six-year-old member of the Fish and Game association was born in Lowell on July 9, 1916. He gravely told a boyhood friend of his day before yesterday that he "missed the Fourth of July that year by just five days, but was glad he came."

The Barrows family enjoy the summer months far from sizzling Lowell and baking pavements, for the Barrows' camp at Nabnassett in the town of Westford, is known for miles around as a haven of happy folks, relatives and neighbors, as well as an "open house" at all times for the steadily increasing members of the Lowell Fish and Game association.

EXECUTION OF PRELATE

ROME, April 5. (By the Associated Press.)—Pope Pius and Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, are discussing the advisability of formally protesting before the world against the execution of Monsignor Butchkavitch, vicar general of the Roman Catholic church in Russia. They are also considering what form the protest should assume.

Says Execution Justified

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Execution of Vicar General Butchkaitch of the Roman Catholic church, by soviet authorities was justified, Joseph P. Cannon, chairman of the workers party of America, declared in an address here last night. The statement drew applause from the audience of about 100 persons.

Cannon, who said he had recently toured Russia, declared the soviet officials had evidence the Catholic prelate they executed had aided enemies of Russia.

WARRANTS ISSUED FOR K. K. K. LEADERS

ATLANTA, Ga., April 5.—Warrants were issued late yesterday for N. N. Forney, cashier of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, charging him with embezzlement of $80,000, and for T. J. McKinnon, chief of the investigating department, charging embezzlement of $20,000, according to the sheriff's office. The warrants were sworn to by E. J. Jones, an associate of Emperor William J. Simmons.

Associates of Simmons said other warrants might be taken out and the the charges against the two officials followed a day of investigation at the Imperial palace, official headquarters of the Klan, while Simmons was temporarily in charge yesterday.

TO FORCE WITNESSES TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5—Court orders directing witnesses to answer questions will be sought by state attorney General Carl Sherman in his investigation of the slaying of Clarence J. Peters of Haverhill, Mass., by Walter S. Ward.

Several witnesses, including Ward's brother, Ralph, and Ward's counsel, have declined to give information regarding the circumstances leading up to the killing which Ward claimed was the climax of a blackmail plot.

The investigation was adjourned yesterday until Monday.

CARP TO BOX LANGFORD

REPORT MODEL MARRIED

NEW YORK, April 5—Marriage records in nearby towns in New Jersey were being searched today by New York police officers to determine if Dorothy Keenan, slain model, had been secretly married under an assumed name, to a young man of wealth, shortly before she was chloroformed.

The police were told that the model had confided to her close friends that she had eloped to New Jersey at the tag end of an all night party, and gone through a marriage ceremony.

When her friends pressed her for the name of her husband, she evaded a direct answer, but named two men often seen in her company.

One of the men, whose name was not made public, admitted he had often associated with the model but denied that he had married her. This man was quoted as saying he was introduced to her by the same girl who introduced J. Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia to Miss Keenan.

Miss Nicklin, who died recently at Foleshill, Warwickshire, England, had lived in one house 79 years, never sleeping outside it a single night.

GERMAN UNIONS ACT

Appeal to Workers of World to Do Utmost to Avoid French Domination

LONDON, April 5—German labor unions, says a Berlin despatch to the Central News, have issued an appeal to the Workers of the World urging them to do their utmost to avoid the danger of French domination which, it is declared, does not affect Germany alone.

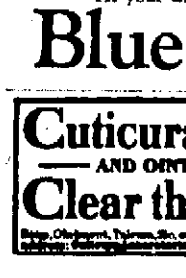

GANG LEADER FLEES

Gerald Chapman, Head of Million Dollar Robbery, Escapes From Hospital

ATHENS, Ga., April 5—Gerald Chapman, gang leader in a million dollar mail robbery in New York in 1921, escaped last night from an Athens hospital where he was being treated after having been shot three times when he was recaptured after a sensational break from the federal prison at Atlanta, less than a week ago.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lodic Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had a nervous weakness, no strength in my body and pains in my left side so bad that I could hardly do my work. Before I was married I used to work in the factory, and I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out that it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish as I can honestly say that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lodic, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

How He Cured His Rupture

His Remedy and Book Sent Free

Capt. Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and truss after truss. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abhorrent operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.

Capt. Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man.

Anyone can use the same method; it's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. Every ruptured person in the world should have the Capt. Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own home without any trouble. The book and medicine are FREE. They will be sent prepaid to any rupture sufferer who will fill out the below coupon. But send it right away—now—before you put down this paper.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and diseases symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

NUXATED IRON

is an eminent physician's best blood prescription, standardized. It is recommended for all anaemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any drug store.

LINOLEUM CAME OUT OF THE KITCHEN

WHAT brought linoleum out of the kitchen? Two things. The beautiful, tasteful patterns of modern Armstrong's Linoleum made them desirable in other rooms.

Second, linoleum has been tested in the kitchen. As a kitchen floor, linoleum proved durable, easily cleaned, non-absorbent, restful and quiet.

You can't confine a good floor to the kitchen. Decorators began to see the possibilities of the new Armstrong designs and colorings for bedrooms, dining-rooms and living-rooms. Architects are now specifying floors of Armstrong's Linoleum. Women who put linoleum floors in their homes are pleased with them.

You, too, may need a new linoleum floor this spring—to cover an old badly worn softwood floor or replace a hardwood floor that needs frequent refinishing. You will like the beautiful designs in Armstrong's Linoleum we are now offering. Come in and see our stock while it is still fresh and complete.

SHOOTS WIFE AND COMPANION

PITTSBURGH, April 5—An audience of several hundred men, women and children absorbed in a screen drama at a North Side playhouse was converted into a panic stricken, stampeding mob late last night, when Gustave Lieson, waving a revolver, stalked into an aisle in the balcony and opened fire. Seven shots were fired in rapid succession.

When the lights were switched on, a man and woman were found slumped in their seats unconscious.

The woman was Lieson's wife and the man, Edward B. Weigner, her escort. Mrs. Lieson was shot in the temple, back of the head, right shoulder and neck. Weigneer had three wounds in his head.

Physicians said Weigner would recover, but held little hope for Mrs. Lieson.

Lieson, whose military service record showed him to be an expert marksman, fled after the shooting, but was arrested an hour later. He told the police he had been "waiting for this chance for months."

BILL LIMITS SCHOOL COMMITTEE POWERS

BOSTON, April 5.—In the Massachusetts senate yesterday the committee on municipal finance reported in a new draft of a bill, based on the petition of Representative Bates of Salem, limiting the powers of school committees to expend the public funds. The bill, which is a long one, provides that in the cities and towns in the state, except Boston, school committees must not exceed their appropriations except in cases of emergency, that the appropriations of such committees must be divided between salaries and maintenance, and that money appropriated for one of those purposes cannot be transferred to the other. The bill provides also that even in cases of emergency the school committees of cities cannot exceed their appropriations unless the expenditure is approved by a two-thirds vote of the city council, or in towns by a two-thirds vote of the board of selectmen.

The committee hearings on this bill roused great interest and attracted large crowds, representatives of school committees from various cities and towns protested vigorously against the bill.

BON MARCHE E. M. B. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

The result was follows: President, Mr. John Foley; vice president, Mr. Philias Duval; secretary, Miss Jeanne G. Giroux; treasurer, Miss Margaret Curley; collector, Mrs. Katheryn Sparks; auditors, Miss Margaret Chisholm, Miss Margaret Riley, and Mr. Francis Pare.

The committee in charge of the spring time party and dance which is to be held in Associate hall, April 11, reported that tickets were selling rapidly and that indications pointed to a most successful affair.

WILL HOLD OPEN MEETING TOMORROW

An open meeting under the auspices of the Ring Spinner Fixers' union will be held tomorrow evening in Trades & Labor hall, Central street for the purpose of organizing. The meeting will be for the ring spinner fixers, doffers, spinners, band boys and bobbin boys and the principal speaker will be General Organizer Francis J. Gorman of the United Textile Workers of America, whose home is in Lawrence.

N. E. ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES

PORTLAND, Me., April 5.—The spring convention of the New England association of colleges and secondary schools will be held here on April 20 and 21. The presidents of the four Maine colleges will be guests.

Speakers at the opening session are to be Nathaniel H. Batchelder, headmaster of Loomis Institute, Windsor, Conn., and Alfred H. Hitchcock, head of the English department of Hartford High school. The former will speak on "Meeting the Needs of the Pupil Who Is Different" and the latter on "The Teaching of English Literature."

CENTRALVILLE YOUNG MEN ENTERTAIN

Odd Fellows hall in Bridge street, was crowded last evening, a lively minstrel show, "A Night in Harlem," being the attraction. The entertainment, snappy throughout, was given by a group of well known Centralville young men.

The two end men, Al Drouin and Francis McCafferty, proved ideal for the tasks assigned and were responsible for a good measure of the fun-making. James White as interlocutor, has an excellent tenor voice and handled his part well.

A feature of the evening was the hit made by Leo Leclair, who sang a character song, "Dustin' Out Odd Fellows Hall," words written by Leo and the music by Harold Friedman. The evening's accompanists were Friedman and Strout. General dancing followed the entertainment. The program:

Orchestra
Opening chorus, "Tomorrow, Homesick and Carolina."
Leo Christian.
End song, "Lovin' Sam"
Francis McCafferty.

PROTEST MOVIES IN BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, April 5.—The traditional dignity of Brookline, fashionable suburb of Boston, would become a thing of the past, if motion picture theatres were permitted within the town limits, citizens declared at a mass meeting last night. They were gathered to voice a protest against the granting of two motion picture licenses.

School principals and teachers urged that Brookline children would neglect their outdoor exercise should the theatres be erected, while society leaders stood up to warn against possible loss of prestige and dignity.

WAGES INCREASED

YORK, S. C., April 5.—Wage increases of ten per cent. were announced yesterday by two York county textile mills, the Cannon mills, employing about 500 operatives, and the Neely cotton mills. The increase at the latter ended a walkout of a hundred employes Tuesday, in a demand for higher wages.

The furnaces in London's famous Whitefriars glassworks, recently extinguished because the plant was to be moved, had been alight continuously for nearly 250 years.

have local high school connections. Without stating even the approximate size of the gift, it may be said it would be sufficiently large to allow a discussion of original plans of development, including the erection of a stadium, locker building, acquisition of additional land and the lay-out of separate field areas for football and baseball, with a cinder running track encircling the football gridiron.

Nothing definite concerning this potential gift can be said at present however, but it is expected that a positive answer will be received before the association meets next Wednesday night, so as to allow intelligent discussion of development plans.

If this gift is not forthcoming the association will be face to face with a much different proposition, that if making whatever repairs are possible with the $5000 or $6000 available. Placing the grandstand and bleachers in a safe condition, the construction of toilets and shower bath rooms beneath the grandstand and repairs to the fence probably would represent all that possibly could be done with such a limited amount of money.

However, a thorough discussion of the matter will feature the meeting of the association and a large representation of the alumni is urged.

The association, also, will be called upon to formulate plans for the presentation of a portrait of Cyrus Wendall Irish to the school. The portrait is now being painted by Mrs. Mary Earl Wood and sufficient money is at hand to cover this cost, but approximately $80 additional is needed with which to purchase a suitable frame. The picture will be the gift of the Alumni association to the school and when presented undoubtedly will be hung in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium.

AFTER TWO YEARS OF NERVOUSNESS

Mrs. Morris Found the Remedy That Restored Her to Health and Strength

There are functional nervous disorders that do not yield to the ordinary methods of treatment, but have been entirely corrected by the use of a proper tonic. There are many people suffering from neurasthenia who can overcome their trouble by the simple treatment that Mrs. George H. Morris of No. 365 Belmont avenue, Springfield, Mass., used so successfully. She says:

"I suffered from nervousness for two years and at times was confined to bed. I was in an extremely run-down condition and had taken several kinds of treatment with but little benefit. I was nervous, suffered from dizzy spells and neuralgia. I had severe headaches and there was a numbness in my hands and arms. One day my husband brought home a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I saw great improvement while I was still using the first box of the pills and have recommended them to others who are now taking them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a body-building tonic. They increase the power of the blood to carry new life and energy to every part of the system. If there is no organic trouble this is almost sure to result in benefit that the patient quickly notices in increased appetite, better digestion, sound, refreshing sleep and general good health.

Canals offices before 11 o'clock this morning, announced that there is no ice anywhere in the upper Merrimack this side of Manchester, N. H. It had been reported that large quantities of ice, broken up, were on the way from the Manchester district and might cause havoc down in the Lowell territory, but the corporation engineers watching the river's flow and making hourly measurements at the canal heads and Pawtucket dam, stated that no ice is coming along the stream, which is entirely free from any ice or debris as far north as Manchester.

Above that New Hampshire city, however, practically none of the ice that covered the stream all winter, has shown indications of moving or breaking up. The ice is not very thick, and when it moves from the upper miles of the river districts, the Locks and Canals engineers and watchers for trouble do not expect anything serious to happen, because the river ice melts quickly when broken up.

The new flashboards installed on sections of the Pawtucket dam this week were placed in three-foot lengths Sometimes the width is five feet, but that was not necessary at this time with the river far from as high as it has usually been at this time of the year.

High waters would call for even lower flashboards, and yet Locks and Canals experts can remember when at one time it was necessary to erect flashboards 13 feet high in order to conserve enough water to keep the mill canalways filled, so low was the river level and downward sweep from the northern tributaries and natural water-sheds.

Engineers expect no very high record waters this month. So far as great floods are concerned, they occur only about once in half a century, the engineers claim. While it is true that Lowell had a rather serious river overflow about 50 years ago and another one in the year 1896, there are actually no big waters with incidental flood damages more than twice in a century, so the expert river-watchers said this morning. That is one reason why during all the years of the century, mills have rarely indeed been closed down because of high waters that couldn't be taken care of in the usual way.

The "game" of keeping the power canals full when the mills are in operation, is one that keeps a good many engineers and gate-tenders busy every day in the year. The canal waters must not be lowered, too much water going over the dam is a dead loss and must be checked so it won't be wasted—there must never be too much or too little water in the channels leading from the gates—and so it goes every week of the year and every year in succession.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart.

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 36 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 526 Sprague street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1, $2.50, $5.—Adv.

Three Lowell Representatives Vote Against Old Age Pension and Two Vote in Favor

REP. HENRY ACHIN

REP. CHARLES H. SLOWEY

REP. OWEN E. BRENNEN

REP. VICTOR F. JEWETT

REP. FRED O. LEWIS

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, April 5.—Three of Lowell's representatives voted against old age pensions and two of them voted in favor of the proposition in the house yesterday. The question was on reconsidering the favorable action taken by the house when it referred the bill of the Fraternal Order of Eagles back to the committee on ways and means and rejected an adverse report of the committee on social welfare. Yesterday the lower branch changed its mind and rejected the bill. Reconsideration prevailed, 115 to 108 and the bill was rejected, 104 to 120.

Reps. Owen E. Brennen and Charles H. Slowey voted against reconsideration and Reps. Henry Achin, Jr., Victor F. Jewett and Fred O. Lewis in favor of it.

The vote came after a spirited debate. Although the fight against reconsideration of the favorable vote of last Thursday was led by Rep. Edward F. Harrington of Fall River, democratic floor leader, republicans joined with the democrats in voting against reconsidering the matter.

Rep. John C. Hull of Leominster, house chairman of the judiciary committee, made the principal speech against the bill and in favor of reconsideration. He claimed that the bill substituted provided for the establishment of a non-contributory system of old age pensions. The legislature has always been against a system of non-contributory pensions, he said. He thought that the house made a mistake last week and should reconsider the matter.

Rep. Webster, in his speech against reconsideration resented the statement which he said appeared in a Boston newspaper to the effect that the democrats "stole a march" on the republicans and finding that many of the latter had left the chamber last week, organized their forces and secured enough votes to substitute the bill. He asserted that many republicans have been prominently identified with the agitation for a sane old-age pension system to replace the present system of special pensions to individuals.

Although Gov. Cox recommended in his inaugural address that a definite beginning be made this year toward the establishment of a system of old-age pensions it is apparent that the governor made no attempt to influence the legislature to pass his proposal. The governor's suggestion was that a commission be appointed to serve for ten years and gather statistics and other data concerning the old age pension scheme and in the meantime the state, by an appropriation of $100,000 and the general public by subscription, establish an old age pension fund from which payments would be made at the end of ten years.

Although the matter had been turned down this year, the agitation was so strong during the present session, that prominent members of the republican party in the legislature have expressed the opinion that within the next year or two something definite will have to be done in the matter.

FATHER FOUND TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY VERY SICK

Was Constipated, Thin, No Appetite, Had Swollen Lips, Stomach Pains

A hardy woodsman and enthusiastic fisherman of Maine, has a very interesting record to report. He writes: "As a boy, thirty-seven years ago, I began to take Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. Once, after six months hauling logs, I came out of the woods and found my 2-year-old boy very sick. He was thin, had no appetite, had swollen lips, pains in stomach, was suffering from constipation for months.

"I had not been in the house an hour when an elderly lady—a good neighbor—came in and told my wife to get a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir, saying she had seen numbers of similar cases which it had relieved.

"My boy was given a half dozen doses of Dr. True's Elixir, when he passed a lot of worms and right away began to show improvement; he began soon to eat with a relish, play around and look healthy. He did not have to take a full bottle, and in later, years, whenever he got off his feed, a few doses would straighten him out quick.

"When I get constipated, a couple of teaspoons of Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, fix me O.K.

"My son is grown up now and has a family of six children, and he has practically raised his family on Dr. True's Elixir. The children go out and get hold of something not good for them. It's hard to watch all the children, and so when they eat something they shouldn't and get sick, Dr. True's Elixir is given and the family is put in good shape again.

"I have read in the papers you have to take a half a dozen bottles of some remedies, but you don't have to do this with Dr. True's Elixir. Simply a few doses and then quick relief. The three generations of my family have been kept healthy by using it."

Symptoms of worms, constipation, offensive breath, swollen upper lip, deranged stomach, occasional pains in the bowels, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, startling during sleep, slow fever.

Nearly every child and grown-up needs a laxative some time. The fond parents safeguard the health of their children, as well as their own, by keeping their bowels in condition. The herbs used in Dr. True's Elixir are imported and of strictly pure quality. No harmful drugs. Keep the bowels regular by using Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. 40c—60 —$1.20. Adv.

WAS WORK OF A CRANK

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 5—Although convinced that the message sent to Knights of Columbus headquarters in New York reporting the rescue of the Rev. J. A. Vranlak, missing priest, was the work of a crank, police and private detectives searched today for the man who filed the telegram at the Lehigh Valley station.

A man believed to be Perrine, sender of the telegram, called at the Burns Detectiv Agency office yesterday and later a note addressed to him was received at the agency. It was in the same handwriting, the detectives said as the original of the telegram sent to New York. The note referred to a real estate transaction over a piece of property at an address which was later found to be non-existent.

Detectives believe that the man thought he could get a reward by reporting the rescue of the priest and wanted to establish the Burns office as a place to which it could be sent and received by him. Men at the office who talk with him expressed doubt of his responsibility.

COLIN O'MORE TO SING AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Colin O'More, one of the world's greatest lyric tenors, ably supported by Miss Emillie Rose Knox, violinist, and Carl Brunner, accompanist, will make his second appearance of the local concert season at the Memorial Auditorium tonight and judging from the interest displayed and the large number of tickets ordered in advance a great crowd will be on hand to enjoy the program arranged.

O'More holds the distinction of being one of the few notable artists to be recalled here this season. But his appearance in Lowell is only a repetition of what has happened in other cities where his flexible voice has made a deep impression. In New York, Boston, Providence and other cities re-engagements followed his initial appearances.

And everywhere that O'More has sung he has received a hearty reception, and a well deserved tribute from the music critics. The New York Times, the Boston Herald, the Boston Transcript, the Providence Journal, and many others equally prominent have pronounced him one of the greatest tenors in the world today.

GOV. COX BARS ALLEN FROM STATE JOB

BOSTON, April 5.—Gov. Cox will not approve payment by the state of traveling expenses incurred by ex-Atty.-Gen. J. Weston Allen in visiting Pennsylvania and Washington on commissions alleged to be for the attorney-general's office under the present regime.

The governor will also oppose the employment of Mr. Allen by the attorney-general to argue against the constitutionality of the Sheppard-Towner bill before the federal supreme court or for any other legal work. Such was the governor's statement to the press yesterday.

The subject was brought up by the presentation to the executive council of a bill of $144.00 for Mr. Allen's expenses in visiting Pennsylvania and Washington in regard to the Sheppard-Towner matter. The council has held up the bill more than a week.

Gov. Cox's Explanation

Gov. Cox made the following statement of his position in the matter:

"Arguments against the Sheppard-Towner bill, I am informed, were prepared by Asst. Atty. Gen. Lincoln, and he has done substantially all the work, which demonstrates that outside aid is not required.

"Before Mr. Allen retired from office some papers said certain matters were being arranged in the attorney-general's office which would require his service after his term expired.

"I conferred with Atty.-Gen. Benton and told him I hoped there was no truth in the statement because under no circumstances would I be willing to approve the employment of Mr. Allen's services by the commonwealth.

"Shortly after Mr. Allen's term expired I read in the newspapers that Mr. Allen was in Pennsylvania on business of Massachusetts. I asked Atty.-Gen. Benton if these printed statements were true, and Mr. Benton told me they were not, or that at least he had no knowledge of Mr. Allen being there on business of the state.

"Last week a bill was presented for approval of Mr. Allen's traveling expenses. The General Laws require that before any state official leaves the commonwealth he must secure the approval of the governor in advance. Such approval was never asked and I declined to approve the bill.

"I shall not approve of Mr. Allen's employment in any state business. I am wholly opposed to the custom of engaging outside counsel in state business and hope for the co-operation of the present attorney-general in eliminating this erroneous policy. The attorney-general has plenty of money and assistants to do the state business, except in an emergency, which does not exist at present.

"The attorney-general and assistants should attend to all state business."

Long the Custom, Says Allen

Mr. Allen, who had heard the governor's opposition to his employment prior to yesterday, sent a letter on Tuesday to Atty.-Gen. Benton, stating that it had long been the custom to engage ex-attorneys general and ex-assistants to finish important cases which they had previously had charge of, and that this was the first case he had known of a refusal by the executive to honor such an arrangement.

Mr. Allen then proposed to the attorney-general that he be allowed to serve in the Sheppard-Towner case without pay. Mr. Benton said yesterday that he had been willing that Mr. Allen should appear, as he desired, for the commonwealth before the federal supreme court in the Sheppard-Towner case and that Mr. Allen had already made several trips to Washington in that connection.

Mr. Benton said that, having learned there might be objection to the employment of Mr. Allen, he asked permission to do so of the governor, who wrote him on March 30 that he would not approve of such employment.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES CONQUERED OR MONEY BACK

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing my prescription No. 777 (known for years as Marshroot) for kidney and bladder sickness and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money-back-if-dissatisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777 right away.

It has wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles and is the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years and his great Prescription No. 777 aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this effective prescription in both liquid and tablet form at Fred Howard's, 167 Central street, A. W. Dows' drug store and all reliable pharmacists the country over.—Adv

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine, double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

EXHIBITION OF DANCES, DRILLS AND GAMES

The Lowell Normal school announces that on Friday afternoon, April 6, at 2 p. m., there will be an exhibition and contest by the department of physical education, under the direction of Miss Ruth Bailey, to consist of dances, drills and games representative of the elementary school program. The exhibition will be given in the assembly hall and will include practically the entire body, who are to compete as members of the various classes.

The judges who are to award the banner to the winning classes include Carl L. Schrader, state supervisor of physical education; Hon. John Jacob Rogers and James J. Bruin of the Lowell school committee.

The students will sing the school song, which has been composed especially for the occasion by Miss Josephine O'Neil of Melrose, and piano numbers will be played by the Misses Sullivan, Hart and Bartlett. The games are to be in charge of the Misses Shea, Shumway and Provost.

Iowa Physician Makes Startling Offer to Catarrh Sufferers

Found Treatment Which Healed His Own Catarrh and Now Offers to Send It Free to Sufferers Anywhere

Davenport, Iowa.—Dr. W. O. Coffee, Suite 1305, St. James Hotel Bldg., this city, one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in the central west, announces that he found a treatment which completely healed him of catarrh in the head and nose, deafness and head noises after many years of suffering. He then gave the treatment to a number of other sufferers and they state that they also were completely healed. The doctor is so proud of his achievement and so confident that his treatment will bring other sufferers the same freedom it gave him, that he is offering to send a 10 days' supply absolutely free to any reader of this paper who writes him. Dr. Coffee has specialized on eye, ear, nose and throat diseases for more than 35 years and is honored and respected by countless thousands. If you suffer from nose, head or throat catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises, send him your name and address today.—Adv.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

CONSTIPATION

BIG AMMUNITION CACHE

New York Police Raid House Said to Be Rendezvous for Safe Blowers

NEW YORK, April 5.—A cache of dynamite, revolvers, shotguns and ammunition for the weapons, was discovered yesterday, when police raided a house in Glen Cove, Long Island, and recovered $10,000 in merchandise stolen from a Brooklyn firm a few days ago. The house was said to be the rendezvous of a gang of safe-blowers and burglars.

Eight revolvers and automatic pistols, three shotguns, and dozens of sticks of dynamite, some in lead containers with fuses attached, were found.

The raid followed the arrest of Thomas Romano and two other men and a woman, who were fighting in an automobile. Two detectives were passing and stopped to end the quarrel. Romano pulled a revolver, but was overcome after a struggle. Merchandise valued at $4000 was found in the car.

The house was said to have been Romano's home. Several rooms were filled with the loot, consisting of bolt silk and women's apparel.

GLOVES AGAIN

In Paris gloves have returned to favor and are worn for practically all occasions. It is interesting to notice that nearly all the gloves are of short length and make no attempt to cover the space between the wrist and shoulder.

SHOT FIRED AT SON OF GERMAN AMBASSADOR

ROME, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) A bullet was fired at the son of Baron Von Neurath, German ambassador to Italy as the young man was walking in the embassy garden last evening. His right arm was scratched. The assailant has not been apprehended.

Premier Mussolini, in consequence of this incident and the assault last Saturday on Robert G. Goldie, British vice consul at Naples, has personally undertaken the task of effecting a better organization of the police force throughout the kingdom.

AT THE Y.M.C.A.

A delightful sketch depicting the life of the dormitory men was presented in Y.M.C.A. hall last evening before an audience composed of members of the Y.W.C.A. The sketch was given by dormitory men of the association and was followed by entertainment numbers and games. The sketch was given under the direction of Ottmar Held and those who figured in the cast were as follows: Archibald Grant, Ottmar Held, Lawton Cleveland, Alfred McGregor, James D. McKinley, Alfred Haller and R. E. Bachard.

BETROTHAL OF GLORIA GOULD

NEW YORK, April 5.—The betrothal of Miss Gloria Gould, a seventeen-year-old beauty and youngest daughter of George J. Gould, to Henry A. Bishop, Jr., a former Yale student, son of Henry A. Bishop of Bridgeport, Conn., will be announced tonight at a supper and dance arranged for her by her brother, Kingdon Gould and Mrs. Gould, the New York Herald says today. Her father has been critically ill at Mentone, France, for several weeks.

TO DEMONSTRATE WORK DONE FOR BLIND

Extraordinary work being performed for the benefit of the blind in Massachusetts by the state department of education, will be demonstrated in interesting fashion in Liberty hall, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25, under the auspices of the state division of the blind. The admission will be free. It is an exhibition that is being planne solely to bring the Lowell public in closer touch with the opportunities that now exist for those who are deprived of sight and giving some idea of the work that is being done at the present time to make the unfortunates more useful members of society and the economic world.

An organization of Lowell men and women is behind the movement for the holding of the two-day demonstrations in Liberty hall, and the names will be announced shortly.

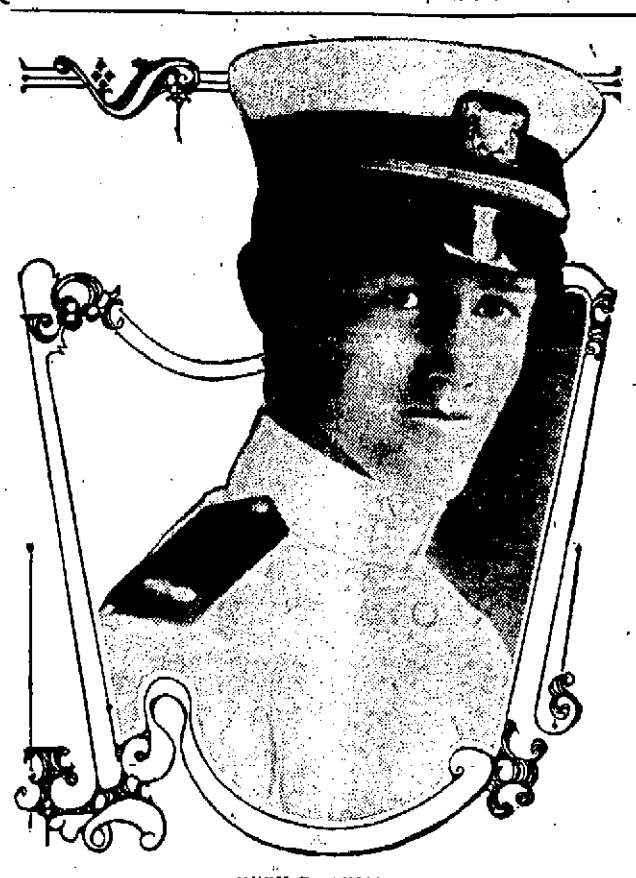

There will be notable exhibitions presenting in a practical manner the industries and intellectual possibilities and capabilities of the blind of both sexes. Another object of the coming exhibits is to encourage the prompt reporting of all cases of partial or total blindness in order that the individual may have the advice of the division and further the work in prevention of needless blindness.

There are today more than 4500 names on the division's register. Twenty-seven p. c. are between the ages of 20 and 50, or the working age, and 500 are school children with defective sight.

In the Liberty hall exhibitions there will be typewriting and dictaphone demonstrations, exhibits of basket work, window boxes, trays and other articles made by the people in Whitcomb hall, the industrial home for blind men in Worcester. The demonstration will also include cabinet work, broom-making, chair-caning, spinning, weaving, machine-sewing, etc.

Some of the work of a blind soldier, James T. Riddervold of Cambridge, will also be exhibited, with displays of books, household linen, knitted wearing apparel, etc., representing the business of the soldier who cannot see. There will be served each afternoon and evening ice cream and cake. Arrangements of the tea room will be furnished by local women. Announcements will be made later giving all names and organizations of those organizations connected with the coming enterprise.

HUGH B. SMITH

The many deeds of daring and heroism—thrilling rescues and hair-raising U-boat attacks—in which the U. S. submarine chaser, Seneca, participated from the Mediterranean to the North sea, furnishes one of the most interesting chapters of the entire World war.

The price that Hugh B. Smith, warrant officer on the Seneca, paid for his gallant part in these hazardous encounters, was a nervous system so shattered that he broke down completely.

"What I saw and went through," said Mr. Smith, "would leave its mark on any man. For two full years my nerves were at high tension all the time.

"When I got back to God's country, the reaction set in and I broke down completely. I was terribly nervous and irritable, had no appetite, and could not sleep except when exhausted. I was also about 15 pounds under weight, all of which made me realize something must be done.

"I resigned from the navy but soon found out new environment and duties made no improvement in my physical condition.

"Finally a friend persuaded me to try Tanlac and after taking six or eight bottles of Tanlac I had gained 15 pounds, was back to my normal weight, and felt completely recovered. Tanlac was a life-saver to me, and I heartily endorse it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold. Accept no substitute.—Adv.

REGAINS 18 POUNDS LOST WEIGHT

Taking WINCARNIS

"I was very sick; lost almost 18 pounds in weight; was extremely weak and nervous, and could not get a single night's sound sleep. I had constant medical attention and the best of wholesome foods, but my condition grow more alarming until I began taking Wincarnis, which helped me from the first few doses.

I have completely regained my former weight and strength, sleep soundly every night, eat most heartily and have an abundance of energy. My husband and my mother were so amazed at the effect of Wincarnis in my case that they both began taking it as a tonic. Today, they are just as loud in praise of Wincarnis as I am, and we do wish it were known to every weak, nervous or run-down person."

MUNICIPAL DANCE AT AUDITORIUM

A municipal dance, similar to others held early in the winter, will be conducted at the Memorial Auditorium on the evening of April 28 by the park commission. Decision to hold another of these public affairs was arrived at at the meeting of the commission last night.

The commission voted to plant 200 red oaks along Knapp avenue and on the knoll at the head of the avenue and the superintendent was authorized to purchase a ton of nitrate of soda to be used on trees on the North and South commons that seem to be slowly dying. The board considered a number of routine petitions, including several for the removal of trees along certain streets.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Miss Claire Lamoureux, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Lamoureux of Merrimack street, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Misses Marguerite and Cecile Rochette, 730 Merrimack street, Tuesday evening on the occasion of her coming marriage to Lawyer Arthur L. Eno. The affair was attended by about 20 young women, former pupils of Notre Dame academy and proved very enjoyable. Miss Lamoureux was presented numerous gifts.

BOSTON COLLEGE CLUB HAS DANCING PARTY

The seventh annual dancing party by the Boston College club was held last night in Associate hall and as in other years gave enjoyment to several hundred young people. The hall was attractively decorated in a color scheme of maroon and gold, the colors of the college. Draperies covered the side walls and from the ceiling chandeliers were suspended baskets that showered down confetti and varied-colored streamers during a novelty dance after the intermission period.

Members of the club in charge of the dance were: General manager, Timothy Tully; assistant, Walter Shea; floor director, James Brosnan; assistant floor director, Fred Leary. All club members served as aids.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

There's a barrel of joy bound up in Lloyd Ibach's Entertainers, who are headlining the big special show at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. The seven young men give the most luscious jazz that has been heard in Lowell in a long time, and give it superlatively well. As evidence of the popularity of the orchestra, let it be said that the organization is forced to respond to encore after encore. Norwood & Hall, quiet talkers, extract much good comedy from their off-hand discussions, and York & Maybelle are as lively a duo as one will often run across. They do a bit of everything, veneered with fun. Zeck & Randolph are another snappy pair, who simply coin laughter with their work. The Melroy Sisters are attractive dancers, and the Three Whirlwinds are skaters who do risky stunts. The bill opens with Ed. and Ida Tindell, in a hodge podge of everything.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

It is said that the original "Adam's Rib" caused a lot of trouble in the "Garden of Eden." Well, whatever trouble Eve may have caused is more than atoned for by Mathilda Ramsay, another product of "Adam's Rib," in a new Cecil B. De Mille production by that name, which is playing at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week, and which features Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Theodore Kosloff, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Julia Faye.

The story deals with the domestic troubles of Michael Ramsay, a wealthy Chicago broker (Milton Sills) and his spouse (Anna Q. Nilsson.) Theodore Kosloff as M. Jaremir, exiled king of Morania, a small European state, plays the part of the designing suitor for the hand of Mrs. Ramsay. Her husband is aware of his intentions and disposes of him by having his country recall him to the throne. This is not accomplished, however, without first reimbursing financially this little king-dom which, in that respect, was in dire straits.

"Adam's Rib" is not a story of the Garden of Eden, although Mr. De Mille does include a few cave man scenes as a "vision," but one of everyday life and a humorous one at that. The production is massive and the supporting cast is of the biggest De Mille standard.

THE STRAND

The triple-feature program, headed by an attraction extraordinary, will undoubtedly draw thousands and thousands of patrons to The Strand today, tomorrow and Saturday. M. Coue, the disciple of self-healing and self-mastery, who toured this country recently, will be seen in his only motion picture, explaining his theory and methods from the screen in a simple, understandable manner. There is nothing mysterious about his methods. With a simplicity that is charming as well as convincing, M. Coue in "The Message of Emile Coue," disclaims all credit as a miracle man, and only claims that the means of self-healing are within all of us. He is only the teacher who shows us how self-mastery may be attained. There is nothing scientific about the picture. It is simple statement, that we can use and better ourselves by using his method. The message that he conveys is the same that was expounded in his lectures, where audiences were amazed at the simplicity as well as the efficacy of the methods employed by this wonderful little Frenchman, the "Chemist of Nancy" whose theories have taken the world by storm. Be sure and attend. You may benefit.

William Farnum in "Brass Commandments," and Herbert Rawlinson in "The Prisoner" are to be the other contributions. Both of these picturizations are exceptionally good screen offerings that have all the pleasing elements found in high-class picture entertainments.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"The Bird of Paradise," at the Lowell Opera house this week, is giving hundreds of people who enjoy a thoroughly artistic production the opportunity that they have long been looking for. The efforts of the local management to stage the nationally known production by Richard Walton Tully have been thoroughly appreciated by several clubs and societies who have attended en masse. Mary Anne Dentler as Luana, the beautiful Hawaiian princess who sacrifices everything for love, is superb, while Arthur de Lord's presentation of "Ten Thousand Dollar Dean" is equally good.

RIALTO THEATRE

The double feature attraction which opened at the Rialto theatre on Wednesday afternoon and which comprises the production, "Don't Doubt Your Wife" and "Hills of Hate," draws to a close today. There is also an attractive serial, a comedy and the Rialto News Review.

Cannon weighing 130 tons each and with a caliber of 16 inches are being made at Sheffield for two new British battleships.

Y. M. C. I. WINS FROM BROADWAYS IN EXCITING OVERTIME GAME

Belvidere Outfit Goes Into Lead in City Bsaketball Championship Series by Winning Fifth Game by Score of 35 to 32—McGowan Clinches Victory

The Y.M.C.I. forged into the lead in the city basketball championship series by defeating the Broadways in an exciting and hotly contested overtime game at the Crescent rink last night, by the score of 35 to 32. It was the fifth game of the series and the victory gives the Institute boys the advantage 3 to 2. The series calls for four out of seven and the sixth game will be played next Wednesday evening.

It remained for Paddy McGowan, who entered basketball's hall of fame by caging the deciding basket in the third game of the series two weeks ago, just as the final whistle sounded, to come through again last night with the shot that clinched the victory for the Belvidere outfit. McGowan's brilliant basket came with but a few seconds to go in the extra period and resulted when he broke out of a scrimmage and tossed the ball with speed and accuracy into the netting.

While all the games of this series have been closely contested and replete with wonderful basketball, the one of last night was without a doubt the most thrilling. Starting on even terms by virtue of a two to two count, the rival outfits entered the cage with full realization of the importance of the impending struggle. To win meant the edge on the series and the best chance of copping the title. Both were in there for that purpose and both outfits put forth their best, fighting desperately, but cleanly at all times, and to the credit of all participants it must be said their exhibition was one of the greatest basketball treats of the season.

Six times during the hectic battle the score was tied and the greatest margin between the teams at any time was five points. The lead see-sawed from beginning to end, with supporters of both aggregations in a frenzy of excitement during the entire progress of play. Remarkable plays were turned in by members of the rival clubs and while a few of the players stood out a little more prominently than the others, in truth it must be said that every man on the floor contributed his share to the memorable exhibition.

McGowan, whose basket clinched the game, met with an injury in the third period, with only a minute and ten seconds to go. It was thought for a time that he could not return to the cage. He and Connors came together in an accidental collision the force of which threw both to the floor. McGowan sustained a cut on the back of his head, while Connors was badly shaken up. After a few minutes layoff Paddy returned to the lineup and as events turned out his presence had an important bearing on the result.

Kuley of the Y.M.C.I. was the big point-getter of the night. He scored five baskets, a couple of which were thrillers. McKinstrey played a fine game for the winners, his floor work being spectacular. He succeeded in caging three. Lepper landed a brace in the hoop and Lew, Curran and McGowan each scored one.

Joe Foley starred in the scoring for the Broadways, the speedy little forward getting a quartet of double ringers. Dan O'Connor came through with three, Keyes and Connors each negotiated a brace, with Randall coming forth with one.

An idea of the closeness of the play will be gained from the fact that the Y.M.C.I. scored 13 baskets, while the Broadways sent in an even dozen. Each team added nine points on fouls. Referee Arthur Ryan was again on the job and he had a close eye for all infractions in the rules. He called 29 fouls on the Y.M.C.I. and 28 on the Broadways.

The Y.M.C.I. got the jump in the first period, opening up what appeared like a commanding lead. But when the Broadways got their team work going in the second period they gradually climbed up and into the lead. The first period ended 11 to 6 in favor of the Belvidere outfit. The second session found the Broadways in their stride, launching a terrific offensive which brought about the desired result, and when the last whistle sounded in this stanza, the Acre crew was in the van, 27 to 22. The third period was a whirlwind of action with the teams knotted 31 to 31 when the 45 minutes time was up.

An extra period of five minutes was ordered. When it opened there were two fouls on the Broadways and one on the Y.M.C.I. A third foul on the Broadways made it 32 to 31. Three more fouls on the Broadways made it 35 to 32. Three on the Y.M.C.I. gave the Broadways a point, 33 to 32 was the count. At this point time was fleeting and the supporters of both organizations were pleading for a basket. With but a few seconds to go McGowan jumped into the hero role by caging a hummer. A few seconds later the final whistle sounded.

Of the score of youngsters taken south by the New York Yankees, not over a half dozen will be retained. Three recruits certain to be held for further inspection are Outfielders Tucker and Haines and Catcher Bengough.

The cases of Tucker and Haines are unusual. Haines is a great fielder, very fast and a wonderful runner, but rather shy with the stick. Tucker, a left-handed batsman, can sure hit them, but has much to learn as a fielder.

If Haines could hit like Tucker and Tucker could field like Haines both would win regular berths in the outfield.

Bengough, with Buffalo last year, will be retained as third string catcher. He has great promise.

Famous Football Coach Does Not Believe In "Win at Any Cost" Theory

By NEA Service

BOSTON, April 5.—Proper spirit and attitude toward athletics and not immediate victories will be the aim of Percy D. Haughton, far-famed football coach, when he takes over his new duties as coach of the Columbia University football team.

Haughton is reticent regarding his plans, for the future, but one thing is certain—all candidates will start with a clean slate so far as the new coach is concerned. The new mentor has not seen any of last year's team in action and the only name he knows is that of Walter Poppisch, last year's star, who is a member of the Columbia athletic advisory board.

Spring practice, Haughton says, probably will be called some time during April at which time he will have an opportunity to size up the material available.

"Too much stress," says the coach, "is placed upon victories in athletic contests. Good sportsmanship, a healthy body and mind, the unselfishness of team play are some of the real benefits derived. It is difficult to define just what I mean, but I think all of us have seen many teams and men more glorious in defeat than the victors in victory. I am utterly opposed to the 'win at any cost' idea in college athletics.

PERCY HAUGHTON

"I do think, however, that when a college builds its athletic system with a view to benefits along that line, it not infrequently happens that victories seem to follow as a matter of course."

Much has been said and written about the "Haughton system" as a result of the marvelous showing of Harvard eevons after the "miracle man of football" assumed control of the Crimson's football destiny.

HART PLAYS HIS FINAL GAME TOMORROW NIGHT

It is to be "Bob Hart night" at the second game of the big polo series between the Lowell champions and Duggan's All Stars at the Crescent rink tomorrow night, when the second rush of the local team will play his last game of the season, due to the fact that next week he will leave to assume his duties as an umpire in the National baseball league.

Hart joined the Lowell team when Frank Hardy was forced out of the lineup because of illness, and he took a big part in the great spurt of the team and also figured prominently in the series with New Bedford and also the great series with the Worcester team, the winning of which by the Lowell quintet brought the pennant to the Spindle city.

Hart is very popular here, his home town, and a number of his friends plan to turn out tomorrow night to give him a great send off, and to express their wishes for another successful season on the diamond.

BUT ONE GIANT RECRUIT MAKES THE GRADE

By BILLY EVANS

The Giants will present only one change when the opening lineup is announced. Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 beauty from the Pacific coast league, will be in center field.

O'Connell has proved beyond a question of a doubt that he can hit. If his work in the spring games is to be taken as a criterion, O'Connell will add a punch to McGraw's club that will make it an exceedingly difficult matter to dethrone the Giants in the national league.

In the preliminary work, playing, a sun field has appeared to bother O'Connell. Left field is the sun garden at the Polo Grounds. O'Connell will play either center field or right and it will probably be center, since Ross Young has for years been the custodian of right.

Coast Star Big Card

The coast league star is certain to be a big card at the opening of the season. If he lives up to the reputation that has preceded him as a slugger he will be a big attraction all over the circuit as well as in New York.

O'Connell is a mighty likable chap. All the nice things that have been written about the youngster have in no way inflated his head or chest.

In talking baseball his greatest delight is praising Willie Kamm, who brought an even fancier price than did O'Connell, it being reputed that the Chicago White Sox turned over the equivalent of $100,000 for him. No matter what phase of baseball you talk with O'Connell, he will always somehow get back to Kamm.

"Willie is a wonderful ball player," says O'Connell. "He will show the big league fans how third base will be played. There never was a better fielder out our way, and he also can hit the ball.

"Kamm is such a great fielder that you rarely see a ball get by him. Invariably he comes up clean with the ball and in addition has a fine arm.

"There is no question about him making good. The White Sox are all set for a third sacker for years to come."

Certainly is pleasing to hear a player speak so kindly of his rival. However, that seems to be O'Connell's type in all things pertaining to the game. All of which should tend to increase his own chances to deliver. On that point the experts are agreed and the decision is all in the affirmative.

In speaking of McGraw's rookies, one of the experts remarked that the class of the Giants was such, that taking recruits south was merely a matter of form, in order to give the jaunt the real flavor of a training trip.

Some Likely Recruits

As far as any of the recruits breaking into the lineup, that statement certainly holds good. However, out of the flock of youngsters taken south probably a half dozen have shown enough stuff to cause Manager McGraw and his assistant, Hughie Jennings, to enthuse.

Of the infielders, Shortstop Jackson, secured from Little Rock in the Southern league, looks like the one best bet. Of the pitchers, Webb, Blume and Walberg have the best chance to stick.

Walberg is the southpaw secured from the Coast league for a fancy figure. Since McGraw is looking for another southpaw to take the place of Nehf when the veteran star steps down, Walberg is sure of a real trial.

McGraw is confident of repeating, and unless his pitching should fail him, he seems to have the inside track to a third championship in succession.

CHANGE IN MAIN BOUT

Joe Fox Withdraws—Irving Jampol Will Meet Lew Paluso Here Tonight

Joe Fox, the English featherweight champion, who was scheduled to meet the sensational Lew Paluso in the feature event of the Moody club show at the Crescent rink tonight, has withdrawn from the match, as the result of an attack of boils. In his place Irving Jampol of New York city, who boxed a draw with Paluso at Jersey City on New Year's day will come here and fill the gap.

Matchmaker Dodge received word of Fox's inability to appear last night and immediately he got in touch with Jampol's manager. He had planned to use Jampol at a later date against Al Shubert. He asked if he would accept the Paluso engagement and he jumped at the opportunity.

In explaining the situation Mr. Dodge said today: "It was a severe blow to me, to be obliged to make a substitution at the last minute, particularly because of the fact that the advance sale indicated the largest house of the season. But realizing that many, in fact I believe the majority, were interested in seeing Paluso, I decided to make a substitution rather than call off the show. I tried to get several New England boys to fill in, but all had other engagements, so I exercised an option I had on Jampol, whom I proposed to use here at a later date against Shubert. While I have never seen Jampols work, his record, and the recommendations I received from friends in New York, lead me to believe that the bout has suffered little by the change.

"Remembering that Paluso himself came here two weeks ago as a substitute for Shubert against Brown I feel that I can assure the fans that tonight's fight will be a good one."

Both Men in Town

Matchmaker Dodge telephoned The Sun at noon today, announcing that both Jampol and Paluso had arrived in town.

Manty Has Split Lip

Owing to a split upper lip, Charley Manty of New Bedford, New England featherweight champion, has informed Matchmaker Connie Lynch of the Olympic club here, that he would be unable to appear for his scheduled go with Billy Murphy in Associate hall next Monday night. It appears that Manty's lip has not sufficiently recovered from the effects of a Jack Lawler blow received a few weeks ago, the injury requiring six stitches to close.

The Manty-Murphy bout has attracted considerable attention among New England critics. However, the proposed bout has not been thrown into the discard and Manty will positively appear here under Olympic club auspices, one week from Monday, April 16, according to Mr. Lynch.

AMATEUR GOLF TOURNAMENT

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—Eight little known amateurs will go into the second round matches of the North and South amateur golf championship tournament today.

Last year's champion, Henry J. Topping, Greenwich, Conn., was eliminated in the qualifying round, and T. Russell Brown, Burlington, Vt., who led the field of 250 players in the preliminaries, met defeat yesterday in the first round matches by W. C. Hunt, Houston, Tex.

FENCING CHAMPIONSHIPS

NEW YORK, April 5.—The intercollegiate fencing championships to be held April 12 and 13, at the hotel Astor, have attracted nine team entries so far. The United States naval academy has a strong squad, prepared to defend the title it won last year, but will find keen opposition from West Point, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Dartmouth, M.I.T. and Pennsylvania.

The French ministry of marine has plans for a 6000-ton submersible liner with accommodations for several hundred men.

BIG RELAY CARNIVAL AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Pennsylvania's great relay carnival on April 27 and 28, promises to bring together the largest number of colleges and schools that ever assembled for any track and field meet in the history of athletics.

The list of entries to date comprises 485 institutions, including 102 colleges and 383 schools. More than 500 teams will be at the meet, for many of the colleges have entered more than one team. Every section of the United States will be represented.

Not only will the pick of this country's college and school athletes compete in the long list of events, but a number from foreign lands will come here to match their speed on the cinder path with the Americans. Notable among the foreigners will be a relay team from Oxford university, England, which has been entered both in the sprint medley and the two mile relay races. Oxford also will be represented in the two mile international race. Several teams from Canadian institutions are entered.

NEWS FROM TRAINING CAMPS IN DIXIELAND

CLEVELAND, April 5.—The Cleveland Indians break camp at Lakeland, Fla., today, going to Atlanta, where tomorrow they play the Toronto international league club. The team is said to be in better shape than any Cleveland team has been at this time of the season for many years.

BOSTON, April 5.—The Braves were scheduled to meet the St. Petersburg Saints at St. Petersburg, Fla., today. In the last contest with this team Boston was forced to play extra innings to win. Activities yesterday, according to advices reaching here, were confined to a practice game during which Harry Hulihan, youthful left Lander, struck two batters with pitched balls.

Rain pursued the Red Sox to Memphis, Tenn., yesterday and the game with the Chicks of that city was postponed. The athletes played basketball, soccer and football and ran races in a large cattle barn chartered for the occasion.

MRS. MALLORY TO COMPETE

LONDON, April 5. Mrs Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, who is expected to compete in the Wimbledon tennis championships, has timed her arrival England so as to allow her to take part in some of the preceding tournaments, says the Daily Mail.

LYNCH AND GENARO WIN AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 5.—Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, vanquished an old foe when he outpointed Midget Smith of New York, in a bristling 10 round boxing bout last night, and Frankie Genaro, the American flyweight champion, shaded a first time ring acquaintance when he left-handed Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., to defeat in another 10 rounder of the all-star card.

It was Chicago's second showing of champions since the recent revival of pugilism which had been dormant here nearly a quarter of a century since Terry McGovern and Joe Gans sent public boxing into oblivion by their fake fight. Between 10,000 and 12,000 persons paid $51,000 to see last night's bouts.

JUNGLE RUNNERS IN BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, April 5.—Three jungle runners who are soldiers in the United States army in Panama are believed to be journeying north to participate in the American marathon here on April 19. They are Chief White Eagle, an American Indian; Moreno Cruz and Senor Caballero, native Porto Ricans. The trip is sponsored by Homer Baker, director of physical training in the canal zone and a former national A.A.U. half mile champion. Baker has written to Tom Kanaly, manager of the marathon, asking for entry blanks. He believes the work of his, three charges in carrying messages through the jungles has fitted them admirably for the classic event.

O. M. I. CADETS TO PLAY NEWTON COLLEGIANS

Next Tuesday night in Associate hall, the O.M.I. Cadet basketball team will play the Newton Collegians in what promises to be one of the best games of the season. The Cadets will use practically the same lineup which proved so successful in early season contests, including Dan and John O'Connor, McKinstrey, Crowe, Curran, Flanagan, O'Brien, Cassidy and others. The Newton boys will be represented by present, and ex-college stars such as Hickey, Melley, O'Connell, Considine, Mocular, Sweeney and Murphy. Several of these men played against Lowell Textile a few months ago.

Y. M. C. I. WINS INDOOR GAMES

The Mathews of North Billerica and the Y.M.C.I. engaged in a series of indoor games in Mathew hall Tuesday evening, the latter organization winning the tournament by a close margin. Refreshments were served after the contests and a pleasing program of entertainment given under the direction of President Joseph Kearney of the Mathews.

BROOKLYN STAFF ONLY HOPE OF MANAGER

Leo Dickerman, purchased from the Memphis club of the Southern league for $10,000, is the athlete in question. He is a tall right hander, with plenty of stuff, and appears to have an excellent chance to stick.

Dickerman, toiling for Memphis, Tenn., which finished second in the Southern association race, won 24 games and lost only seven for that club. He is the only finished-looking product among the hurling recruits and is likely to win a number of games for Brooklyn.

Reuther is signed to a sliding contract that calls for extra money in case he wins 15 games or better. Dutch says he is shooting at the 20 mark in games won, which, it is said, will mean an increase of about $1,000 on the year for the southpaw.

Burleigh Grimes, Leon Cadore, Al Mamaux, Dazzy Vance and Arthur Decatur, in addition to Reuther, will carry the hopes of the Dodgers. It is a mighty fine staff, but pitchers require assistance in the field and at bat to win.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Butler A.A. seconds are fast rounding into shape and hope that when the season opens they will have one of the fastest nines in the city. The record of the Butlers for the past few years shows that they have won the majority of their games. This year the team will enter the Junior twilight league.

Owing to the fact that the Willie Stars claimed the championship of their class last year, the team, intact, feels confident of repeating this year. The team will be composed of the following: Shea, Watson, McNeil, Brady Ryan, Bradley Marshall, Cote, Rogis, Davey and Norton; Tom Ryan is manager.

LINCOLN ALL-STARS

The Lincoln All-Stars would like to hear from any 12-13-year-old team in the city for a game April 21. Capt. Sullivan would like to arrange games with the Quakers, Cubs, Tigers or Emerald seconds. Challenges will be accepted through this paper.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, April 5.—Third round play of the University of Chicago's national basketball tournament was reached today by sixteen of the original 40 entrants. Despite elimination of 24 teams all sections of the country still were represented.

Osage, Ia., and Fitchburg, Mass., were to meet in the last match of the day.

CARNARVON DIES IN CAIRO

CAIRO, April 5 (By the Associated Press) The Earl of Carnarvon died peacefully at 2 o'clock this morning. He was conscious almost to the end. His death was due to blood poisoning through the bite of an insect, with the later development of pneumonia.

The death of the Earl of Carnarvon came shortly after the culmination of the exploit that brought him chiefly into public notice—the discovery by the archeological expedition which he headed, of the rich tomb of the Pharoah Tutenkhamen in the Valley of the Kings in Egypt.

While the press of the world was still devoting no small amount of its space to the notable contributions to the world's art and history which Lord Carnarvon and his fellow explorers had uncovered, came the news that he had been seriously ill in Cairo from the bite of an insect.

By the public at large the misfortune which the Earl had met, was regarded as a lamentable incident of what might happen in a tropical clime such as that of Egypt, but to the credulous students of Egyptian mysticism the news did not come as a surprise.

Even before Lord Carnarvon was stricken with blood poisoning, announced as due to an insect bite, there had been talk of the curses laid by the ancient Egyptians, with mystic incantations, on any who dared disturb the sleep of a Pharaoh. After he was stricken, the old legends spread, and hundreds were to be found, not before superstitious, who were ready to believe that the old Egyptian curse had fallen on the rich and famous Englishman.

There were some who even questioned whether it was an insect that had dealt him the poisonous stroke. It was suggested that he might have touched some poisoned object in the tomb itself, set 30 centuries ago to revenge the dead king or any who might disturb his rest.

The fifth Earl of Carnarvon was born June 26, 1866, and succeeded his father to the earldom in 1890. His mother was a descendant of the famous Lord Chesterfield, author, statesman and man of fashion.

He was reputed to have spent more than $100,000 maintaining the expedition which finally uncovered the Pharoah's tomb last December, after seven years of excavation.

The tomb, which contained an unprecedented quantity of objects of the greatest historical value, as well as the undisturbed sarcophagus of the Pharoah, is said to have been the richest find ever unearthed in Egypt.

Mrs. Gram of Milwaukee Freed From Terrible Attacks of This Affliction—Wants to Tell Others How it Was Done

Mrs. Paul Gram, residing in Apartment 23, 339 Fourth street, Milwaukee, Wis., wants everyone suffering with Fits (Epilepsy) to know she found treatment which gave her freedom from her attacks after she had suffered for over 14 years. Realizing the terrible suffering caused by Fits and being so thankful for her own relief, Mrs. Gram says she wants to tell all other sufferers about the simple home treatment which she used. She has nothing to sell. Simply send her your name and address and ask her to tell you how she was freed from the attacks of this terrible affliction. Mrs. Gram will give you this information free of all cost. Write for it at once before you forget.—Adv.

MILLINERY EXHIBIT DRAWS BIG CROWDS

The League of Catholic Women's rooms in the Harrington building, Central street, attracted a large gathering of women yesterday and this afternoon on the occasion of the annual millinery exhibit by the pupils of Mrs. J. W. Daley. The exhibit, consisting of 500 hats of the latest styles and shapes, opened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and will be brought to a close this evening.

All the modern styles of head-dress, including "Puts-Tuts" are on display and are meeting with continual approval on the part of the visitors. Mrs. John J. Sullivan, chairman of the educational committee of the league, is in charge of the reception of visitors, and with the aid of capable assistants, she has decorated the rooms in an exceedingly attractive manner with jonquils and daffodils, and crepe paper of green, white and yellow. The exhibit will close at 10 o'clock this evening.

SEE BIGGEST TRAFFIC YEAR IN HISTORY

NEW YORK, April 5—The executive committee of the association of railway executives, yesterday approved a program outlined Tuesday by the board of directors of the American Railway association, for meeting in 1923 what is expected to be the greatest traffic year in the railroading history of the country.

"The committee was unanimous in the opinion that the operating program proposed by the directors of the American Railway association, supplemented by the large increase in facilities which the roads had reported to this committee, promised transportation results for the year," read the report of the executive body, of which Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, is chairman. It pointed out that the four day session of officials of the railroads, including all classes and subsidiary terminal and transfer systems, was called "to take account early of the prospects for the heaviest traffic to be moved over the railroads of the country in their history, and to anticipate all possible measures available to handle this traffic to the satisfaction of the public.

"The action taken yesterday by the board of directors of the American Railway association, proposing further transportation measures and outlining additional methods of co-operation between the railroads and with shippers was received and carefully considered," the report continued.

"Reports have been secured from substantially all member roads showing the additional locomotives and cars that will be provided and also the additional roadway facilities with particular reference to additional yard and side-tracks, enlargements of terminal facilities, automatic signals and other facilities calculated to increase the capacity of the railroads."

"Contrary to the general impression," said the rail men, "equipment of the nation's roads, including locomotives, rolling stock and repair units, is in better condition now than it has been for years.

"Despite the shipmen's strike of last fall and the unusual severity of the winter, there are now more locomotives in good repair and a smaller percentage in bad order than ever has been reported by all roads at any period."

The car situation is correspondingly good. It was reported, with more available for traffic and more new ones on order, than there have been in the spring for two years. As evidence of the labor situation, it was pointed out that, whereas the winter season usually makes huge inroads on the supply of surplus cars, due to the inability of shopmen to keep up repairs, the supply this past winter has been increased.

Approving the program which will be submitted today to a meeting of representatives of member roads, the executive committees endorsed plans calling for "the largest budget of new facilities, power and equipment for many years, if not in the history of the roads."

MAKES BLIND SEE

PETROGRAD, April 2.—Hope that fully half the world's blind may regain complete sight through a new operation, details of which will soon be made public to medical men of all countries is held out by the discoverer, now living here in poverty.

He is Prof. Katz, a gray-haired man of fifty-three. During a two-hour interview and demonstration given me this afternoon he disclosed the result of 15 years of labor, a "semi-artificial eye"—a celluloid cup inserted in the socket so that light is reflected through it and the blind can see.

Nerves Must Be Intact

All that is required, he adds, is that the light perception nerves be intact, and he adds that this is true of at least 50 per cent. of the cases of blindness, including those born blind. Where the nerves are dead, the only hope, he says, is through perfection of an optophone, on which Prof. Katz is now working, by which light is transferred into sound.

The Katz operation, demonstrated to me, takes only about a minute. No drama enacted could be more poignant than the expression of the sightless as they regain their precious vision after this one climactic minute.

What happens is this: The withered front part of the eye is cut away and the celluloid cup set in. The light perception nerves in the back of the eye are for the first time given a chance to function and the patient sees through his celluloid or "semi-artificial" eye.

Hardier Than Normal Eye

The strange part of it is that you can tap the eye and the patient can still see through it; it is hardier than the normal human eye. Prof. Katz has built up an entire science of making the blind see, which he calls by the Greek word "tiflitratia," or "curing the incurable."

His hospital is supported by the government, and has room for 300 patients, but he has no medical assistants, and practically no money. His staff consists of two nurses and a scrubwoman. The professor himself works 20 hours a day, dressed in a rough leather coat and sweater, and his home is meagrely furnished.

The one case I saw was that of a woman blind since birth and now 30.

"Her eyes are small and deep-set, so deeply she could not see," Prof. Katz explained. "In these cases sedsection of the eye muscles brings the eye forward. Then instead of a celluloid cup we use magnifying glasses of proper strength, and the patient can begin to see normally.

"But most of my work is among blind cases caused by disease. Where previously a glass eye was inserted, it is now possible for the patient to have an eye that looks normal, and, far more important, through which he can see."

Prof. Katz was educated in Russia and has lived here all his life. I asked if he would go abroad to teach his method.

"No," he answered, "I do not want to leave Russia to go anywhere, although I will demonstrate my operation for scientists of any country. I have work enough to do in Russia. I shall, however, be happy to correspond with your American physicians, write them technical descriptions of the process and send photographs.

Eight Operations in Month

"Of course I think this discovery of incalculable benefit to humanity. I am old, but I will continue my work. Who knows but I will find a still better process?"

Russian physicians who saw the process are divided into two camps. All agree the results are marvellous, but one faction contends it is unscientific. Prof. Katz merely smiles and replies:

"I have written exactly what I am doing and it is for the medical world to judge."

Of the 300 in his hospital, eight have already been operated on this month with celluloid cups and in each case the operation is described as completely successful.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

CONSTANT DEMAND FOR GUILD BALL TICKETS

One of the happiest social events of the year is anticipated tomorrow evening when the Lowell Guild ball will be given at the Memorial Auditorium. Not only will there be every opportunity for enjoyment but a great deal of satisfaction will accompany it through the thought that the proceeds will go toward the maintenance of the splendid work the guild is doing along the line of conserving infant life in the city.

Plans for the affair have been worked out most carefully and it is expected the patronage will tax the capacity of the Auditorium. As an attractive feature the Braggiotti sisters of Boston, noted society dancers, will appear in solo dances and ensemble numbers. Liberty hall will be utilized for the serving of a buffet luncheon.

Tickets at prices of $1.50 and $2 may be secured at Steinert's in Merrimack street. On Friday evening whatever tickets remain may be bought at the Auditorium box office after 7.45 o'clock, the hour at which the doors will be open.

Acids & Chemicals

In Acids and Chemicals, quality is more important than in many other lines. Coburn's store leans decidedly toward quality goods.

It is needless, we think, to say that every element of reliability is provided by this store. The extent and quality of Coburn's trade and the obvious confidence reposed in this store by the public is evidence that it has always given superior service.

Each article sold in the Acid and Chemical Department of C. B. Coburn Co. is representative of the best of its kind.

FAREWELL PARTY TO MRS. DONEHUE

A farewell party was tendered Mrs. John T. Donehue, who is to leave for a European tour on April 11, in the D. L. Page restaurant last evening by her associates in the League of Catholic Women, of which organization she is president. Shortly before 7 o'clock the gathering sat down to a bounteous banquet, followed by an entertaining program of speeches and readings.

Miss Alice T. Lee was toastmistress of the evening and introduced as the first speaker, Mrs. John F. Saunders, who welcomed the party and paid respects to the guest of the evening. Others who spoke were Dr. Emma E. Y. Slaughter, vice president of the league, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, chaplain, and Miss Julia Reardon. Musical selections were given by Mrs. Joseph W. Green and Miss Marietta Gormley.

On behalf of the officers of the organization, a beautifully fitted traveling bag was presented Mrs. Donehue by Mrs. David Mahoney. Mrs. John F. Saunders arranged the affair.

Wireless recently played a part in a burial at sea, when a big steamship sent the word of the service to a small English freighter which lacked a prayer book.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney and bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

PARTY LINES IN CITY POLITICS

It is said that some of our representatives in the legislature had intended to introduce a bill providing for party designation in municipal elections. The purpose of any such bill would be to draft more capable men into our city government. Many such men would gladly give their services; but they do not care to enter a fight for office against professional politicians, and they would have slight chance of success if they did. But if asked to become candidates for municipal office as the chosen nominees of their own party, they would willingly accept.

By that means men of sound business experience and training might be elected to municipal office; but under the present arrangement, the ablest business man in the city could not be elected poundkeeper against a hack politician that will almost pledge himself to hand the city hall over to the people who elect him and keep him in office.

When city politics called for party nominations, each party put forward its best men or its strongest candidates; and there was always a healthy opposition ready to show up anything wrong in the administration. That is a principle of government that has been abandoned in all the charters we have had since the bicameral charter was abolished. The fault with that charter was not the party feature so much as the difficulty of having the two branches concur on legislative measures. With a single board and an executive, party government would be simplified and would afford the taxpayers a choice of the best men on two rival tickets. The men elected would feel that they were doubly responsible; first to the city and next to their party. It is too bad to have to change our charter so often; but while any feature is susceptible of improvement, there is an incentive to struggle forward toward more ideal methods of regulating our government machinery.

But if we are ever to return to partisan government in city politics, we should go the whole way and adopt the old system of having the people elect delegates to a nominating convention. Each party would then put up its best and strongest men, knowing that if it didn't, the nominees of the other party would probably be elected. The Sun has advocated a nominating council to be elected by the citizens, but while this would be an improvement upon the present method, it would not be quite so good as to have the two political parties put up their respective tickets through nominating conventions and let the voters take their choice of candidates.

That system would get rid of the political barnacles that attach themselves to the municipal bark in such a way that it is with the greatest difficulty that they can be permanently dislodged.

EVENING HIGH GRADUATES

The graduates of the evening high school have completed a period of study for which they had to make many sacrifices. Some of them have already started in what will be their life calling, but others undoubtedly have yet to select their occupation. With most young people in a city like this it is difficult at first to find the kind of work for which they are best adapted or that is most congenial to their tastes. Probably a majority of those who end their education in the grammar school are forced to take what they can get and plod along until they can find an opportunity of shifting into something more to their liking.

The education and general training received at the evening high school should be of great assistance to any young man or woman who went to work from the grammar school; it should enable him or her to reach a higher place in the industrial environment.

The ambitious youth will not wait for something to turn up. He will go out and make his own opportunity. That is how most people climb the ladder of success. The education received at the evening high school will be a sort of step ladder by which they can rise to higher levels where they will have fewer competitors and better remuneration for their services.

The boys and girls who show the ambition and the persistence to go through the evening high school while earning what they can during the day show that they are made of the right stuff, that they are not afraid of hard work, that they want to make the best use possible of their leisure hours; and this they do in taking up an educational course calculated to enable them to fill places of responsibility. It has always been found that when opportunities of advancement present themselves it is only those who have prepared that are considered.

HARDING BACKING DOWN

Preparations for President Harding's more or less strategic retreat from his advocacy of this country's representation on the International Court of Justice seem to be foreshadowed in the news from Florida following conversations with the president during his stay there. Republican papers are admitting that leaders of the president's party fear the consequences his proposal may have for them, and are attempting to "dissuade him from pressing this matter when the next congress meets."

It is believed that this persuasion and pressure from the eastern reactionaries and the irreconcilables will prompt the president either to withdraw or greatly modify his first recommendation regarding American partnership in the International Court. Senators Moses, Brandegee, McLean and others in the east are said to feel deep displeasure at the president's sudden and unaccountable conversion from downright hostility to the League of Nations to open recognition of one of its agencies. These senators will have the concurrence of Senators Borah, Johnson, La Follette, Norris and others in the west if they make an attack on the president's proposition.

As a candidate for renomination and re-election, the president can not afford to alienate any republican senators, east or west. Many of the republican senators who are in opposition to Mr. Harding's first suggestion for American co-operation in the restoration and consolidation of peace and prosperity in Europe will remain in office for two or three years after November, 1924, no matter what happens to him at the next election. They will not greatly fear his reprisals between now and then. They apparently feel that if his mistakes must defeat someone, they would much prefer that he, and not any of their number, should be the one.

ALLIES OF INDUSTRY

Mr. E. K. Hall, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, says public utilities are the "allies of industry." That is true, and without them industry would be paralyzed all over the land. To strengthen these allies of industry will also strengthen the industries and, therefore, Mr. Hall makes a general appeal in behalf of public utilities, asking that they be given a chance.

Here is the essence of his discourse:

"The way is clear. The formula is simple, and the principle is sound as the granite hills. Give your allies a chance. Make them prosperous. Make them strong. Don't cripple them. Protect those margins. They are small margins at best, but they are yours. They are your insurance for the service of tomorrow. Keep the responsibility for running the public utilities on the shoulders of the utilities, where it belongs. Don't give them alibis to slide out with. Work with them and not apart from them, and give them an occasional boost."

It is true that public utilities must be given a chance before they can be expected to give the service expected of them. But they must not be allowed to abuse their privileges by securing the rewards of efficiency while giving inferior service. It is this failure or something very much like it that causes the public to lose confidence in some of their public utilities. It is well, however, that between the public utilities and the people as well as the industries dependent upon them, there should be a healthy understanding as their interests are very largely common and what injures one will soon hurt the other.

IMMIGRATION

"Europe is offering us the dregs of its population and is keeping the flower of its manhood at home," said Edward J. Henning, a secretary in the department of labor at Washington, to the Worcester Rotarians, in a recent address. Possibly Mr. Henning was not present at Ellis Island a short time ago, when, according to one of the New York newspapers, "1100 hearty, healthy-looking, smiling Irishmen and Scots, with wives and children and much bag and baggage, came down the gang plank, hailing their new home with expressions of joy. Every man in the line of immigrants appeared to be capable of handling himself in almost any employment capacity that calls for hard work and plenty of it." The women were some of the fairest of Ireland and Scotland, and the children appeared to be going on a picnic, so happy were they at the attention paid to them by Americans there to greet them.

MUSSOLINI'S METHODS

Mussolini, of Italian black-shirt fame, will probably hold his job a long time. He is cutting down government expenses. That is the surest way of getting public support in our age of abnormal war taxation.

He follows this by abolishing 600 Italian courts. We also have too many courts and yet we have a reputation as a nation for not enforcing the law against the worst criminals. Moreover, most of our court dockets are filled with cases that have been awaiting trial for years. The trouble is, that we have too many paternalistic laws, too many reformers trying to bring about the millenium by the enactment of laws behind which there is no public sentiment. But Mussolini's dictatorial methods cannot obtain here.

Federal department of labor experts profess to believe that more than 1,000,000 men in the nation are "normally unemployed." Just explain that to Middlesex county farmers without delay, please. All of those with whom we have discussed farm help problems lately, tell us the prospects for hiring farm hands and general agricultural laborers this season are very poor.

The problem of providing a new Edson school is one of the heaviest the council will have to deal with this year. A new building is needed, but the problem comes as to where it will be located and how the expense will be met.

Spring fishermen, here's a tip: Fish have a well-developed sense of smell, says a writer in Aquatic Life. Maybe they're smelling when they nose the bait. The anglers of the Lowell Fish and Game society should look into this.

The city council having rejected the ordinance to abolish the Board of Public Service should now confirm Mayor Donovan's nomination of the chairman.

Give us a building code that is up to date and one that will correct some of the current abuses.

"It is good policy to take what you can get and fight for more."

SEEN AND HEARD

One man was fined $50 for trying to kiss his stenographer. If all the girls would report we could pay our national debt.

Several of the boys in The Sun composing room are radio fans and have radios at home. They are forever telling of the far distant points from which they heard the night before and they were, including Havana, Cuba, Davenport, Ia.; Atlanta, Ga.; etc., when one of the number, who hasn't a radio set, said: "Shucks, you fellows make me tired. I just raised my window last night and got 'chilly.'"

A Thought

Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles.—Emerson.

Where Shoe Pinched

"What's the matter?" asked Jones. "Finances bothering you?" "Yes, they are, to this extent," replied Smith. "You see, I owe Brown $5, and today I've got it, and he knows I've got it and he knows I know he knows I've got it."

Not a Bad Sign

"I am afraid poor Floss is going to have rabies, Dr. Vet," said the fair dog owner anxiously. "Why, I don't see any sign of it," said the doctor kindly. "What makes you think so?" "Why, you see," said the lady, "his poor little tongue is always hanging out of his mouth." "That is in accord with a merciful dispensation of providence," returned the doctor. "You see, if it were to hang out of his ear he would have difficulty in drinking."

Cleverness Recognized

"So you think you can dress a show window so that every woman who comes along will stop and look at it, do you?" asked the manager of a dress-making establishment of an applicant for work. "Yes, sir, I do." "Well, then, what is the first thing you would do?" "I'd put a big mirror in the window and" "That's enough, young man; we don't want you as an employe. We'll take you in as a partner."

What News Is or Isn't

Newspapers constantly are accused of sensationalism. But how did King Tutenkhamen's tomb get to be news? The people clamor for all the details and the old reliable Associated Press spends thousands of dollars describing the progress of this scientific expedition. No satisfactory definition of news has yet been formulated. But anything the people cry out for is news. And perhaps anything you can get people to read. Human interest it must have.—Capper's Weekly.

Such Is Romance

The cable tells a romantic story of a young English girl who went to Capetown, Africa, to marry her fiance, but changed her mind, deciding to return to England by next ship. Then up rose 150 unmarried Englishmen at Cape St. Vincent and by spokesmen persuaded her to permit them to spin a coin and if she guessed wrong marry one of them. Her English sporting blood prompted her to accept the challenge and she lost. Later she chose a man from the 150 and married him, her former lover acting as best man. May they live happy ever after.

Secret Service Uniform

Dubbs, late sergeant, A. E. F., had gone to a South American country, where a revolution was, searching for excitement. The president, who had just risen to power, promptly appointed him quartermaster general and then produced sketches made by himself as designs for uniforms for his forces. "I get most of this, president," remarked Dubbs, after studying them for a while. "This here seems to be for the army and this for the navy. But what's this thing with the green plume on a three-cornered hat, yellow, swallow-tailed coat, trimmed with purple, and—" "Ah, zat!" exclaimed the president triumphantly. "Zat is my masterpiece. Zat is for ze secret service."

"Give up" and "Get Back"

"Give Up" and "Get Back" are two wonderful fellows;
"Give Up" is so rosy; "Get Back" always yellow.
"Give Up" has a struggle; he's always so poor;
But "Get Back" has a bank full, and then a lot more.

"Get Back" has a grouch over every wee loss;
"Give Up" loves to whistle and sing on his way;
"Get Back" wouldn't whistle, for that mightn't pay.

"Give Up" likes to have people like him a bit;
"Give Up" is so willing to share all his luck;
"Get Back" keeps it all, or he thinks he is stuck.

"Give Up" takes his sunshine for others to see
"Get Back" thinks the clouds are as good as the sun
But which, in the end, do you think will have won?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

That "Pageant Beautiful" under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute in the Memorial Auditorium Monday night was beautiful in every respect of the word. Not only were the costumes worn by the participants novel, but they showed skilled workmanship and ingenuity on the part of the wearers and their competent teachers. It showed just what can be done in the vocational classes of the Lowell evening schools and no doubt it proved a revelation to the interested audience. The Mathews are to be congratulated for their enterprise in promoting such an affair.

The taking down of the storm boards on the bridges around Lowell is one of the surest signs of spring. The boards on Central bridge were taken down yesterday, and it was a relief to be able to look up the river and watch the cakes of ice floating down. The river at this time of year is always high and the rapid rush of waters is refreshing on a warm and muggy day. The boards were placed in position last November and withstood one of the severest winters on record.

The class of 1923 of the Lowell evening high school claims the distinction of being the first class to hold graduation exercises in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium. The exercises last Tuesday night were conducted under the most auspicious circumstances possible, and proved a noticeable improvement over those conducted in past years in Keith's theatre. The beautiful and spacious stage affords splendid opportunity for the assemblage of the graduates, and while the acoustic properties are not of the best, the very neatness of the auditorium makes up for it. The next big event will be the June graduation of the day high school.

I am interested in artificial eyebrows for women, as a friend of mine had hers burned off in a fire. There was an exhibition of such eyebrows at the national convention of hairdressers in New York recently. They also demonstrate how any woman with the price can get a new set of eyelashes, long and seductive like a movie vamp's. Men will wonder how they're attached—glued or stitched? Ah, life might lose its glamor for men if they knew too much about feminine wiles. For life is an illusion, and all is futile and dismal when our illusions are destroyed. So, with you, we pass on, to the less important things of life, chivalry forbidding us intruding on the secrets of the fair sex. But here is another beauty delusion. Rose Malous, beautiful demonstrator, steps in front of a mirror and in three minutes transforms herself from a flapper with bobbed black hair to a gorgeous being with a profusion of shining red-gold tresses. You've seen it done on the stage. But it takes art to "get away with it" face to face. Miss Malous makes the change before the national convention of hairdressers, by simply donning a "transformation" (modern word for wig). The best transformations come from cultured French women who cut off their hair when they become nuns. Transplantation of beauty is a highly developed science among women.

Big Radio Terminals

Boston Globe: When that huge radio terminal, to be the second largest in the United States, is completed at Miami and that huge radio terminal, rivaling the Eiffel tower, is completed in Dublin, Dublin will be able to get prompt news about the latest styles and other things in bathing suits, and Florida will be able to get prompt news about the Irish ructions.

Where Judges Differ

New York World: Federal Judge Evans of the western district of Kentucky has ruled that automobiles cannot be seized or searched for intoxicating liquor without a warrant. Federal Judge Cochran of the eastern district of Kentucky has now ruled that automobiles can be seized or searched for liquor without a warrant, just the same as in a suspected case of bank robbers trying to escape.

Volstead prohibitionists are always demanding respect for law and law enforcement. But precisely what is the law to be respected and enforced as in these Kentucky cases? Is it the law as interpreted and applied to western Kentucky by Judge Evans, who is following article IV. of the Bill of Rights? Or is it the law as interpreted and applied to eastern Kentucky by Judge Cochran, who makes light of the Bill of Rights as to searches and seizures?

Rounding Up the Swindlers

New York Herald: The department of justice evidently is in earnest in its war on the oil stock swindlers. It has not only investigated; it has arrested. In Forth Worth, Texas, the hotbed of fraudulent oil companies, there have been 26 indictments and these have been followed by the seizure of many of the men who have been gulling the susceptible.

In New York, where there are no oil fields but where victims are particularly thick, a federal grand jury has indicted ten oil stock men, nearly all Texans, who are accused of having used the mails to defraud. If the government will follow up its war upon these smooth tongued gentry there ought soon to be an end of oil stock swindling.

Another Soviet Victim

Boston Herald: The execution of Vicar-General Butchkevich of the Roman Catholic church in Russia for alleged offenses against the soviet government adds another name to the long list of religious dignitaries and priests whom the Moscow bolsheviks have done to death. Resort to the firing squad in his case had no justification other than that of a pretext, and was plainly the outcome of a desire for a victim.

That the chief charge against him was substantiated is beyond question. It is admitted that, during the soviet crisis on church property, he refused to hand over to bolshevist agents the sacred objects of his own church in Petrograd, nor was it denied that he declined to sign a statement declaring such objects to be the property of the government. But that the soviet famine fund suffered as a result cannot be maintained. The pope wrote repeatedly, but unavailingly, to Moscow, offering to buy the treasures and hand over whatever might be demanded for them as a contribution to famine relief. How much would law and order in Russia have suffered by that compromise?

FRATERNAL NEWS

There was a large attendance at last evening's meeting of the B. F. Butler Relief corps, 75, which was held in Memorial hall. In the early part of the evening supper was served by the following committee: Mrs. Elizabeth Ober, chairman; Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Frank Dodge, Mrs. Alva Webb, Mrs. Agnes Donlon and Mrs. Mary McQuade. In the course of the business meeting two new members were initiated, plans were made for the holding of a whist party and the serving of luncheon in Memorial hall, on the evening of April 18 and the following officers were inducted into office: Mrs. Alice Felch, president; Mrs. Mary Prescott, secretary; Mrs. Catherine Cheney and Mrs. Elizabeth Dodge, color bearers and Mrs. Edna Chandler, musician.

Ladies' Auxiliary, A.O.H.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary, A.O.H., was held Tuesday evening in A.O.H. hall, Middle street, with President Catherine Gaffney in the chair. Several applications for membership were received and the bazar committee reported the winners of the recent drawing contest as follows: Miss Mary Dillon, 589 Central street, barrel of flour; M. Clifford, 137 Hovey street, string of pearls. At the close of the business session, a social hour was enjoyed and luncheon was served.

S. H. Hines' Lodge

William D. Brown, a past chancellor of Samuel H. Hines' lodge, K. of P., Knights of Pythias, who joined the order in September, 1872, and who therefore is completing his 51st year as a member of the organization, was presented a veteran's jewel of the order at the regular meeting of the society, which was held Tuesday night. The presentation was made by Alvan E. Joy, chancellor of the lodge, who complimented Mr. Brown for his fine record. The meeting was attended by several past chancellors of the lodge as well as by prominent K. of P. from other cities. At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed during which luncheon was served.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

THE FACTS

She's pretty and cuddly and laughing and young,
With blarney enough at the tip of her tongue
To jolly an anchorite out of his cave;
And as to her eyes—why they never behave!
They lure every masculine person in reach,
I guess she's a flirt—but I know she's a peach!

Though sometimes it's whispered she juggles the truth
(For popular damsels will tangle their dates
Her words are not always entirely sincere,
I think she's a liar—I know she's a dear!

She'll coquette with Ninety and flirt with Nineteen,
Unstable as water, a butterfly girl
Who keeps every masculine head in a whirl;
Yet always about her I faithfully hover,
I guess she's a vamp—but I know that I love her!

I have visited all of the public schools in the City of Lowell. I have helped conduct fire drills in the manner which I considered practical. I have addressed a great many individual classes and also groups. I have practically eliminated the walking on railroads, lectured on the dangers of the street, the danger of hopping on teams, autos, and also that of jaywalking. I have talked of the danger of attempting to cross the railroad when the gates are down, thin ice, going in deep water unless one can swim, coasting on the streets, electric wires, fire, gasoline and other explosives. In fact I have lectured on everything that would tend to the conservation of human life especially amongst the school children of Lowell. I have been successful in getting the mayor and the superintendent of police to set aside certain streets for coasting; these being streets considered to have the minimum of danger by traffic.

I have also supervised and observed the pupils of our public schools while going to and from school. This I have done regardless of the hours or the time of day so that I might advise and instruct them of the dangers of the careless manner in which they run and play in the streets at all times.

I also procured 100 posters (pictorial) showing the dangers of the street. These have been distributed to each school in the City of Lowell. I personally distributed them and asked each principal to see that every class in school saw them and that each individual teacher might speak two or three minutes daily to their classes of the dangers of the streets.

I also requisitioned for and have just received 500 copies in booklet form entitled "Let's make our state safe for the children." These are to be put in the hands of every teacher in the city of Lowell.

Posters and booklets published by Massachusetts safety council.

I know that if these booklets are used as they should be, that the city of Lowell instead of being No. 7 of all the cities in the United States for the percentage of people and children injured and killed on the streets, the city of Lowell will take the place again we vacated two or three years ago which was namely one of the safest cities of the United States.

Some of the fire drills have not been satisfactory but I expect that with my follow-up work everything will be O. K. I have given the business agent of the school department a list of schools which have no bells and also any other minor defects which should be remedied. He assured me that the above will be attended to at once.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) WALTER R. JEYES,

Lor' Lumme! What Mistikes We Mike!

JOHN HOLMES HOWELL, THE PERFECT BUTLER.

By JACK JUNGMEYER

CULVER CITY, Calif., April 5.—Buttelling and valeting in the movies bears not the faintest resemblance to these important functions as performed in dear old England.

For this startling and withering statement we have to thank John Holmes Howell, formerly of the household of the Duke of Connaught, if you please, and now technical advisor in all such matters at the Goldwyn studio.

The information is highly important because, it seems, a good many of our youngest families are taking tips on the treatment of servants from the spurious film article. And getting off dreadfully wrong!

"In London, now," says 'e, "a butler who looked like those I've seen in so many American pictures couldn't get a job as a brewer's drayman. Over there they're always six fit 'igh, with plenty of 'air on their 'eads. In most large establishments footmen 'ave to powder. 'Ow could they do it with a bald 'ead?"

"Lor, lumme, the mistukes I see! Calling a duke's daughter 'lady' and 'is son "mister.' Callin' a baronet a lord—fancy that!"

It does seem that we bushwas who've made a little dough and then go putting on airs have been a little off. But let John rub it in.

"They let a servant place a dish at the right-hand side of a lady at table. Of course everyone knows the only thing ever served from the right is wine—" Yes, yes, John, go on! "Most hextraw'dinary!

"Now a valet always haccompanies 'is gentleman, shooting or fishing, as the case may be. There are only three things a gentleman tell 'is servant"—mark this now, you nouveau!—"Where 'e's going, 'ow long 'e will remain and what 'e's going to do."

But here, ladies and gents who compel your help to entertain in the kitchen and pull a lot of spurious swank on your servants, is Mr. 'Owell's real bombshell:

"I've seen King Edward take out 'is flask and 'and it to his gillie, the game-keeper, you know, before 'e took a drink himself. And it was customary for Queen Victoria to take tea frequently with the gillie's wife.

"In those days it was always 'would you please?' to the servants, and 'no, thank you.' I never 'ear anything like that from the movie people."

Howell has served English nobility all his life, having been in turn cartridge boy to King Edward VII., valet to the Earl of Dudley, Marquis of Zetland, Earl of Minto, Duke of Grafton, Duke of Portland and the Duke of Connaught.

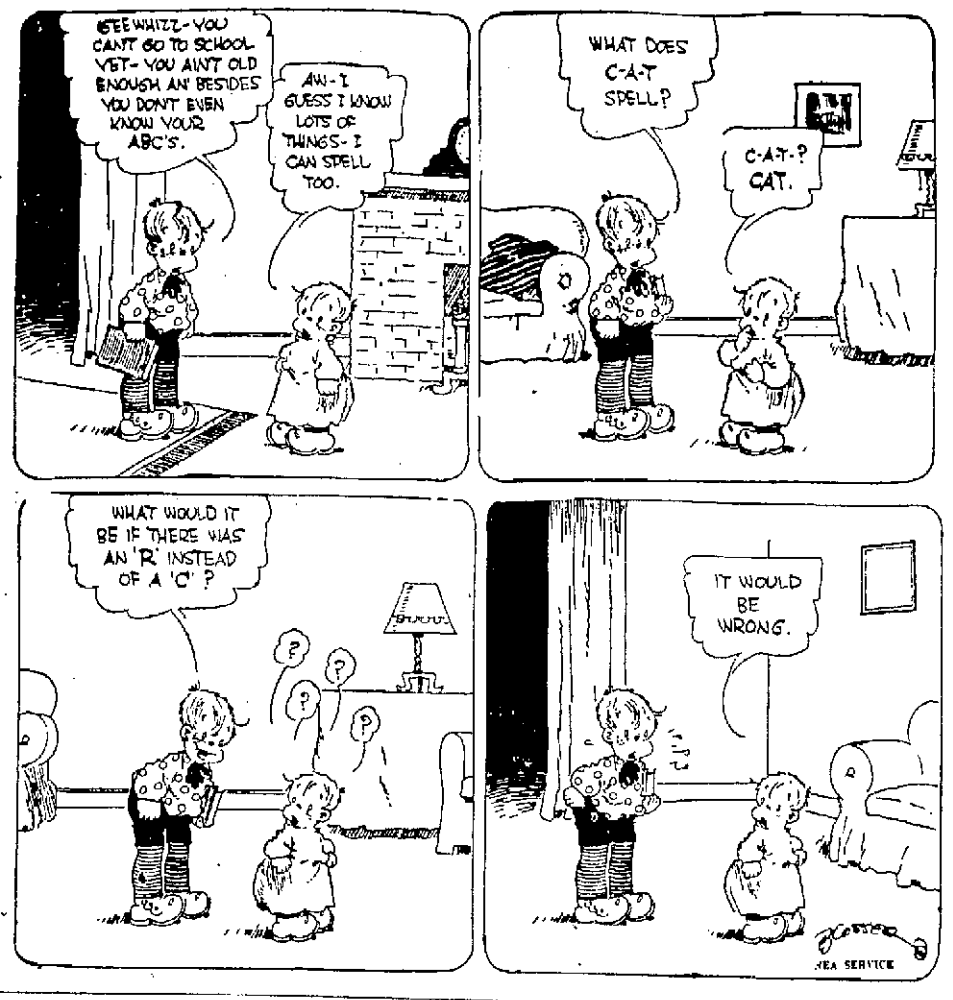

Gosh, how mainstreetish it makes a guy feel to meet up with a sure-enough valet and get the low-down on high life. Dang it, after being talked to by Mr. 'Owell I've almost given up the notion of hiring a maid and putting on airs.

There is a possibility that Doug Fairbanks Jr., may appear in pictures. His mother, now Mrs. James Evans, may give him a start in that direction, according to rumor.

GIRLS' CITY CLUB TO PRESENT "JADE GONG"

This famous song revue, which made such a hit at the Copley-Plaza in Boston, is under the personal direction of Mr. Frederich Brydon of Boston and his assistant, Mr. Russesa Wentworth.

There will be a local cast of 100, Mr. Brydon and Mr. Wentworth, both professionals, taking leading parts. Mr. Langdon Matthews, of New York, who has taken premier dancing roles in several musical productions in the metropolis has consented to appear in several special dancing numbers.

This production is entirely different from any other the club has ever staged in Lowell. The talent committee however has been especially fortunate in securing Lowell's most talented singers and dancers and this, coupled with the excellent material which the members themselves can furnish due partly to past experience in this line, points to a very successful presentation.

General dancing until 1.00 a. m. will follow the performance.

King Tut Is Great on Styles But They're Not Enough

King Tut did this! Egyptian designs like those sketched are appearing in embroidery and beading on new frocks and suits. Printed silks are beginning to show scarabs, sphinxes and "the secret hid under Cheops' pyramid." Front panels and wide belts with front buckles are the only definite garment lines borrowed from the Egyptians. Most of the borrowed ideas are for trimming. There's a little difficulty about adopting Egyptian styles entire—there doesn't seem to be enough of them.

An entirely new kind of soap

Use enough Rinso to get the big lasting suds that loosen all the dirt

With this new kind of soap, soaking takes the place of rubbing. There is no drudgery. No wear and tear on the clothes. Rinso is so rich in cleansing power, so safe and gentle, that just soaking in its thick lasting suds loosens all the dirt. When you rinse out your clothes the dirt floats right off. Only the very dirtiest places will need a light rubbing with a little dry Rinso. These obstinate spots will then disappear at once.

Whichever way you wash—Rinso makes it easier

You do not have to change any of your usual steps—just use Rinso where you used to use bar soap. You will find it makes every washday method easier for you. For soaking, for boiling, for washing machines Rinso is ideal. You need no other soap or any soap powder.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soapmakers in the world. Just as Lux has made all fine laundering safe and easy, so Rinso has taken all the harmful rubbing and drudgery out of the family wash.

Get Rinso today at any grocery or department store. It comes in two sizes, the regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

KIDNAPPED AND WHIPPED

MACON, Ga., April 5.—Her hands tied by her assailants, Mrs. Frederick Pace, of New York, late last night witnessed the severe whipping of her companion, Lynwood L. Bright of this city, after they had been kidnapped from their automobile by eight unmasked men and taken to a secluded spot four miles from here.

Bright said he was given 24 hours in which to leave the city under penalty of death. He stated it would be impossible to comply because a week would be required to finish up his business affairs.

Mrs. Pace told officers the kidnappers said they resented testimony of a negress in Bright's divorce case last Monday. Bright said they added blows after they charged him with an attempt to take his property away from his children. He said he could identify some of his assailants, although he did not know them personally. Mrs. Pace was not molested further than being forced to watch the beating.

Mrs. Bright, when informed of the whipping at her hotel last night said she "was very glad to know there were some men in the world anyway."

Mrs. Pace begged that the affair be kept from the newspapers, saying that she was going to leave the city at once and did not want any further embarrassment.

The scene of the kidnapping was near where Dr. Eugene Schreiber of Boston was kidnapped several months ago. Residents who saw both attacks said the circumstances in last night's affair were almost identical with the Schreiber case, even to the type of automobiles used.

Bright and Mrs. Pace were found by deputies walking towards Atlanta. They said the route taken to the scene of the flogging was circuitous and had confused their sense of direction.

After relating the incident to police, Mrs. Pace was taken to her hotel and Bright left without stating his destination. He was suffering from flesh wounds chased by the lash, and it was understood that a doctor had been summoned to give him attention.

Mrs. Pace lives with her mother at 137 Fort Washington ave., New York city. She recently figured in a suit brought by Mrs. Bright for alienation of her husband's affections. The case was settled out of court.

HARDING BUYS FARM

Plans to Become Gentleman Farmer When He Leaves White House

MARION, Ohio, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) When he leaves the White House, President Harding plans to return to the scenes of his early childhood to become a gentleman farmer and spend much of his time writing.

This was announced here today by the president's close home town friends, following his purchase yesterday of the farm in North Bloomfield township, Morrow county, where he was born. The purchase consists of 265½ acres and was made by French Crow, Marion postmaster and intimate friend of the president.

President Harding has told close friends that he expects to visit the farm in July and possibly sooner to plan improvements. Friends say that contemplated improvements include a modern bungalow and a golf course.

President Harding lived on the farm until he was seven years old, when his family moved to Caledonia, in Marion county, about ten miles northeast of this city.

Announcement of the president's purchase developed the fact today that Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., of Columbus, recently purchased the birthplace farm of his mother, who was a Dickerson. The old Dickerson farm, three miles south of Blooming Grove, consists of 99 acres.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS NORMAL, SAYS MELLEIN

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Secretary Mellen views present business conditions as nearly normal throughout the east, he said today on his return from the first vacation he has had since taking the treasury portfolio. His trip included visits to several important eastern industrial and commercial centers.

The general situation, the secretary described as "very satisfactory" and he added that there appeared to be an unusual amounto of free capital for investment purposes. He cited the quick absorption of recent government security issues as well as issues of stock and bonds by industrial corporations as proof of the plentiful supply of money. Credit conditions, he said, "are very good."

CURLEY BRINGS PEACE IN BUILDING TRADES

BOSTON, April 5.—Mayor James M. Curley, after four hours' work yesterday afternoon, succeeded in getting an agreement accepted by representatives of the Building Trades Employers' association and the United States Building Trades' council, by which peace in the building industry is assured in this city, until April 1, 1925, at the least.

By the agreement, the workers will receive an increase of wages of 5 cents an hour as soon as the agreement is signed and another 5 cents beginning July 1. This compromise was accepted by the men and employers when the mayor showed them that a collapse in the building program, which calls for nearly $150,000,000 worth of construction would follow a break in relations.

TORNADO DEATH TOLL NOW 20

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 5.—The death toll as a result of the tornado which, late yesterday, swept Alexandria and Pineville, was placed at 20 today. A check by the authorities developed that undertaking establishments here had the bodies of 14 white victims and six negroes.

The total injured was placed at 60, more than 30 of whom are in the United States Veterans' hospital near Pineville.

Heavy Property Damage

NEW ORLEANS, April 5—Following in the wake of an unprecedented precipitation, a tornado last night skooped down upon the little town of Pineville, La., killing fourteen persons, injuring at least 50 others and laying waste to everything within its three mile path of several hundred yards wide.

All doctors in Alexandria and Pineville, assisted by citizens of the two villages, throughout the night searched the ruins of the 50 or more house razed for the dead and injured.

Torrential rains, hail storms, swollen streams, interrupted train service and floods were reported from a number of points in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Many Injured by Storm

20 Houses Wrecked

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 5.—A tornado passed through Cass county late yesterday, wrecking 20 houses and a number of barns. No deaths or injuries were reported.

FARRAR-TELLEGEN SUIT

Justice O'Mally Grants Petition of Miss Larrimore for Stay of Proceedings

NEW YORK, April 5.—Supreme Court Justice O'Malley today granted the application of Miss Stella Larrimore for a stay of all proceedings in Geraldine Farrar's divorce suit against her actor-husband, Lou Tellegen, until April 20. The stay was sought so that Miss Larrimore, named as corespondent by Miss Farrar, might appeal from a decision denying her demand for a jury trial to determine the truth of the charge against her.

PRAISES CHURCH FOR EJECTING HOODED MEN,

NEW YORK, April 5.—Action of officials of the Bellevue, Pa., Methodist Episcopal church in ejecting 16 hooded men who entered the church in the midst of Easter services, was held up as a model for other churches to follow in an editorial in the current issue of the Christian Advocate, official organ of the denomination, published today.

"The Bellevue church is to be congratulated," says the editorial, "upon having a pastor and officials capable of dealing with such an incident with decision. A few churches have permitted the K.K.K. to advertise itself by attending the services in their disguises and have accepted the so-called 'offerings' of the klan, which might better be considered as payment for the privilege of advertising their order in the church at a time set for public worship. There have been some flagrant cases in Methodist churches. Bellevue church is the first which has treated the intrusion as it deserves. It has set a standard for every church to follow."

QUAKERS MAY AID IN FEEDING GERMANS

BERLIN, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) The arrival in Berlin of a delegation representing the American Friends Service committee of Philadelphia has given rise to the report that American Quakers may be called upon to furnish large supplies for feeding children in Germany. The committee was formerly engaged in such relief work here.

CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

On condition that he stay away from his wife and contribute $12 weekly to her support, Walter Naomi was placed in the care of the probating officer until Oct. 5 when he was found guilty of assault and battery in the district court this morning.

Josie Surarchik, who was found guilty of illegally keeping liquor some time ago and given time to pay, appeared in court again today and the time limit for the payment of a $100 fine extended to May 5, when it was learned that her husband is in an asylum and she has two children depending upon her for support. The woman is in needy circumstances, it was said, and was ordered from her home a few weeks ago for non-payment of rent.

Joanna Salek was convicted of illegal keeping on March 5 and given a month to pay a fine of $100. She paid the fine this morning and was discharged.

An illegal keeping charge against Louis Joseph was continued until Saturday due to the fact that the government witnesses were on duty in the superior court.

Daniel Murphy of Boston pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was sentenced to 10 days in the house of correction.

COAL LAW SAVED LIVES, SAYS WEBB

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 5.—No family in Rhode Island has been without coal since Jan. 12, under the system of distribution provided by an emergency coal law, according to Fuel Administrator Webb, who made a report to the governor today. The law prevented much suffering, and in many cases, death itself, declares Mr. Webb.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR MILLS HERE

LAWRENCE, April 5—Treasurer Edwin Farnham Greene of the Pacific mills, speaking before the overseers of the local mill last night, said that in spite of all the talk about southern competition, he had the highest confidence for the future of the Pacific plant here and in Dover, N. H.

Success in the southern mills has been due, not to long hours of work and low wages, but to efficient management, he said. He said that the mills here are being managed in a way that is bound to give them a bright future.

Mr. Greene declared that he believed in high wages and said that the Pacific had always paid as high wages as any other mill manufacturing similar goods.

TALKS ON SPIRITUALISM

Conan Doyle Says "An Evil Elemental" May Have Caused Carnarvon's Death

NEW YORK, April 5. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who arrived in this country yesterday to lecture on spiritualism today, expressed belief that "an evil elemental" brought into being by Egyptian occultism or the spirit of Tutenkhamen might have caused the death of Lord Carnarvon, who opened the tomb of the Egyptian Pharoah.

Sir Arthur was asked if he agreed with Miss Marie Corelli, the English novelist, who warned the explorer that it was dangerous to enter the Luxor tomb because the spirit of the Egyptian king might be angered.

"It might be a dangerous thing to dig into these old graves," admitted Sir Arthur, who claims to have conversed with the souls of those departed. "One does not know what elementals existed in those days and how long these elementals existed or what might be their force.

"The Exyptians knew a great deal more about these things than we do. If they could put these elementals on guard over their dead bodies, they certainly would have done so."

TWO STREETS BLOCKED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

An over-loaded freight train, plus the handicap of an engine that was unable to get up steam enough to pull it, effectively blocked all traffic through Merrimack and Market streets at the grade crossings for 35 minutes this morning, or from 6.15 to 6.50 o'clock. Early morning street railway service suffered considerably and only was able to resume operations when the train was cut in three sections and cars pulled away from the crossings.

The freight was being hauled from corporation yards and tracks when the blockade occurred. The conductor and crew did everything possible to relieve the congestion, but finally despaired of moving the train as a unit and broke it up to allow early morning traffic to move.

OFFICIALS OF FISHING CO. SENTENCED

BOSTON, April 5.—Sentences of 10 months each in the house of correction and fines of $1000 each were imposed today upon R. Monroe Dyer, a New York banker, and five other officials of the Bay State Fishing Co., and sentences of five months each and fines of $500 were given nine dealers indicted with them in the so-called "fish trust" cases. They were found guilty of conspiring to increase the price of fish in war time and to effect a monopoly. Sentence was ordered to begin at once.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Robert Rafferty, a boy residing at 10 Cedar court, sustained a scalp wound and an injury to his left eye last evening, when he was struck by an automobile in Gorham street. The accident occurred shortly before 7.30 o'clock and the lad was taken to St. John's hospital. The driver of the machine, was Harold F. Downs of 8 Webster street. The boy's condition is not serious.

EX-DRY OFFICER INDICTED

PORTLAND, Me., April 5.—Two indictments were found against John F. Wood of Auburn, a former federal prohibition enforcement agent, by the federal grand jury which reported today. He was charged with the theft of alcohol from a storage room in the postoffice at Auburn, and unlawful possession. He has been confined in jail here since his arrest several days ago.

DEPRIVED OF $2,000,000

NEW YORK, April 5.—Alleging they were being deprived of more than $2,000,000 left them by the will of John Sanford Saltus, who died last June in London, three residuary heirs today asked the surrogate's court to compel the executors, William Allen Butler and Estelle E. Campbell, of this city, to make a final distribution.

Farmers Flay Sugar Pirates

Continued

American pocketbook. They will not be satisfied with excuses and they will not tolerate delays. They will easily identify the officials who may be responsible for the escape of the malefactors and they will remember them at the polls in November of next year.

WASHINGTON, April 5. Present prices of sugar were laid wholly at the door of the refiners today by Acting Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, who issued a statement declaring the refining interests hoped to get a tariff low enough to destroy the American producing industry and bring the control of every pound of the commodity into their hands.

Senator Smoot said he hoped for an early investigation of sugar prices and suggested that the tariff commission call as its first witness Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who is the ranking democrat on the committee and who has blamed the tariff for the present situation.

NOTICE

Will the person who received a blue crepe skirt by mistake Saturday evening, March 17, please return same to Miss M. J. Henry, 145 Merrimack st., ago as to avoid further trouble.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 5.—Mixed price changes took place at the opening of today's stock market, but the main tendency appeared to be upward. The cans, copper, equipments and a number of oils and rails, notably Royal Dutch, Pacific Oil, California Petroleum, Shell Union, Baltimore & Ohio and Great Northern preferred, went to higher ground. Willys Overland preferred, International Agricultural Corporation preferred and Cerro de Pasco each dropped a point and Westinghouse Electric yielded fractionally. Du Pont sold a point higher.

DuPont extended its gain to 2 points and Auto Knitter Hosiery advanced a point in anticipation of an initial dividend in the near future. Gulf States Steel rose 1¼ points but most of the other gains in the industrial groups were of a fractional character. Market Street Railway prior preferred advanced 1½ points on reports that progress was being made in the negotiations for the sale of its properties to the city of San Francisco. International Harvester, Tobacco Products A and American Agricultural Chemical preferred, each fell back a point. Foreign exchanges opened firm. Demand sterling advanced ¼ of a cent to $4.66 15-16th and French francs advanced 6 points to 6.56 cents.

Sustained pressure against investment railroad shares, many of which sagged 1 to 2 points, caused a highly irregular movement during the morning. Accumulation of other shares was temporarily suspended while the market was digesting the offerings of railroad stocks. Before mid-day, however, the general trend became definitely upward again under the stimulus of active bidding for equipments and other industrial favorites. Market Street Railway shares were buoyant, the common rising 2½ points, second preferred 6 and prior preferred 4½. Other gains included United Railways investment preferred 3, Mack Truck 2⅜ to a new high, and American Can, American Locomotive, Famous Players, Auto Knitter, American Water Works and Electric 4 per cent. preferred and General Tire & Rubber 2 each. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

The closing was firm. Prices held up well in the late afternoon, despite the active liquidation of Virginia-Carolina Chemical issues which dropped to new low prices for the year, the common losing 1⅜ and the preferred six points. Air Production, up 3, was one of the late features.

"MONOPOLY" OF MINE LABOR

Special Committee Attacks Policies Followed by United Mine Workers

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A special committee speaking for the bituminous coal operators, informed the coal commission in a brief filed today, that in their opinion the policies followed by the United Mine Workers of America constituted the chief deterrent to satisfactory conditions in the coal industry.

Recent periods of coal shortage and high prices, the brief declared, could be "directly traced" to the miners' union and the railway unions associated with it. It was charged that acts of intimidation and violence on the part of the United Mine Workers "are no sporadic, but systematic" and that the resort to such methods is calculated to perperate a monopoly of mine labor.

H. L. Stimson, former secretary of war, and G. M. Dorr, as counsel for the coal operators, prepared the brief, which asked the coal commission to give the employers an opportunity at open hearings to prove their charges.

To the brief setting forth the committee's charges and general conclusions was attached a full statement of a series of labor controversies including those at Herrin, Ills., in West Virginia, Ohio, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Utah. Responsibility for these outbreaks, the committee charged, lies squarely with the mine workers' union.

"It is a tale of massacre, arson and insurrection," the statement said of these, vitally important in their aspect of weapons of attack used by the United Mine Workers of America in its effort to monopolize mine labor. To effect that monopolistic purpose a system has been created which forbids under perils of death, any man from working in a mine unless he is a member of that organization and submits to deductions from his pay of dues and assessments, which it exacts; which seeks to destroy any organization of mine laborers other than itself; which seeks to drive out of the industry by violence and destruction any operator who is unwilling to limit his employes to members of this organization; which seeks to obstruct or overawe any effort of civil authority to enforce the law against violence.

"Acts of intimidation and violence to extend and preserve this monopoly of the United Mine Workers are not sporadic but systematic; they are not accidental outbursts of mob violence but calculated lawlessness inspired by a false loyalty to a centralized system and its tenets. They flame up from the fundamental determination of this organization that no one shall be permitted to mine coal in an organized district, or one under attack, without its leave."

William J. Allard, the 20-year-old Lowell youth, charged in the local district court of feloniously assaulting Blanche Richardson of Chelmsford in a Middlesex street lodging-house on the evening of March 15, has been indicted on more than one count by the Middlesex county grand jury in session at East Cambridge.

Among the witnesses who appeared and testified for the government were Supt. of Police Thomas R. Atkinson, City Physician Michael A. Tighe and Police Officer Thomas McGreevey.

Allard was found guilty of feloniously assaulting the Richardson girl, in the local district court following his arrest by Officer McGreevey at 533 Middlesex street, to which place he is alleged to have lured the girl and committed the assault. A melodramatic note, written by the girl and appealing for help led to his apprehension. At the conclusion of the trial in the lower court, he was ordered held in $5000 bonds for the grand jury.

Gwendolyn Marshall Field Married

LONDON, April 5.(By the Associated Press)—Gwendolyn Marshall Field, granddaughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, was married this afternoon to Archibaldd Charles Edmonstone, heir of Sir Archibald Edmonstone. The ceremony in the church of St. Martin-in-the-Field here was followed by a reception at Mallhouse, home of the bride's aunt, Countess Beatty.

"Babe" Goes Miles to See Bed-Ridden Boy

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 5.—"Babe" Ruth, the Yankee slugger, went seven miles into the country here yesterday to see a small boy who during a long illness, had been asking in his prayers each night that he be made well enough to see "Babe" when the New York club came to Vicksburg. When a sympathetic neighbor told Ruth about the lad, "Babe" immediately asked for an automobile to take him to see the bed-ridden little fellow. Ruth spent an hour with him.

Bandits Hold Up R. R. Men; Take Whiskey

CHICAGO, April 5.—Four armed bandits held up a dozen railroad employes today while four confederates loaded a truck with whiskey taken from a carload of lettuce. The robbery occurred in the down town freight yards of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Prohibition Hits Constantinople Saturday

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Constantinople has three more days in which to quench its thirst, for the local authorities have postponed until Saturday the enforcement of the prohibition decree. Meanwhile, the streets are blocked with porters, cabs, carriages and automobiles laden with liquid cheer, which is offered at top prices.

Julius Martow, Social Revolutionary, Dead

BERLIN, April 5.—Julius Martow, the veteran social revolutionary who was a leader among Russian social democrats outside Russia in opposing the soviet regime, died yesterday in a sanitarium in the Black Forest. He was being treated for a laryngeal complaint. Martow belonged to that generation of Russian socialists which, with Nikolai Lenine and others, founded the social democratic party in Russia. He was 50 years old.

Move to End Herrin Riot Case This Week

MARION, Ill., April 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Trial of the six defendants charged with murder during the Herrin riots gathered impetus today as attorneys for the state and defense joined in an attempt to get the case before the jury by Saturday. Twenty-five witnesses were on the stand yesterday, testifying to alibis for three of the defendants.

Setback For Women's Rights

PANAMA, April 5.—The movement for women's rights suffered its first setback yesterday when the national assembly rejected a bill giving women permission to practice law.

CENTENARY DAY AT N. E. METHODIST CONFERENCE

HOLYOKE, April 5.—Centenary day at the New England Methodist conference today was devoted largely to addresses by leaders in centenary work. Reports were read by District Supt. Charles E. Spaulding of the Worcester district and C. Oscar Ford of the Springfield district. Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, presiding, stressed the need of prayer in daily life in his devotional address.

Morris W. Ehnes, treasurer of the committee on world service and advance, discussed the world service program of the church, saying that it showed a need for $28,000,000 for legitimate benevolent purposes, and that $18,500,000 will be apportioned to the churches. Under the church's centenary benevolent program, carried on for the last four years, the denomination has averaged $15,000,000 annually for benevolent purposes.

The funds regularly apportioned will be divided as follows: Board of foreign missions, and board of home missions, $6,800,000 each; board of education, $1,500,000; board of education for negroes, $760,000; board of Sunday schools, $600,000; Epworth league, $175,000; American Bible society, $200,000; board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, $250,000; board of deaconesses, $90,000; board of hospitals and homes, $175,000; board of conference claimants, $150,000; other causes, $1,000,000.

Dr. William S. Bovard, corresponding secretary of the board of Sunday schools, spoke on "Strengthening the Local Church."

Outdoor Mass Feature of American Legion's Memorial Day Program

On the morning of May 30 at 10 o'clock, an outdoor military mass, the second in the history of the city, will be celebrated on the South common in connection with the Memorial day program of the local post of the American Legion. Rev. William F. Mahan, O.M.I. of the Sacred Heart church and chaplain of the Lowell Post of the Legion will have charge of the service, and it is certain that under his capable direction, the citizens of Lowell will witness an inspiring and impressive ceremony.

The first military mass in this city was celebrated two years ago, 1921, and this also was in charge of Rev. Fr. Mahan. This year the beloved chaplain is planning the event on a more elaborate scale and hopes to have as the principal speaker, the famous Father Duffy, chaplain of the old Fighting 69th regiment of New York and a hero of the World war. It is also expected that the occasion will be graced with the presence of His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, although neither he nor Fr. Duffy have formally accepted the invitation as yet.

According to tentative plans now in process of arrangement, the altar will be erected on the Thorndike street side of the wading pool and will be decorated by the gold star mothers of the city. The decorations will consist of bouquets of flowers for every Lowell boy who paid the supreme sacrifice, while the flag which draped their caskets on the final journey home, will also adorn the sacred scene.

Music will be rendered by a choir of 500 mixed voices representing practically every church choir in the city. A band will furnish memorial music, drums will roll at the elevation of the host, and a salvo from Battery B will sound taps at the conclusion of the mass. A sanctuary area will be marked off for the clergy, while members of the G.A.R. will occupy special reservations. All semi-military organizations will be invited to participate.

A parade will precede the celebration of the mass. Members of Lowell Post of the American Legion will assemble at the Memorial Auditorium and the semi-military organizations will be requested to meet there also.

Assisting Fr. Mahan in the arrangements are Capt. George Paneuf of Battery B and Robert A. Ghilvan of the Legion. The mass will be solemn high.

CONVENTION DELEGATE

Believed That Well Known Lowell Hibernian Will Go to Montreal

Lowell Hibernians are all agog over the candidacy of John Barrett for delegate to the International convention in Montreal next August and indications point today to the county convention naming the popular Hibernian leader on Sunday next in Newton.

John Barrett's candidacy has received the endorsement of the three local divisions of Hibernians, and the

JOHN BARRETT

Central council, A.O.H., and advices from other ends of the county indicate his election beyond a doubt. Mr. Barrett's interest in Hibernian matters locally alone ought to earn for him the preferment at the hands of his colleagues. Early and late, in sunshine and rain, John Barrett has labored for the cause of Hibernianism. He has served in various official capacities, is regarded as one of the best authorities on the history of the order and in fact has written quite interestingly on the development of Division 8, A.O.H. As secretary of the St. Patrick's day convention for years, he was faithful and his records always were comprehensive and interesting. Few men have labored more zealously than he in every undertaking and the enthusiasm over his candidacy at A.O.H. headquarters is a fine index of the high regard entertained for his worth as an able member of the order.

The convention on Sunday will be presided over by County President Thomas F. Linehan and an impressive feature of the deliberations will be an address in eulogy of the late Michael J. Monahan by Mr. Barrett. No man in Hibernian circles was closer or dearer to the deceased president of the Central council than Mr. Barrett and hence it is eminently fitting that he be selected to give expression to the great loss Hibernianism has experienced in the passing of his friend and colleague.

Local representatives to the Newton convention are as follows:

In addition to the above, quite a few prominent Hibernians will make the trip and it is expected that Mayor Donovan, Thomas Healey, John Tully, Joseph Garrity, Michael Harrington, James Barrett and others will rally to the Barrett cause and see that the genial John Barrett comes through with flying colors. In fact there appears to be a fine organization lined up for the local man.
